CONSTITUTION

OF THE FEDERATIVE REPUBLIC OF BRAZIL¹

PREAMBLE

We, the representatives of the Brazilian People, convened in the National Constituent Assembly to institute a democratic state for the purpose of ensuring the exercise of social and individual rights, liberty, security, well-being, development, equality and justice as supreme values of a fraternal, pluralist and unprejudiced society, founded on social harmony and committed, in the internal and international orders, to the peaceful settlement of disputes, promulgate, under the protection of God, this Constitution of the Federative Republic of Brazil.

1. Editor's note: The alterations deriving from the Constitutional Amendments (CA) and from the Revision Constitutional Amendments (RCA) have already been incorporated into the main text. The modifying amendments are mentioned in parentheses at the end of the head paragraph of altered articles. Other pieces of information are indicated by numbered footnotes.

TITLE I – FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

Article 1. The Federative Republic of Brazil, formed by the indissoluble union of the States and Municipalities and of the Federal District, is a legal democratic state and is founded on:

- I – sovereignty;
- II – citizenship;
- III – the dignity of the human person;
- IV – the social values of labour and of the free enterprise;
- V – political pluralism.

Sole paragraph. All power emanates from the people, who exercise it by means of elected representatives or directly, as provided by this Constitution.

Article 2. The Legislative, the Executive and the Judicial, independent and harmonious among themselves, are the powers of the Union.

Article 3. The fundamental objectives of the Federative Republic of Brazil are:

- I – to build a free, just and solidary society;
- II – to guarantee national development;
- III – to eradicate poverty and substandard living conditions and to reduce social and regional inequalities;
- IV – to promote the well-being of all, without prejudice as to origin, race, sex, colour, age and any other forms of discrimination.

Article 4. The international relations of the Federative Republic of Brazil are governed by the following principles:

- I – national independence;
- II – prevalence of human rights;
- III – self-determination of the peoples;
- IV – non-intervention;
- V – equality among the States;
- VI – defense of peace;
- VII – peaceful settlement of conflicts;
- VIII – repudiation of terrorism and racism;
- IX – cooperation among peoples for the progress of mankind;
- X – granting of political asylum.

Sole paragraph. The Federative Republic of Brazil shall seek the economic, political, social and cultural integration of the peoples of Latin America, viewing the formation of a Latin-American community of nations.

Chapter V – The Federal District and the Territories

Section I – The Federal District

Article 32. The Federal District, which may not be divided into Municipalities, shall be governed by an organic law, voted in two readings, with a minimum interval of ten days, and approved by two-thirds of the Legislative Chamber, which shall enact it, in accordance with the principles set forth in this Constitution.

Paragraph 1. The legislative powers reserved to the States and Municipalities are attributed to the Federal District.

Paragraph 2. The election of the Governor and the Vice-Governor, complying with the rules of article 77, and of the District Deputies shall coincide with that of the State Governors and Deputies, for a term of office of the same duration.

Paragraph 3. The provisions of article 27 apply to the District Deputies and the Legislative Chamber.

Paragraph 4. A federal law shall provide for the use, by the Government of the Federal District, of the civil and military polices and the military fire brigade.

Section II – The Territories

Article 33. The law shall provide for the administrative and judicial organization of the Territories.

Paragraph 1. The Territories may be divided into Municipalities, to which the provisions of Chapter IV of this Title shall be applied, insofar as pertinent.

Paragraph 2. The accounts of the Government of the Territory shall be submitted to the National Congress, with the prior opinion of the Federal Audit Court.

Paragraph 3. In the federal Territories with over a hundred thousand inhabitants, in addition to the Governor, appointed as set forth in this Constitution, there shall be judicial agencies of first and second instances, members of the Public Prosecution and Federal Public Legal Defenders; the law shall provide for the elections to the Territory Chamber and its decision-making powers.

Chapter VI – Intervention

Article 34. The Union shall not intervene in the States or in the Federal District, except: (CA No. 14, 1996; CA No. 29, 2000)

I – to maintain national integrity;

II – to repel foreign invasion or that of one unit of the Federation into another;

III – to put an end to serious jeopardy to public order;

IV – to guarantee the free exercise of any of the powers of the units of the Federation;

V – to reorganize the finances of a unit of the Federation that:

a) stops the payment of its funded debt for more than two consecutive years, except for reasons of force majeure;

b) fails to deliver to the Municipalities the tax revenues established in this Constitution, within the periods of time set forth by law;

VI – to provide for the enforcement of federal law, judicial order or decision;

VII – to ensure compliance with the following constitutional principles:

a) republican form, representative system and democratic regime;

b) rights of the human person;

c) Municipal autonomy;

d) rendering of accounts of the direct and indirect public administration;

e) the application of the minimum required amount of the revenues resulting from state taxes, including revenues originating from transfers, to the maintenance and development of education and to health actions and public services.

Article 35. The State shall not intervene in its Municipalities, neither the Union in the Municipalities located in a federal Territory, except when: (CA No. 29, 2000)

II – the due accounts are not rendered, in the manner prescribed by law;

III – the minimum required amount of the Municipal revenues has not been applied to the maintenance and development of education and to health actions and public services;

IV – the Court of Justice grants a petition to ensure observance of the principles indicated in the State Constitution or to provide for the enforcement of the law, judicial order or decision.

Article 36. The issuance of a decree of intervention shall depend: (CA No. 45, 2004)

I – on a request from the coerced or impeded Legislative or Executive Power, or on a requisition from the Federal Supreme Court, if the coercion is exercised against the Judicial Power, in the case of article 34, item IV;

II – in case of disobedience to a judicial order or decision, on a requisition from the Federal Supreme Court, the Superior Court of Justice or the Superior Electoral Court;

III – on the granting of a petition from the Attorney-General of the Republic by the Federal Supreme Court, in the case of article 34, item VII, and in the case of refusal to enforce a federal law;

IV – (revoked).

Paragraph 1. The decree of intervention, which shall specify the extent, the period and the conditions of enforcement and which, if pertinent, shall appoint the intervenor, shall be submitted to the National Congress or the State Legislative Assembly for consideration, within twenty-four hours.

Paragraph 2. If the National Congress or the Legislative Assembly are not in session, a special session shall be called within the same twenty-four hours.

Paragraph 3. In the case of article 34, items VI and VII, or article 35, item IV, when the consideration by the National Congress or the Legislative Assembly may be waived, the decree shall be limited to suspending the enforcement of the impugned act, if such measure suffices to restore normality.

Paragraph 4. Upon cessation of the reasons that caused the intervention, the authorities removed from their offices shall return to them, unless there is some legal impediment.

Chapter VII – Public Administration

Section I – General Provisions

Article 37. The governmental entities and entities owned by the Government in any of the powers of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall obey the principles of lawfulness, impersonality, morality, publicity, and efficiency, and also the following: (CA No. 18, 1998; CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 34, 2001; CA No. 41, 2003; CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 47, 2005)

Section II – Government Employees (CA No. 18, 1998)

Article 39. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall institute a board of administration policy and personnel remuneration policy, composed of public employees appointed by the respective Branches. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Paragraph 1. The stipulation of pay levels and of other components of the remuneration system shall comply with:

I – the nature, the level of responsibility, and the complexity of the posts of each career;

II – the requirements for investiture;

III – the specific characteristics of each post.

Paragraph 2. The Union, the States, and the Federal District shall establish government schools for the education and further development of public employees, and participation in such courses shall be one of the requirements for promotion in the career, the signing of agreements or contracts among federated units being therefore allowed.

Paragraph 3. The provisions of article 7, items IV, VII, VIII, IX, XII, XIII, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, XIX, XX, XXII, and XXX shall apply to employees holding public offices, and the law may stipulate differentiated requirements for admission when the nature of the office so demands. Paragraph 4. A member of one of the Branches, the holder of an elective office, the Ministers of State, and the members of State and Local Cabinets shall be remunerated exclusively by means of a compensation consisting of one sole item, the addition of any extra benefit, additional pay, bonus, award, representation allowance, or other type of remuneration being forbidden, with due regard, in any of the cases, for the provisions of article 37, items X and XI.

Paragraph 5. The legislation of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities may establish the proportion between the highest and the lowest remuneration of public employees, with due regard, in any of the cases, for the provision of article 37, item XI.

Paragraph 6. The Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches shall publish the amounts of the compensation and of the remuneration of public offices and positions each year.

Paragraph 7. The legislation of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall regulate the utilization of the budgetary funds deriving from savings in current expenditures in each agency, associate government agency and foundation, to be used in the development of programs of quality and productivity, training and development, modernization, re-equipping and rationalization of public services, including as additional pay or productivity award.

Paragraph 8. The remuneration of public employees organized in a career may be established under the terms of paragraph 4.

Article 40. Employees holding effective posts in the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, therein included their associate government agencies and foundations, are ensured of a social security scheme on a contributory and solidary basis, with contributions from the respective public entity, from the current employees, retired personnel, and pensioners, with due regard for criteria that preserve financial and actuarial balance and for the provisions of this article. (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 41, 2003; CA No. 47, 2005; CA No. 88, 2015)

Paragraph 1. The employees covered by the social security scheme set forth in this article shall go into retirement, their pensions being calculated according to the amounts stipulated under the terms of paragraphs 3 and 17:

I – for permanent disability, with a pension in proportion to the period of contribution, except when such disability results from a work-related injury, a professional disease, or a serious, contagious, or incurable illness, under the terms of the law;

II – compulsorily, with a pension proportional to the period of contribution, at the age of 70 (seventy), or at the age of 75 (seventy five), as provided in supplementary law;

III – voluntarily, upon completing at least ten years of effective exercise in public administration and five years in the effective post from which retirement is going to take place, with due regard for the following conditions:

- a) sixty years of age and thirty-five of contribution, if a man, and fifty-five years of age and thirty of contribution, if a woman;
- b) sixty-five years of age, if a man, and sixty, if a woman, with pay in proportion to the period of contribution.

Paragraph 2. At the time they are granted, retirement pensions and other pensions may not exceed the remuneration of the respective employee in the effective post from which he retired or which was taken as a parameter for the granting of the pension.

Paragraph 3. The calculation of the retirement pension, at the time retirement is granted, shall take into account the remunerations used as basis for the contributions of the employee to the social security schemes mentioned in this article and in article 201, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. The adoption of differentiated requirements and criteria for the granting of retirement to those covered by the scheme set forth in this article is forbidden, with the exception of the cases, as defined by supplementary laws, of employees:

I – with disabilities;

II – engaged in hazardous activities;

III – engaged in activities carried out under special conditions which are harmful to health or to physical wholeness.

Paragraph 5. The requirements concerning age and period of contribution will be reduced by five years, as regards the provision of paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, for teachers who document exclusively a period of effective exercise of teaching functions in children education and in elementary and secondary education.

Paragraph 6. With the exception of the cases of retirement from posts that can be accumulated under the terms of this Constitution, receiving more than one retirement pension charged to the social security scheme set forth in this article is forbidden.

Paragraph 7. The law shall provide for the granting of the benefit of a death pension, which will be equal to: I – the total amount of the retirement pension of the deceased employee, up to the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201, increased by seventy percent of the amount in excess of this limit, if the employee had already retired on the date of his death; or

II – the total amount of the remuneration of the employee in the effective post he was holding on the date of his death, up to the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201, increased by seventy percent of the amount in excess of this limit, if the employee was in active service on the date of his death.

Paragraph 8. Readjustment of the benefits is ensured, to the end that their real value is permanently maintained, in accordance with criteria established by law.

Paragraph 9. The period of contribution in a federal, state, or Municipal post shall be computed for the purpose of retirement, and the corresponding period of service shall be computed for the purpose of placement on paid availability.

Paragraph 10. The law may not establish any method of computation of fictitious periods of contribution.

Paragraph 11. The limit set forth in article 37, item XI, applies to the total amount of the retirement pension and other pensions, including those resulting from the accumulation of public posts or positions, as well as from other activities which must contribute to the general social security scheme, and to the amount resulting from the addition of pensions and the remuneration of a post which may be accumulated under the terms of this Constitution, a commission office declared by law as being of free appointment and discharge, and an elective office.

Paragraph 12. In addition to the provisions of this article, the social security scheme of government employees who hold effective posts shall comply, whenever appropriate, with the requirements and criteria stipulated for the general social security scheme.

Paragraph 13. The general social security scheme applies to employees who hold exclusively commission offices declared by law as being of free appointment and discharge, as well as other temporary posts or public positions.

Paragraph 14. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, provided that they establish a complementary social security scheme for their respective employees who hold effective posts, may stipulate, for the amount of retirement pensions and other pensions to be granted by the scheme referred to in this article, the maximum limit set forth for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201.

Paragraph 15. The complementary social security scheme referred to in paragraph 14 shall be instituted by an act of the respective Executive Power, with due regard for the provisions of article 202 and its paragraphs, insofar as pertinent, through closed private pension plan companies, of a public nature, which will offer to their respective participants benefit plans exclusively in the defined contribution mode.

Paragraph 16. The provisions of paragraphs 14 and 15 may be applied to an employee who has entered public administration on or before the date of publication of the act which instituted the corresponding complementary social security scheme only if such employee has previously expressed such option.

Paragraph 17. All remuneration amounts taken into account in the calculation of the benefit set forth in paragraph 3 shall be duly updated, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 18. A contribution shall be levied on retirement pensions and other pensions granted by the scheme referred to in this article if such pensions exceed the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme mentioned in article 201, at a percentage equal to the one established for employees holding effective posts.

Paragraph 19. Employees referred to in this article who have fulfilled the requirements for voluntary retirement stipulated in paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, and who choose to remain working shall be entitled to a continuous activity bonus equivalent to the amount of their social security contribution until such date as they fulfill the requirements for compulsory retirement set forth in paragraph 1, item II.

Paragraph 20. The establishment of more than one special social security scheme for employees holding effective posts, and of more than one unit to manage the respective scheme in each State is forbidden, except for the provision of article 142, paragraph 3, item X.

Paragraph 21. The contribution set forth in paragraph 18 of this article shall be levied only on the portions of retirement pensions and other pensions which exceed an amount equal to twice the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme mentioned in article 201 of this Constitution, if the beneficiaries, under the terms of the law, suffer from incapacitating diseases.

Article 41. Servants who, by virtue of public entrance examinations, are appointed to effective posts, acquire tenure after three years of actual service. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Paragraph 1. A tenured public employee shall only lose his office:

I – by virtue of a final and unappealable judicial decision;
II – by means of an administrative proceeding, in which he is assured of ample defense;

III – by means of a procedure of periodical appraisal of performance, under the terms of a supplementary law, ample defense being assured.

Paragraph 2. If the dismissal of a tenured public employee is voided by a judicial decision, he shall be reinstated, and the occupant of the vacancy, when tenured, shall be led back to his original office, with no right to indemnity, taken to another office or placed on paid availability with a remuneration proportional to his length of employment.

Paragraph 3. If the office is declared extinct or unnecessary, a tenured public employee shall remain on availability, with a remuneration proportional to his length of employment, until he is adequately placed in another office.

Paragraph 4. As a requirement to acquire tenure, a special appraisal of performance by a committee created for this purpose is mandatory.

Section III – The Military of the States, of the Federal District and of the Territories (CA No. 18, 1998)

Article 42. The members of the Military Police and of the Military Fire Brigades, institutions whose organization is based on hierarchy and discipline, are military of the States, of the Federal District and of the Territories. (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 18, 1998; CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 41, 2003)

Paragraph 1. The provisions of article 14, paragraph 8; article 40, paragraph 9; and of article 142, paragraphs 2 and 3, apply to the military of the States, of the Federal District, and of the Territories, in addition to other provisions that the law may establish, it being incumbent upon specific State legislation to provide for the matters of article 142, paragraph 3, item X, the ranks of the officers being awarded by the respective State Governors.

Paragraph 2. The provisions that may be established by a specific act of the respective State shall apply to the pensioners of the military of the States, of the Federal District, and of the Territories.

Section IV – The Regions

Article 43. For administrative purposes, the Union may coordinate its action in one same social and geoeconomic complex, seeking to attain its development and to reduce regional inequalities.

Paragraph 1. A supplementary law shall provide for:

I – the conditions for the integration of developing regions;

II – the composition of the regional agencies which shall carry out, as provided by law, the regional plans included in the national social and economic development plans approved concurrently.

Paragraph 2. The regional incentives shall include, besides others, as prescribed by law:

I – equality of tariffs, freight rates, insurance and other cost and price items which are within the responsibility of the Government;

II – favoured interest rates for the financing of priority activities;

III – exemptions, reductions or temporary deferment of federal taxes owed by individuals or by legal entities;

IV – priority in the economic and social use of rivers and dammed or dammable water masses in low-income regions subject to periodical droughts.

Paragraph 3. In the areas referred to in paragraph 2, item IV, the Union shall grant incentives to the recovery of arid lands and shall cooperate with small and medium-size rural landowners in the implementing of water sources and small-scale irrigation in their tracts of land.

TITLE IV – THE ORGANIZATION OF THE POWERS

Chapter I – The Legislative Power

Section I – The National Congress

Article 44. The Legislative Power is exercised by the National Congress, which is composed of the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate.

Sole paragraph. Each legislative term shall have the duration of four years.

Article 45. The Chamber of Deputies is composed of representatives of the people, elected, by the proportional system, in each State, Territory and in the Federal District.

Paragraph 1. The total number of Deputies, as well as the representation of the States and of the Federal District shall be established by a supplementary law, in proportion to the population, and the necessary adjustments shall be made in the year preceding the elections, so that none of those units of the Federation has less than eight or more than seventy Deputies.

Paragraph 2. Each Territory shall elect four Deputies.

Article 46. The Federal Senate is composed of representatives of the States and of the Federal District, elected by a majority vote.

Paragraph 1. Each State and the Federal District shall elect three Senators for a term of office of eight years.

Paragraph 2. One-third and two-thirds of the representation of each State and of the Federal District shall be renewed every four years, alternately.

Paragraph 3. Each Senator shall be elected with two substitutes.

Article 47. Except where there is a constitutional provision to the contrary, the decisions of each House and of their committees shall be taken by a majority vote, when the absolute majority of its members is present.

Section II – Powers of the National Congress

Article 48. The National Congress shall have the power, with the sanction of the President of the Republic, which shall not be required for the matters specified in articles 49, 51 and 52, to provide for all the matters within the competence of the Union and especially on: (CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 32, 2001; CA No. 41, 2003; CA No. 69, 2012)

I – system of taxation, collection of taxes and income distribution;

XIII – to choose two-thirds of the members of the Federal Audit Court;

XIV – to approve initiatives of the Executive Power referring to nuclear activities;

XV – to authorize a referendum and to call a plebiscite;

XVI – to authorize, in Indian lands, the exploitation and use of hydric resources and the prospecting and mining of mineral resources;

XVII – to give prior approval to the disposal or concession of public lands with an area of over two thousand and five hundred hectares.

Article 50. The Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate, or any of their committees, may summon a Minister of State or any chief officers of agencies directly subordinate to the Presidency of the Republic to personally render information on a previously determined matter, and this absence without adequate justification shall constitute a crime of malversation: (RCA No. 2, 1994) Paragraph 1. The Ministers of State may attend the Federal Senate, the Chamber of Deputies or any of their committees, on their own initiative and by agreement with the respective Directing Board, to report on a matter of relevance to their Ministry.

Paragraph 2. The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate may forward to the Ministers of State, or any of the persons mentioned in the head paragraph of this article, written requests for information, and refusal or non-compliance, within a period of thirty days, as well as the rendering of false information, shall constitute a crime of malversation.

Section III – The Chamber of Deputies

Article 51. It is exclusively the competence of the Chamber of Deputies: (CA No. 19, 1998)

I – to authorize, by two-thirds of its members, legal proceeding to be initiated against the President and the Vice-President of the Republic and the Ministers of State;

- c) Governor of a Territory;
- d) president and directors of the Central Bank;
- e) Attorney-General of the Republic;
- f) holders of other offices, as the law may determine;

IV – to give prior approval, by secret voting, after closed hearing, on the selection of heads of permanent diplomatic missions;

V – to authorize foreign transactions of a financial nature, of the interest of the Union, the States, the Federal District, the Territories and the Municipalities;

VI – to establish, as proposed by the President of the Republic, total limits for the entire amount of the consolidated debt of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities;

VII – to provide for the total limits and conditions for foreign and domestic credit transactions of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities, of their autonomous Government entities and other entities controlled by the Federal Government;

VIII – to provide for limits and conditions for the concession of a guarantee by the Union in foreign and domestic credit transactions;

IX – to establish total limits and conditions for the entire amount of the debt of the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities;

X – to stop the application, in full or in part, of a law declared unconstitutional by final decision of the Federal Supreme Court;

XI – to approve, by absolute majority and by secret voting, the removal from office of the Attorney-General of the Republic before the end of his term of office;

XII – to draw up its internal regulations;

XIII – to provide for its organization, functioning, police, creation, change or abolishment of offices, positions and functions of its services, and the introduction of a law for the establishment of their respective remuneration, taking into account the guidelines set forth in the law of budgetary directives;

XIV – to elect the members of the Council of the Republic, as established in article 89, item VII;

XV – to carry out a regular assessment of the functionality of the National Tax System, as regards its structure and components, as well as the performance of the tax administrations of the Union, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities.

Sole paragraph. In the cases provided for in items I and II, the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court shall act as President and the sentence, which may only be issued by two-thirds of the votes of the Federal Senate, shall be limited to the loss of office with disqualification to hold any public office for a period of eight years, without prejudice to other applicable judicial sanctions.

Section V – Deputies and Senators

Article 53. Deputies and Senators enjoy civil and criminal inviolability on account of any of their opinions, words and votes. (CA No. 35, 2001)

Paragraph 1. Deputies and Senators, from the date of issuance of the certificate of election victory, shall be tried by the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 2. From the date of issuance of the certificate of election victory, the members of the National Congress may not be arrested, except in flagrante delicto of a non-bailable offense. In such case, the case records shall be sent within twenty-four hours to the respective House, which, by the vote of the majority of its members, shall decide on the arrest.

Paragraph 3. Upon receiving an accusation against a Senator or Deputy, for an offense committed after the issuance of the certificate of election victory, the Federal Supreme Court shall inform the respective House, which, by the initiative of a political party therein represented and by the vote of the majority of those House members, may, until such time as a final decision is issued, stay consideration of the action.

Paragraph 4. The request for stay shall be examined by the respective House within the unextendable period of forty-five days as from its receipt by the Directing Board.

Paragraph 5. The stay of proceedings shall suspend the limitation for the duration of the term of office.

Paragraph 6. Deputies and Senators shall not be compelled to render testimony on information received or given by virtue of the exercise of their mandate, nor on persons who rendered them information or received information from them.

Paragraph 7. Incorporation into the Armed Forces of Deputies and Senators, even if they hold military rank and even in time of war shall depend upon the prior granting of permission by the respective House.

Paragraph 8. The immunities of Deputies and Senators shall be maintained during a state of siege and may only be suspended by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the respective House, in the case of acts committed outside the premises of Congress, which are not compatible with the implementation of such measure.

Article 54. Deputies and Senators may not:

I – after the issuance of their certificate of electoral victory:

- a) sign or maintain a contract with a public legal entity, autonomous Government agency, public company, mixed-capital company or public utility company, unless the contract is in accordance with uniform clauses;
- b) accept or hold a paid office, function or position including those from which they may be dismissed ad nutum in the entities mentioned in the preceding subitem;

II – after taking office:

- a) be the owners, controllers or directors of a company which enjoys benefits arising from a contract with a public legal entity or perform a remunerated position therein;

- b) hold an office or function from which they may be dismissed ad nutum, in the entities mentioned in item I, subitem a;
- c) act as lawyer in a cause in which any of the entities referred to in item I, subitem a, has an interest;
- d) be the holders of more than one public elective position or office.

Article 55. A Deputy or Senator shall lose his office: (RCA No. 6, 1994; CA No. 76, 2013)

I – if he violates any of the prohibitions established in the preceding article;

II – if his conduct is declared incompatible with parliamentary decorum;

III – if he fails to appear, in each legislative session, at one-third of the regular sessions of the House to which he belongs, except for a leave of absence or a mission authorized by the House concerned;

IV – if his political rights have been lost or suspended;

V – whenever decreed by the Electoral Courts, in the cases established in this Constitution;

VI – if he is criminally convicted by a final and unappealable sentence.

Paragraph 1. Abuse of the prerogatives ensured to a Congressman or the gaining of undue advantages, in addition to the cases defined in the internal regulations, is incompatible with parliamentary decorum.

Paragraph 2. In the cases of items I, II and VI, loss of office shall be declared by the Chamber of Deputies or the Federal Senate, by absolute majority, on the initiative of the respective Directing Board or of a political party represented in the National Congress, full defense being ensured.

Paragraph 3. In the cases set forth in items III to V, the loss shall be declared by the Directing Board of the respective House, ex officio or upon the initiative of any of its members, or of a political party represented in the National Congress, full defense being ensured.

Paragraph 4. The resignation of a Congressman submitted to a legal suit that aims at or may lead to loss of mandate, under the provisions of this article, will have its effects suspended until the final deliberations mentioned in paragraphs 2 and 3.

Article 56. A Deputy or Senator shall not lose his office:

I – if vested with the office of Minister of State, Governor of a Territory, Secretary of a State, of the Federal District, of a Territory, of a State capital or head of a temporary diplomatic mission;

II – if on leave of absence from the respective House, by virtue of illness or, without remuneration, to attend to private matters, provided that, in this case, the absence does not exceed one hundred and twenty days per legislative session.

Paragraph 1. The substitute shall be called in cases of vacancy, of investiture in the functions set forth in this article or of leave of absence exceeding one hundred and twenty days.

Paragraph 2. Upon the occurrence of a vacancy and there being no substitute, if more than fifteen months remain before the end of the term of office, an election shall be held to fill it.

Paragraph 3. In the event of item I, the Deputy or Senator may opt for the remuneration of the elective office.

Section VI – The Sessions

Article 57. The National Congress shall meet each year in the Federal Capital, from February 2 to July 17 and from August 1 to December 22. (CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 32, 2001; CA No. 50, 2006)

Paragraph 1. If sessions scheduled for these dates fall on a Saturday, a Sunday or a holiday, they shall be transferred to the subsequent workday.

Paragraph 2. The legislative session shall not be interrupted before the approval of the bill of budgetary directives.

Paragraph 3. In addition to other cases provided for in this Constitution, the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate shall meet in a joint session to:

I – inaugurate the legislative session;

II – draw up the common regulations and regulate the creation of services common to both Houses;

III – take the oath of the President and of the Vice-President of the Republic;

IV – acknowledge a veto and resolve thereon.

Paragraph 4. Both Houses shall meet in a preparatory session, beginning February 1 of the first year of the legislative term, for the installation of its members and the election of the respective Directing Boards, for a term of office of two years, the re-election to the same office in the immediately subsequent election being prohibited.

Paragraph 5. The Directing Board of the National Congress shall be presided by the President of the Federal Senate and the remaining offices shall be held, alternately, by the holders of equivalent offices in the Chamber of Deputies and in the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 6. Special sessions of the National Congress shall be called:

I – by the President of the Federal Senate, in the event of a decree of a state of defense or of federal intervention, of a demand for the authorization to decree a state of siege and the taking of oath and inauguration of the President and the Vice-President of the Republic;

II – by the President of the Republic, by the Presidents of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, or by request of the majority of the members of both Houses, in the event of urgency or important public interest, approval by the absolute majority of each House of the National Congress being required in all cases referred to in this item.

Paragraph 7. In a special legislative session, the National Congress shall deliberate only upon the matter for which it was called, exception being made for the event mentioned in paragraph 8 of this article, the payment of a compensatory amount by virtue of the special session being forbidden.

Paragraph 8. If there are provisional measures in effect on the date a special session of the National Congress is called, they shall be automatically included in the agenda of the session.

Section VII – The Committees

Article 58. The National Congress and both its Houses shall have permanent and temporary committees, established in the manner and with the incumbencies set forth in the respective regulations or in the act from which their creation resulted.

Paragraph 1. In the composition of the Directing Boards and of each committee, the proportional representation of the parties or the parliamentary groups which participate in the respective House shall be ensured to the extent possible.

Paragraph 2. The committees have the power, on account of the matter under their authority:

I – to debate and vote on bills of law which, in accordance with the regulations, are exempt from being submitted to the Plenary Assembly, except in the event of an appeal from one-tenth of the members of the respective House;

II – to hold public audiences with entities of civil society;

III – to summon Ministers of State to render information on matters inherent to their duties;

IV – to receive petitions, claims, statements or complaints from any person against acts or omissions of Government authorities or entities;

V – to request the testimony of any authority or citizen;

VI – to examine construction work programs and national, regional and sectorial development plans and to report thereupon.

Paragraph 3. Parliamentary inquiry committees, which shall have the powers of investigation inherent to the judicial authorities, in addition to other powers set forth in the regulations of the respective Houses, shall be created by the Chamber of Deputies and by the Federal Senate, jointly or separately, upon the request of one-third of its members, to investigate a given fact and for a certain period of time, and their conclusions shall, if the case may be, be forwarded to the Public Prosecution to determine the civil or criminal liability of the offenders.

Paragraph 4. During recess there shall be a committee to represent the National Congress, elected by both its Houses in the last regular session of the legislative session, with incumbencies defined in the common regulations, the composition of which shall repeat, to the extent possible, the proportional representation of the political parties.

Section VIII – The Legislative Process

Subsection I – General Provision

Article 59. The legislative process comprises the preparation of:

I – amendments to the Constitution;

II – supplementary laws;

III – ordinary laws;

IV – delegated laws;

V – provisional measures;

VI – legislative decrees;

VII – resolutions.

Sole paragraph. A supplementary law shall provide for the preparation, drafting, amendment and consolidation of laws.

Subsection II – Amendments to the Constitution

Article 60. The Constitution may be amended on the proposal of:

I – at least one-third of the members of the Chamber of Deputies or of the Federal Senate;

II – the President of the Republic;

III – more than one half of the Legislative Assemblies of the units of the Federation, each of them expressing itself by the relative majority of its members.

Paragraph 1. The Constitution shall not be amended while federal intervention, a state of defense or a state of siege is in force.

Paragraph 2. The proposal shall be discussed and voted upon in each House of the National Congress, in two readings, and it shall be considered approved if it obtains in both readings, three-fifths of the votes of the respective members.

Paragraph 3. An amendment to the Constitution shall be promulgated by the Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate with its respective sequence number.

Paragraph 4. No proposal of amendment shall be considered which is aimed at abolishing:

- I – the federative form of State;
- II – the direct, secret, universal and periodic vote;
- III – the separation of the Government Powers;
- IV – individual rights and guarantees.

Paragraph 5. The matter dealt with in a proposal of amendment that is rejected or considered impaired shall not be the subject of another proposal in the same legislative session.

Subsection III – The Laws

Article 61. The initiative of supplementary and ordinary laws is within the competence of any member or committee of the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate or the National Congress, the President of the Republic, the Federal Supreme Court, the Superior Courts, the Attorney-General of the Republic and the citizens, in the manner and in the cases provided for in this Constitution. (CA No. 18, 1998; CA No. 32, 2001)

Paragraph 1. It is the exclusive initiative of the President of the Republic to introduce laws that:

I – determine or modify the number of Armed Forces troops;

II – provide for:

- a) creation of public offices, functions or positions in the direct administration and in autonomous Government agencies or increases in their salaries;
- b) administrative and judicial organization, tax and budgetary matters, public services and administrative personnel of the Territories;
- c) government employees of the Union and Territories, their legal statute, appointment to offices, tenure and retirement;
- d) organization of the Public Prosecution and of the Public Legal Defense of the Union, as well as general rules for the organization of the Public Prosecution and the Public Legal Defense of the States, the Federal District and the Territories;
- e) creation and abolishment of Ministries and Government bodies, with due regard for the provision of article 84, item VI;
- f) military of the Armed Forces, their legal statute, appointment to offices, promotions, tenure, remuneration, retirement, and transfer to the reserve.

Paragraph 2. The initiative of the people may be exercised by means of the presentation to the Chamber of Deputies of a bill of law subscribed by at least one percent of the national electorate, distributed throughout at least five States, with not less than three-tenths of one percent of the voters in each of them.

Article 62. In important and urgent cases, the President of the Republic may adopt provisional measures with the force of law and shall submit them to the National Congress immediately. (CA No. 32, 2001)

Paragraph 1. The issuance of provisional measures is forbidden when the matter involved:

I – deals with:

- a) nationality, citizenship, political rights, political parties, and election law;
- b) criminal law, criminal procedural law, and civil procedural law;
- c) organization of the Judicial Branch and of the Public Prosecution, the career and guarantees of their members;
- d) pluriannual plans, budgetary directives, budgets, and additional and supplementary credits, with the exception of the provision mentioned in article 167, paragraph 3;

II – aims at the detention or seizure of goods, people's savings, or any other financial asset;

III – is reserved for a supplementary law;

IV – has already been regulated by a bill of law passed by the National Congress which is awaiting sanction or veto by the President of the Republic.

Paragraph 2. A provisional measure to institute or increase taxes, with the exception of the taxes mentioned in articles 153, items I, II, IV, V, and 154, item II, shall only produce effects in the subsequent financial year if it has been converted into law before or on the last day of the financial year in which it was issued.

Paragraph 3. With the exception of the provisions mentioned in paragraphs 11 and 12, provisional measures shall lose effectiveness from the day of their issuance if they are not converted into law within a period of sixty days, which may be extended once for an identical period of time under the terms of paragraph 7, and the National Congress shall issue a legislative decree to regulate the legal relations arising therefrom.

Paragraph 4. The period mentioned in paragraph 3 shall be counted from the date of publication of the provisional measure and shall be interrupted while the National Congress is in recess.

Paragraph 5. Deliberation by each House of the National Congress upon the merits of provisional measures shall depend on prior determination of their compliance with the constitutional requirements.

Paragraph 6. If a provisional measure is not examined within forty-five days as of its date of publication, it shall subsequently be forwarded to urgent consideration in each House of the National Congress, and the deliberation of all other legislative matters shall be suspended in the House where it is under consideration, until such time as voting is concluded.

Paragraph 7. If the voting of a provisional measure is not concluded in both Houses of the National Congress within the period of sixty days as of its date of publication, its period of effectiveness may be extended once for an identical period of time.

Paragraph 8. The voting of provisional measures shall start in the House of Deputies.

Paragraph 9. It is incumbent upon the joint committee of Deputies and Senators to examine provisional measures and issue an opinion thereon, before they are submitted to floor action in each House of the National Congress in a separate session.

Paragraph 10. It is forbidden to reissue a provisional measure in the same legislative session in which it was rejected or lost its effectiveness due to lapse of time.

Paragraph 11. If the legislative decree mentioned in paragraph 3 is not issued within sixty days as of the date the provisional measure was rejected or lost its effectiveness, the legal relations constituted and arising from acts performed during its period of effectiveness shall still be regulated by such provisional measure.

Paragraph 12. Should a bill of law be passed that alters the original text of a provisional measure, the latter will remain effective in full until such date as the bill is sanctioned or vetoed.

Article 63. An increase in expenditure proposals shall not be admitted:

I – in bills of the exclusive initiative of the President of the Republic, except for the provisions of article 166, paragraphs 3 and 4;

II – in bills concerning the organization of the administrative services of the Chamber of Deputies, the Federal Senate, the Federal Courts and the Public Prosecution.

Article 64. The discussion and voting of the bills of law which are the initiative of the President of the Republic, the Federal Supreme Court and of the Superior Courts shall start in the Chamber of Deputies. (CA No. 32, 2001)

Paragraph 1. The President of the Republic may request urgency in the examination of bills of his own initiative.

Paragraph 2. If, in the event of paragraph 1, the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate fail to act, each one, successively, on the proposition, within the period of forty-five days, deliberation on all other legislative matters shall be suspended in the respective House, save those which must be considered within a stipulated constitutional period, in order that the voting may be concluded.

Paragraph 3. Amendments of the Federal Senate shall be examined by the Chamber of Deputies within a period of ten days, in accordance, otherwise, with the provisions of the preceding paragraph.

Paragraph 4. The periods of time referred to in paragraph 2 shall not be counted while the Congress is in recess and shall not apply to the bills of codes.

Article 65. A bill of law approved by one House shall be reviewed by the other in a single reading of discussing and voting and sent for sanctioning or promulgation, if approved by the reviewing House, or it shall be dismissed, if rejected.

Sole paragraph. If the bill is amended, it shall return to the House where it was proposed.

Article 66. The House in which voting is concluded shall send the bill of law to the President of the Republic, who, if he concurs, shall sanction it. (CA No. 32, 2001; CA No. 76, 2013)

Paragraph 1. If the President of the Republic considers the bill of law, wholly or in part, unconstitutional or contrary to public interest, he shall veto it, wholly or in part, within fifteen work days, counted from the date of receipt and he shall, within forty-eight hours, inform the President of the Senate of the reasons of his veto.

Paragraph 2. A partial veto shall only comprise the full text of an article, paragraph, item or subitem.

Paragraph 3. After a period of fifteen days, the silence of the President of the Republic shall be considered as sanctioning.

Paragraph 4. The veto shall be examined in a joint session, within thirty days, counted from the date of receipt, and may only be rejected by the absolute majority of the Deputies and Senators.

Paragraph 5. If the veto is not upheld, the bill shall be sent to the President of the Republic for promulgation.

Paragraph 6. If the period of time established in paragraph 4 elapses without a decision being reached, the veto shall be included in the order of the day of the subsequent session, and all other propositions shall be suspended until its final voting.

Paragraph 7. If, in the cases of paragraphs 3 and 5, the law is not promulgated within forty-eight hours by the President of the Republic, the President of the Senate shall enact it and if the latter fails to do so within the same period, the Vice-President of the Senate shall do so.

Article 67. The matter dealt with in a rejected bill of law may only be the subject of a new bill during the same legislative session, upon proposal of the absolute majority of the members of either House of the National Congress.

Article 68. Delegated laws shall be drawn up by the President of the Republic, who shall request delegation from the National Congress.

Paragraph 1. There shall be no delegation of acts falling within the exclusive competence of the National Congress, of those within the exclusive competence of the Chamber of Deputies or the Federal Senate, of matters reserved for supplementary laws and of legislation on: I – the organization of the Judicial Power and of the Public Prosecution, the career and guarantees of their members;

II – nationality, citizenship, individual, political and electoral rights;

III – pluriannual plans, budgetary directives and budgets.

Paragraph 2. The delegation to the President of the Republic shall take the form of a resolution of the National Congress, which shall specify its contents and the terms of its exercise.

Paragraph 3. If the resolution calls for consideration of the bill by the National Congress, the latter shall do so in a single voting, any amendment being forbidden.

Article 69. Supplementary laws shall be approved by absolute majority.

Section IX – Accounting, Financial and Budgetary Control

Article 70. Control of accounts, finances, budget, operations and property of the Union and of the agencies of the direct and indirect administration, as to lawfulness, legitimacy, economic efficiency, application of subsidies and waiver of revenues, shall be exercised by the National Congress, by means of external control and of the internal control system of each Power. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Sole paragraph. Accounts shall be rendered by any individual or corporation, public or private, which uses, collects, keeps, manages, or administers public monies, assets or values, or those for which the Union is responsible or which, on behalf of the Union, assumes obligations of a pecuniary nature.

Article 71. External control, incumbent on the National Congress, shall be exercised with the aid of the Federal Audit Court, which shall:

I – examine the accounts rendered annually by the President of the Republic, by means of a prior opinion which shall be prepared in sixty days counted from receipt;

II – evaluate the accounts of the administrators and other persons responsible for public monies, assets and values of the direct and indirect administration, including foundations and companies instituted and maintained by the Federal Government as well as the accounts of those who have caused a loss, misplacement or other irregularity resulting in losses to the public treasury;

III – examine, for the purpose of registration, the lawfulness of acts of admission of personnel, on any account, in the direct and indirect administration, including the foundations instituted and maintained by the Federal Government, with the exception of the appointments to commission offices, as well as the granting of civil and military retirement and pensions, except for subsequent improvements which do not alter the legal fundamentals of the conceding act;

IV – carry out, on its own initiative or on that of the Chamber of Deputies, of the Federal Senate, or of a technical or inquiry committee, inspection and audits of an accounting, financial, budgetary, operational or property nature in the administrative units of the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Powers and other entities referred to in item II;

V – control the national accounts of supranational companies in whose capital stock the Union holds a direct or indirect interest, as set forth in the acts of incorporation;

VI – control the use of any funds transferred by the Union, by means of an agreement, arrangement, adjustment or any other similar instrument, to a State, the Federal District or a Municipality;

VII – render the information requested by the National Congress, by either of its Houses or by any of the respective committees concerning accounting, financial, budgetary, operational and property control and the results of audits and inspections made;

VIII – in case of illegal expenses or irregular accounts, apply to the responsible parties the sanctions provided by law, which shall establish, among other comminations, a fine proportional to the damages caused to the public treasury;

IX – determine a period of time for the agency or entity to take the necessary steps for the strict compliance with the law, if an illegality is established;

X – if not heeded, stop the execution of the impugned act, notifying the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate of such decision;

XI – present a formal charge to the competent Power on any irregularities or abuses verified.

Paragraph 1. In the case of a contract, the restraining act shall be adopted directly by the National Congress, which shall immediately request the Executive Power to take the applicable measures.

Paragraph 2. If the National Congress or the Executive Power, within ninety days, do not take the measures provided for in the preceding paragraph, the Court shall decide on the matter.

Paragraph 3. Decisions of the Court resulting in the imposition of a debt or fine shall have the effectiveness of an execution instrument.

Paragraph 4. The Court shall, quarterly and annually, forward to the National Congress a report on its activities.

Article 72. In view of indications of unauthorized expenditure, even if in the form of non-programmed investments or non-approved subsidies, the permanent joint Committee referred to in article 166, paragraph 1, may request the responsible Government authority to render the necessary explanation, within five days. Paragraph 1. If the explanations are not rendered or are considered insufficient, the Committee shall request the Court to make a conclusive statement on the matter within thirty days.

Paragraph 2. If the Court deems the expense to be irregular, the Committee shall, if it considers that the expenditure may cause irreparable damage or serious injury to the public economy, propose to the National Congress that it be suspended.

Article 73. The Federal Audit Court, formed by nine Justices, shall have its seat in the Federal District, its own staff and jurisdiction throughout the national territory, and shall exercise, insofar as pertinent, the incumbencies provided for in article 96. (CA No. 20, 1998)

Paragraph 1. The Justices of the Federal Audit Court shall be appointed from among Brazilians who meet the following requirements:

I – more than thirty-five and less than sixty-five years of age;

II – moral integrity and spotless reputation;

III – notable knowledge of the law, accounting, economics and finances or of public administration;

IV – more than ten years of exercise of office or of actual professional activity which requires the knowledge mentioned in the preceding item.

Paragraph 2. The Justices of the Federal Audit Court shall be chosen:

I – one-third by the President of the Republic with the approval of the Federal Senate, two of them being alternately chosen from among auditors and members of the Public Prosecution at the Court, as indicated in a triple list by the Court, in accordance with criteria of seniority and merit;

II – two-thirds by the National Congress.

Paragraph 3. The Justices of the Federal Audit Court shall have the same guarantees, prerogatives, impediments, remuneration, and advantages as the Justices of the Superior Court of Justice, their retirement pensions and other pensions being ruled by the provisions of article 40.

Paragraph 4. The auditor, when substituting for a Justice, shall have the same guarantees and impediments as the incumbent Justice, and, when in exercise of the other duties of the judicature, those of a Judge of a Federal Regional Court.

Article 74. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Powers shall maintain an integrated system of internal control for the purpose of:

I – evaluating the attainment of the goals established in the pluriannual plan, the implementation of government programmes and of the budgets of the Union;

II – verifying the lawfulness and evaluating the results, as to effectiveness and efficiency, of the budgetary, financial and property management in the agencies and entities of the federal administration, as well as the use of public funds by private legal entities;

III – exercising control over credit transactions, collateral signatures and guarantees, as well as over the rights and assets of the Union;

IV – supporting external control in the exercise of its institutional mission.

Paragraph 1. The persons responsible for internal control shall, upon learning of any irregularity or illegality, inform the Federal Audit Court about it, subject to joint liability.

Paragraph 2. Any citizen, political party, association or labour union has standing under the law to denounce irregularities or illegalities to the Federal Audit Court.

Article 75. The rules set forth in this section shall apply, where appropriate, to the organization, composition and control of the Audit Courts of the States and of the Federal District, as well as the Audit Courts and Councils of the Municipalities.

Sole paragraph. The State Constitutions shall provide for the respective Audit Courts, which shall be formed by seven council members.

Chapter II – The Executive Power

Section I – The President and the Vice-President of the Republic

Article 76. The Executive Power is exercised by the President of the Republic, assisted by the Ministers of State.

Article 77. The election of the President and Vice-President of the Republic shall take place simultaneously, on the first Sunday of October, in the first round, and on the last Sunday of October, in the second round, as the case may be, of the year preceding the one in which the current presidential term of office ends. (CA No. 16, 1997)

Paragraph 1. The election of the President of the Republic shall imply the election of the Vice-President registered with him.

Paragraph 2. The candidate who, being registered by a political party, obtains an absolute majority of votes, not counting blank or void votes, shall be considered elected President.

Paragraph 3. If no candidate attains an absolute majority in the first voting, another election shall be held within twenty days from the announcement of the results, the competition being between the two candidates with the highest number of votes, and being considered elected the candidate with the majority of valid votes.

Paragraph 4. Should one of the candidates, before the second round of voting is held, die, withdraw or become legally impaired, the candidate with the highest number of votes among the remaining candidates shall be called.

Paragraph 5. If in the event of the preceding paragraphs, more than one candidate with an equal number of votes remain in second place, the eldest one shall qualify.

Article 78. The President and the Vice-President of the Republic shall take office in a session of the National Congress, pledging to maintain, defend and carry out the Constitution, obey the laws, promote the general well-being of the Brazilian people, sustain the union, the integrity and the independence of Brazil.

Sole paragraph. In the event that, after ten days from the date scheduled for the inauguration, the President or the Vice-President, except by reason of force majeure, has not taken office, the office shall be declared vacant.

Article 79. The Vice-President shall replace the President in the event of impediment and shall succeed him in the event of vacancy.

Sole paragraph. In addition to other duties attributed to him by a supplementary law, the Vice-President shall assist the President whenever summoned by him for special missions.

Article 80. In the event of impediment of the President and of the Vice-President, or of vacancy of the respective offices, the President of the Chamber of Deputies, the President of the Senate and the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court shall be called successively to exercise the Presidency.

Article 81. In the event of vacancy of the offices of President and Vice-President of the Republic, elections shall be held ninety days after the occurrence of the last vacancy.

Paragraph 1. If the vacancy occurs during the last two years of the President's term of office, the National Congress shall hold elections for both offices thirty days after the last vacancy, as established by law.

Paragraph 2. In any of the cases, those elected shall complete the term of office of their predecessors.

Article 82. The term of office of the President of the Republic is four years, and it shall commence on January 1 of the year following the year of his election. (RCA No. 5, 1994; CA No. 16, 1997)

Article 83. The President and the Vice-President of the Republic may not, without authorization from the National Congress, leave the country for a period of more than fifteen days, subject to loss of office.

Paragraph 2. The Federal Supreme Court and the Superior Courts have their jurisdiction over the entire Brazilian territory.

Article 93. A supplementary law, proposed by the Federal Supreme Court, shall provide for the Statute of the Judiciary, observing the following principles: (CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – admission into the career, with the initial post of substitute judge, by means of a civil service entrance examination of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, with the participation of the Brazilian Bar Association in all phases, at least three years of legal practice being required of holders of a B.A. in law, and obeying the order of classification for appointments;

II – promotion from level to level, based on seniority and merit, alternately, observing the following rules:

- a) the promotion of a judge who has appeared in a merit list for three consecutive times or for five alternate times is mandatory;
- b) merit promotion requires two years in office in the respective level and that the judge should appear in the top fifth part of the seniority list of such level, unless no one satisfying such requirements is willing to accept the vacant post;
- c) appraisal of merit according to performance and to the objective criteria of productivity and promptness in the exercise of the jurisdictional function and according to attendance and achievement in official or recognized improvement courses;
- d) in determining seniority, the court may only reject the judge with the longest service by the justified vote of two-thirds of its members, according to a specific procedure, full defense being ensured, the voting being repeated until the selection is concluded;

- e) promotion shall not be granted to a judge who unjustifiably withholds case records beyond the legal deadline, and he may not return them to the court archives without providing the necessary disposition thereof or decision thereon;

III – access to the courts of second instance shall obey seniority and merit, alternately, as determined at the last or single level;

IV – provision of official courses for preparation, improvement, and promotion of judges, while the participation in an official course or in a course recognized by a national school for the education and further development of judges shall constitute a mandatory stage of the tenure acquisition process;

V – the compensation of the Justices of the Superior Courts shall correspond to ninety-five percent of the monthly compensation stipulated for the Justices of the Federal Supreme Court, and the compensation of the other judges shall be stipulated by law and distributed, at the federal and state levels, according to the respective categories of the national judiciary structure, and the difference between categories may not be higher than ten per cent or lower than five per cent, nor higher than ninety-five per cent of the monthly compensation of the Justices of the Superior Courts, with due regard, in any of the cases, for the provisions of articles 37, item XI, and 39, paragraph 4;

VI – the retirement of judges as well as the granting of pensions for their dependents shall comply with the provisions of article 40;

VII – a permanent judge shall reside in the respective judicial district, except when otherwise authorized by the court;

VIII – the acts of removal, of placement on paid availability, and of retirement of a judge, for public interest, shall be based on a decision by the vote of the absolute majority of the respective court or of the National Council of Justice, full defense being ensured;

VIII-A – the removal upon request or the exchange of judges of same-level judicial districts shall obey, insofar as pertinent, the provisions of subitems a, b, c, and e of item II;

IX – all judgements of the bodies of the Judicial Power shall be public, and all decisions shall be justified, under penalty of nullity, but the law may limit attendance, in given acts, to the interested parties and to their lawyers, or only to the latter, whenever preservation of the right to privacy of the party interested in confidentiality will not harm the right of the public interest to information; X – administrative decisions of courts shall be supported by a recital and shall be made in open session, and disciplinary decisions shall be taken by the vote of the absolute majority of their members;

XI – in courts with more than twenty-five judges, a special body may be constituted, with a minimum of eleven and a maximum of twenty-five members, to exercise delegated administrative and jurisdictional duties which are under the powers of the full court, half of the positions being filled according to seniority and the other half through election by the full court; XII – courts will operate continuously, without interruption, collective vacation being forbidden for first instance judges and courts of second instance, and there must be judges on duty at all times on days in which courts are closed;

XIII – the number of judges in each court shall be proportional to the effective judicial demand and to the respective population;

XIV – court employees will receive delegation to carry out administrative acts and acts aimed at the mere disposition of matters, without a decisional nature;

XV – proceedings will be assigned immediately upon filing, at all levels of jurisdiction.

Article 94. One-fifth of the seats of the Federal Regional Courts, of the Courts of the States, and of the Federal District and the Territories shall be occupied by members of the Public Prosecution, with over ten years of office, and by lawyers of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation, with over ten years of effective professional activity, nominated in a list of six names by the entities representing the respective classes.

Sole paragraph. Upon receiving the nominations, the court shall organize a list of three names and shall send it to the Executive Power, which shall, within the subsequent twenty days, select one of the listed names for appointment.

Article 95. Judges enjoy the following guarantees: (CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – life tenure, which, at first instance, shall only be acquired after two years in office, loss of office being dependent, during this period, on deliberation of the court to which the judge is subject, and, in other cases, on a final and unappealable judicial decision;

II – irremovability, save for reason of public interest, under the terms of article 93, item VIII;

III – irreducibility of compensation, except for the provisions of articles 37, items X and XI, 39, paragraph 4, 150, item II, 153, item III, and 153, paragraph 2, item I. Sole paragraph. Judges are forbidden to:

I – hold, even when on paid availability, another office or position, except for a teaching position;

II – receive, on any account or for any reason, court costs or participation in a lawsuit;

III – engage in political or party activities;

IV – receive, on any account or for any reason, financial aid or contribution from individuals, and from public or private institutions, save for the exceptions set forth in law;

V – practice law in the court or tribunal on which they served as judges, for a period of three years following their retirement or discharge.

Article 96. It is of the exclusive competence of: (CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 41, 2003)

I – the courts:

- a) to elect their directive bodies and to draw up their internal regulations, in compliance with the rules of proceedings and the procedural guarantees of the parties, and regulating the competence and the operation of the respective jurisdictional and administrative bodies;
- b) to organize their secretariats and auxiliary services, as well as those of the tribunals connected with them, guaranteeing the exercise of the respective inspection activities;
- c) to fill, under the terms of this Constitution, offices of career judges within their respective jurisdiction;
- d) to propose the creation of new courts of first instance;
- e) to fill, by means of a civil service entrance examination of tests, or of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, according to the provisions of article 169, sole paragraph⁴, the offices required for the administration of justice, except for the positions of trust as defined in law;
- f) to grant leave, vacations and other absences to their members and to the judges and employees who are immediately subordinated to them;

II – the Federal Supreme Court, the Superior Courts and the Courts of Justice, to propose to the respective

4. Should read as “paragraph 1”, by virtue of the provisions of CA No. 19, 1998.

Legislative Power, with due regard for the provisions of article 169:

- a) alteration in the number of members of the lower courts;
- b) creation and abolishment of offices and the remuneration of the auxiliary services and of the courts connected with them, as well as the establishment of the compensation for their members and for the judges, including those of the lower courts, if existing;
- c) creation or abolishment of lower courts;
- d) alteration of the judicial organization and division;

III – the Courts of Justice, to try judges of the States, of the Federal District and of the Territories, as well as members of the Public Prosecution, for common crimes and crimes of malversation, except in those cases within the competency of the Electoral Courts.

Article 97. The courts may declare a law or a normative act of the Government unconstitutional only by the vote of the absolute majority of their members or of the members of the respective special body.

Article 98. The Union, in the Federal District and in the Territories, and the States shall create: (CA No. 22, 1999; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – special courts, filled by togated judges, or by togated and lay judges, with powers for conciliation, judgement and execution of civil suits of lesser complexity and criminal offenses of lower offensive potential, by oral and summary proceedings, allowing, in the cases established in law, the settlement and judgement of appeals by panels of judges of first instance;

II – remunerated justice of peace, formed by citizens elected by direct, universal and secret vote, with a term of office of four years and competence to, under the terms of the law, perform marriages, examine qualification proceedings, ex officio or in view of the presentation of a challenge, and exercise conciliatory functions, of a non-jurisdictional nature, besides others established by law.

Paragraph 1. Federal legislation shall provide for the establishment of special courts within Federal Justice. Paragraph 2. Judicial costs and fees shall be assigned exclusively to fund services related to activities which are specific of Justice.

Article 99. The Judicial Power is ensured of administrative and financial autonomy. (CA No. 45, 2004) Paragraph 1. The courts shall prepare their budget proposals, within the limits stipulated jointly with the other Powers in the law of budgetary directives.

Paragraph 2. The proposal shall, after hearing the other interested courts, be forwarded:

I – at the federal level, by the presidents of the Federal Supreme Court and of the Superior Courts, with the approval of the respective courts;

II – at the level of the States and of the Federal District and the Territories, by the presidents of the Courts of Justice, with the approval of the respective courts.

Paragraph 3. If the government bodies referred to in paragraph 2 do not forward their respective budget proposals within the time period stipulated in the law of budgetary directives, the Executive Power shall, with a view to engrossing the annual budget proposal, take into account the figures approved in the current budgetary law, such figures adjusted in accordance with the limits stipulated under the terms of paragraph 1 of this article.

Paragraph 4. If the budget proposals referred to in this article and thus forwarded do not obey the limits stipulated under paragraph 1, the Executive Power shall effect the necessary adjustments with a view to engrossing the annual budget proposal.

Paragraph 5. In the implementation of the budget of a specific fiscal year, no expenses may be incurred and no obligations may be assumed that exceed the limits stipulated in the law of budgetary directives, except when previously authorized, by opening supplementary or special credits.

Article 100. Payments owed by the federal, State, Federal District, or Municipal treasuries, by virtue of a court decision, shall be made exclusively in chronological order of submission of court orders and charged to the respective credits, it being forbidden to designate cases or persons in the budgetary appropriations and in the additional credits opened for such purpose. (CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 30, 2000; CA No. 37, 2002; CA No. 62, 2009)

Paragraph 1. Support-related debts include those arising from wages, salaries, pay, pensions, and their supplementations, social security benefits and compensation for death and disability, such compensation being based on civil liability, by virtue of a final and unappealable judicial decision, and shall be paid before any other debts, except those referred to in paragraph 2 of this article. Paragraph 2. Support-related debts owed to persons aged 60 (sixty) or over on the date the respective court order is issued, or to persons with serious diseases, as defined by law, shall be paid before any other debts, up to an amount equivalent to three times the amount stipulated by law for the purposes of paragraph 3 of this article, parceling for such end being permitted, whereas the remaining amount shall be paid according to the chronological order of submission of respective court order.

Paragraph 3. The provision contained in the head paragraph of this article, regarding the issuance of court orders, does not apply to obligations defined by law as small amounts, which must be paid by the treasuries herein referred to by virtue of a final and unappealable court decision.

Paragraph 4. For the purposes of the provision of paragraph 3, different amounts may be stipulated for the federating units through their own legislation and according to their various economic capabilities, whereas the minimum amount shall be equal to the amount of the highest benefit paid by the general Social Security scheme.

Paragraph 5. It is mandatory for the budgets of the federating units to include the funds required for payment of debts arising from final and unappealable judicial decisions, stated in court orders submitted until or on July 1, and payment shall be made before the close of the subsequent fiscal year, on which date their amounts shall be adjusted for inflation.

Paragraph 6. The budgetary allocations and the credits opened shall be assigned to the Judicial Power, it being within the competence of the Presiding Judge of the Court which rendered the decision of execution to determine full payment and to authorize – upon petition of a creditor and exclusively in the event that his right of precedence is not respected or that the amount necessary to satisfy the debt has not been set aside – attachment of the respective amount.

Paragraph 7. The Presiding Judge of the appropriate Court who, by means of an act or omission, delays or attempts to frustrate the regular payment of a court-ordered debt shall be liable to crime of malversation and shall also appear before the National Council of Justice.

Paragraph 8. The issuance of a court order as a supplementation to or in addition to an amount already paid, as well as the parceling, apportionment, or reduction of the amount under execution – so that the provision of paragraph 3 may be applied to a portion of the total amount – are forbidden.

Paragraph 9. At the time a court order is issued, irrespective of the relevant regulation, there shall be deducted from such court order, for the purpose of a set-off, an amount corresponding to clear legal debits, either registered or not under debts in execution and attributed to the original creditor by the Treasury in debt, including future accruing installments of parcelings, save for those whose execution has been stayed by virtue of administrative or judicial challenge.

Paragraph 10. Before a court order is issued, the relevant court shall request that the Treasury in debt must provide, within 30 (thirty) days, otherwise subject to loss of the right to offset, information on the debits which meet the conditions stipulated in paragraph 9, for the purposes set forth in said paragraph.

Paragraph 11. In accordance with legislation of the federating unit in debt, a creditor may employ court order credits to purchase public property belonging to the respective federating unit.

Paragraph 12. As from the date Constitutional Amendment No. 62 is enacted, the amounts stated in court orders, after such court orders are issued up until effective payment, irrespective of their nature, shall be adjusted according to the official rate applied to savings accounts, whereas, for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment, simple interest will be applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts, the employment of compensatory interest being excluded.

Paragraph 13. Creditors may assign their court order credits, in whole or in part, to third parties, irrespective of consent by the debtor, and the provisions of paragraphs 2 and 3 shall not be applied to the assignee.

Paragraph 14. Assignment of court order credits shall only produce effects after communication to the court of origin and to the federating unit in debt by filing a relevant petition.

Paragraph 15. Without prejudice to the provisions of this article, a supplementary law to this Federal Constitution may establish a special regime for the payment of court-ordered debts owed by States, the Federal District, and Municipalities, providing for earmarked net current revenues and for payment term and methods.

Paragraph 16. The Federal Government may, at its own discretion and under the terms of relevant law, take on debts resulting from court orders issued against a State, the Federal District, or a Municipality, and refinance them directly.

Section II – The Federal Supreme Court

Article 101. The Federal Supreme Court is composed of eleven Justices, chosen from among citizens over thirty-five and under sixty-five years of age, of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation.

Sole paragraph. The Justices of the Federal Supreme Court shall be appointed by the President of the Republic, after their nomination has been approved by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate.

Article 102. The Federal Supreme Court is responsible, essentially, for safeguarding the Constitution, and it is within its competence: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 22, 1999; CA No. 23, 1999; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – to institute legal proceeding and trial, in the first instance, of:

- a) direct actions of unconstitutionality of a federal or state law or normative act, and declaratory actions of constitutionality of a federal law or normative act;
- b) in common criminal offenses, the President of the Republic, the Vice-President, the members of the National Congress, its own Justices and the Attorney-General of the Republic;
- c) in common criminal offenses and crimes of malversation, the Ministers of State and the Commanders of the Navy, the Army, and the Air Force, except as provided in article 52, item I, the members of the Superior Courts, those of the Federal Audit Court and the heads of permanent diplomatic missions;
- d) habeas corpus, when the petitioner is any one of the persons referred to in the preceding subitems; the writ of mandamus and habeas data against acts of the President of the Republic, of the Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, of the Federal Audit Court, of the Attorney-General of the Republic and of the Federal Supreme Court itself;
- e) litigation between a foreign State or an international organization and the Union, a State, the Federal District or a Territory;
- f) disputes and conflicts between the Union and the States, the Union and the Federal District, or between one another, including the respective indirect administration bodies;
- g) extradition requested by a foreign state;
- h) (revoked);
- i) habeas corpus, when the constraining party is a Superior Court, or when the constraining party or the petitioner is an authority or employee whose acts are directly subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Supreme Court, or in the case of a crime, subject to the same jurisdiction in one sole instance;
- j) criminal review of and actions to overrule its final judgements;

- l) claims for the preservation of its powers and guarantee of the authority of its decisions;
- m) enforcement of court decisions in the cases where it has original competence, the delegation of duties to perform procedural acts being allowed;
- n) a suit in which all members of the judicature are directly or indirectly involved, and a suit in which more than half of the members of the court of origin are disqualified or have a direct or indirect interest;
- o) conflicts of powers between the Superior Court of Justice and any other courts, between Superior Courts, or between the latter and any other court;
- p) petitions of provisional remedy in direct actions of unconstitutionality;
- q) writs of injunction, when drawing up of the regulation is the responsibility of the President of the Republic, of the National Congress, of the Chamber of Deputies, of the Federal Senate, of the Directing Boards of one of these legislative houses, of the Federal Audit Court, of one of the Superior Courts, or of the Federal Supreme Court itself;
- r) lawsuits against the National Council of Justice and against the National Council of the Public Prosecution;

II – to judge on ordinary appeal:

- a) habeas corpus, writs of mandamus, habeas data and writs of injunction decided in a sole instance by the Superior Courts, in the event of a denial;
- b) political crimes;

III – to judge, on extraordinary appeal, cases decided in a sole or last instance, when the decision appealed:

- a) is contrary to a provision of this Constitution;
- b) declares a treaty or a federal law unconstitutional;
- c) considers valid a law or act of a local government contested in the light of this Constitution;
- d) considers valid a local law challenged in the light of a federal law.

Paragraph 1. A claim of non-compliance with a fundamental precept deriving from this Constitution shall be examined by the Federal Supreme Court, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 2. Final decisions on merits, pronounced by the Federal Supreme Court, in direct actions of unconstitutionality and declaratory actions of constitutionality shall have force against all, as well as a binding effect, as regards the other bodies of the Judicial Power and the governmental entities and entities owned by the Federal Government, in the federal, state, and local levels.

Paragraph 3. In an extraordinary appeal, the appealing party must demonstrate the general repercussion of the constitutional issues discussed in the case, under the terms of the law, so that the Court may examine the possibility of accepting the appeal, and it may only reject it through the opinion of two thirds of its members.

Article 103. The following may file direct actions of unconstitutionality and declaratory actions of constitutionality: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – the President of the Republic;

II – the directing board of the Federal Senate;

III – the directing board of the Chamber of Deputies;

IV – the Directing Board of a State Legislative Assembly or of the Federal District Legislative Chamber;

V – a State Governor or the Federal District Governor;

VI – the Attorney-General of the Republic;

VII – the Federal Council of the Brazilian Bar Association;

VIII – a political party represented in the National Congress;

IX – a confederation of labour unions or a professional association of a nationwide nature.

Paragraph 1. The Attorney-General of the Republic shall be previously heard in actions of unconstitutionality and in all suits under the power of the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 2. When unconstitutionality is declared on account of lack of a measure to render a constitutional provision effective, the competent Power shall be notified for the adoption of the necessary actions and, in the case of an administrative body, to do so within thirty days.

Paragraph 3. When the Federal Supreme Court examines the unconstitutionality in abstract of a legal provision or normative act, it shall first summon the Advocate-General of the Union, who shall defend the impugned act or text.

Paragraph 4. (Revoked).

Article 103-A. The Federal Supreme Court may, ex officio or upon request, upon decision of two thirds of its members, and following reiterated judicial decisions on constitutional matter, issue a summula (restatement of case law) which, as from publication in the official press, shall have a binding effect upon the lower bodies of the Judicial Power and the direct and indirect public administration, in the federal, state, and local levels, and which may also be reviewed or revoked, as set forth in law. (CA No. 45, 2004)

Paragraph 1. The purpose of a summula is to validate, construe, and impart effectiveness to some rules about which there is a current controversy among judicial bodies or among such bodies and the public administration, and such controversy brings about serious juridical insecurity and the filing of multiple lawsuits involving similar issues.

Paragraph 2. Without prejudice to the provisions the law may establish, the issuance, review, or revocation of a summula may be requested by those who may file a direct action of unconstitutionality.

Paragraph 3. An administrative act or judicial decision which contradicts the applicable summula or which unduly applies a summula may be appealed to the Federal Supreme Court, and if the appeal is granted, such Court shall declare the administrative act null and void or overrule the appealed judicial decision, ordering that a new judicial decision be issued, with or without applying the summula, as the case may be.

Article 103-B. The National Council of Justice is composed of 15 (fifteen) members appointed for a two-year term of office, one reappointment being permitted, as follows: (CA No. 45, 2004; CA No. 61, 2009)

I – the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court;

II – a Justice of the Superior Court of Justice, nominated by said Court;

III – a Justice of the Superior Labour Court, nominated by said Court;

IV – a judge of a State Court of Justice, nominated by the Federal Supreme Court;

V – a state judge, nominated by the Federal Supreme Court;

VI – a judge of a Federal Regional Court, nominated by the Superior Court of Justice;

VII – a federal judge, nominated by the Superior Court of Justice;

VIII – a judge of a Regional Labour Court, nominated by the Superior Labour Court;

IX – a labour judge, nominated by the Superior Labour Court;

X – a member of the Public Prosecution of the Union, nominated by the Attorney-General of the Republic;

XI – a member of a state Public Prosecution, chosen by the Attorney-General of the Republic from among the names indicated by the competent body of each state institution;

XII – two lawyers, nominated by the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association;

XIII – two citizens of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation, one of whom nominated by the Chamber of Deputies and the other one by the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 1. The Council shall be presided over by the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court and, in the event of his absence or impediment, by the most senior Associate Justice of the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 2. The other members of the Council shall be appointed by the President of the Republic, after their nomination has been approved by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 3. If the nominations set forth in this article are not effected within the legal deadline, selection shall be incumbent upon the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 4. It is incumbent upon the Council to control the administrative and financial operation of the Judicial Branch and the proper discharge of official duties by judges, and it shall, in addition to other duties that the Statute of the Judiciary may confer upon it:

I – ensure that the Judicial Branch is autonomous and that the Statute of the Judiciary is complied with, and it may issue regulatory acts within its jurisdiction, or recommend measures;

II – ensure that article 37 is complied with, and examine, ex officio or upon request, the legality of administrative acts carried out by members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, and it may revoke or review them, or stipulate a deadline for the adoption of the necessary measures to achieve due execution of the law, without prejudice to the powers of the Federal Audit Court;

III – receive and examine complaints against members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, including against its ancillary services, clerical offices, and bodies in charge of notary and registration services which operate by virtue of Government delegation or have been made official, without prejudice to the courts' disciplinary competence and their power to correct administrative acts, and it may order that pending disciplinary proceedings be forwarded to the National Council of Justice, determine the removal, placement on paid availability, or retirement with compensation or pension in proportion to the length of service, and enforce other administrative sanctions, full defense being ensured;

IV – present a formal charge to the Public Prosecution, in the case of crime against public administration or abuse of authority;

V – review, ex officio or upon request, disciplinary proceedings against judges and members of courts tried in the preceding twelve months;

VI – prepare a twice-a-year statistical report on proceedings and judgements rendered per unit of the Federation in the various bodies of the Judicial Branch;

VII – prepare a yearly report, including the measures it deems necessary, on the State of the Judicial Branch in the Country and on the Council's activities, which report must be an integral part of a message to be forwarded by the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court to the National Congress upon the opening of the legislative session.

Paragraph 5. The Justice of the Superior Court of Justice shall occupy the position of Corregidor-Justice, in charge of internal affairs, and he shall be excluded from the assignment of proceedings in said Court, the following duties being incumbent upon him, in addition to those that may be conferred upon him by the Statute of the Judiciary:

I – to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party regarding judges and judiciary services;

II – to exercise executive functions of the Council concerning inspection and general correction;

III – to requisition and appoint judges, charging them with specific duties, and to requisition court employees, including in the States, the Federal District, and the Territories.

Paragraph 6. The Attorney General of the Republic and the Chairman of the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association shall be competent to petition before the Council.

Paragraph 7. The Union shall establish Justice ombudsman's offices, including in the Federal District and in the Territories, with powers to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party against members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, or against their ancillary services, thus presenting formal charges directly to the National Council of Justice.

Section III – The Superior Court of Justice

Article 104. The Superior Court of Justice is composed of a minimum of thirty-three Justices. (CA No. 45, 2004)

Sole paragraph. The Justices of the Superior Court of Justice shall be appointed by the President of the Republic chosen from among Brazilians over thirty-five and under sixty-five years of age, of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation, after the nomination has been approved by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate, as follows:

I – one-third shall be chosen from among judges of the Federal Regional Courts and one-third from among judges of the Courts of Justice, nominated in a list of three names prepared by the Court itself;

II – one-third, in equal parts, shall be chosen from among lawyers and members of the Federal Public Prosecution, the Public Prosecution of the States, the Public Prosecution of the Federal District and the Territories, alternately, nominated under the terms of article 94.

Article 105. The Superior Court of Justice has the competence to: (CA No. 22, 1999; CA No. 23, 1999; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – institute legal proceeding and trial, in the first instance, of:

- a) in common crimes, the Governors of the States and of the Federal District, and, in such crimes and in crimes of malversation, the judges of the Courts of Justice of the States and of the Federal District, the members of the Audit Courts of the States and of the Federal District, those of the Federal Regional Courts, of the Regional Electoral and Labour Courts, the members of Audit Councils or Courts of the Municipalities and the members of the Public Prosecution of the Union who act before courts;
- b) writs of mandamus and habeas data against an act of a Minister of State, of the Commanders of the Navy, the Army, and the Air Force, or of the Court itself;
- c) habeas corpus, when the constraining party or the petitioner is any of the persons mentioned in subitem a, or when the constraining party is a court subject to its jurisdiction, a Minister of State or Commander of the Navy, the Army, or the Air Force, except for the competence of the Electoral Courts;
- d) conflicts of competence between any courts, except as provided in article 102, item I, subitem a, as well as between a court and the judges not subject to it and between judges subject to different courts;
- e) criminal review of and actions to overrule its final judgements;
- f) claims for the preservation of its competence and guarantee of the authority of its decisions;
- g) conflicts of duties between administrative and judicial authorities of the Union, or between judicial authorities of one State and administrative authorities of another or of the Federal District, or between those of the latter and those of the Union;
- h) writs of injunction, when the drawing up of a regulation is the responsibility of a federal body, entity, or authority, of the direct or indirect administration, with the exception of the cases within the competence of the Federal Supreme Court and of the bodies of the Military Justice, of the Electoral Justice, of the Labour Justice and of the Federal Justice;

- i) the homologation of foreign court decisions and the granting of exequatur to letters rogatory;

II – judge, on ordinary appeal:

- a) habeas corpus decided in a sole or last instance by the Federal Regional Courts or by the courts of the States, of the Federal District and the Territories, in the event of a denial;
- b) writs of mandamus decided in a sole instance by the Federal Regional Courts or by the courts of the States, of the Federal District and the Territories, in the event of a denial;
- c) cases in which the parties are a foreign state or international organization, on the one part, and a Municipality or a person residing or domiciled in the country, on the other part;

III – judge, on special appeal, the cases decided, in a sole or last instance, by the Federal Regional Courts or by the courts of the States, of the Federal District and the Territories, when the decision appealed:

- a) is contrary to a treaty or a federal law, or denies its effectiveness;
- b) considers valid an act of a local government challenged in the light of a federal law;
- c) confers upon a federal law an interpretation different from that which has been conferred upon it by another court.

Sole paragraph. The following shall operate in conjunction with the Superior Court of Justice:

I – the National School for the Education and Further Development of Judges, which shall be in charge, among other duties, of regulating the official courses for admission into and promotion in the career;

II – the Council of Federal Justice, which shall, under the terms of the law, exercise administrative and budgetary supervision over the Federal Courts of first and second instances, in the quality of the main body of the system, having powers to correct administrative acts, and whose decisions shall have a binding nature.

Section IV – The Federal Regional Courts and the Federal Judges

Article 106. The following are the bodies of Federal Justice:

I – the Federal Regional Courts;

II – the Federal Judges.

Article 107. The Federal Regional Courts are composed of a minimum of seven judges, selected, whenever possible, in the respective region and nominated by the President of the Republic from among Brazilians over thirty and under sixty-five years of age, as follows: (CA No. 45, 2004)

I – one-fifth shall be chosen from among lawyers effectively practicing their professional activity for more than ten years and from among members of the Federal Public Prosecution, with over ten years of service;

II – the others, by means of promotion of federal judges with over five years in office, for seniority and merit, alternately.

Paragraph 1. A law shall regulate the removal or exchange of judges of the Federal Regional Courts and shall determine their jurisdiction and seat.

Paragraph 2. The Federal Regional Courts shall install an itinerant justice system, carrying out hearings and other functions typical of the operation of justice, within the territorial limits of the respective jurisdiction, and making use of public and community facilities.

Paragraph 3. The Federal Regional Courts may operate in a decentralized mode, by creating regional Divisions, with a view to affording claimants full access to justice in all stages of the judicial action.

Article 108. The Federal Regional Courts have the competence to:

I – institute legal proceeding and trial, in the first instance, of:

- a) federal judges within the area of their jurisdiction, including those of the Military and Labour Courts, in common crimes and crimes of malversation, and the members of the Public Prosecution of the Union, except for the competence of the Electoral Courts;
- b) criminal reviews of and actions to overrule their final judgements or those of the federal judges of the region;
- c) writs of mandamus and habeas data against an act of the Court itself or of a federal judge;

IX – crimes committed aboard ships or aircrafts, excepting the competence of the Military Courts;

X – crimes or irregular entry or stay of a foreigner, execution of letters rogatory, after exequatur, and of foreign court decisions, after homologation, cases related to nationality, including the respective option, and to naturalization;

XI – disputes over the rights of Indians.

Paragraph 1. Cases in which the Union is the plaintiff shall be instituted in the judicial section where the other party is domiciled.

Paragraph 2. Cases brought against the Union may be instituted in the judicial section where the plaintiff is domiciled, or where the act or fact giving rise to the suit occurred or where the item is located, or further, in the Federal District.

Paragraph 3. Cases in which the parties are a social security institution and its beneficiary shall undergo legal proceeding and trial in the State courts, in the forum of the domicile of the beneficiaries or insured participants, whenever the district is not the seat of a federal court of first instance, in which case the law may allow other cases to be also processed and judged by the State courts.

Paragraph 4. In the event of the preceding paragraph, the appropriate appeal shall always be taken to the Federal Regional Court within the area of jurisdiction of a judge of first instance.

Paragraph 5. In cases of serious human rights violations, and with a view to ensuring compliance with obligations deriving from international human rights treaties to which Brazil is a party, the Attorney-General of the Republic may request, before the Superior Court of Justice, and in the course of any of the stages of the inquiry or judicial action, that jurisdiction on the matter be taken to Federal Justice.

Article 110. Each State, as well as the Federal District, shall be a judicial section, which shall have its seat in the respective capital, and there shall be courts of first instance located where established in law.

Sole paragraph. In the federal Territories, the jurisdiction and duties attributed to federal judges shall be within the competence of the judges of the local justice, under the terms of the law.

Section V – Labour Courts and Judges

Article 111. The following are the bodies of Labour Justice: (CA No. 24, 1999; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – the Superior Labour Court;

II – the Regional Labour Courts;

III – Labour Judges.

Paragraph 1. (Revoked).

Paragraph 2. (Revoked).

Paragraph 3. (Revoked).

Article 111-A. The Superior Labour Court shall be composed of twenty-seven Justices, chosen from among Brazilians over thirty-five and under sixty-five years of age, appointed by the President of the Republic after approval by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate, as follows: (CA No. 45, 2004)

I – one-fifth from among lawyers effectively practicing their professional activity for more than ten years and from among members of the Labour Public Prosecution with over ten years of effective exercise, with due regard for the provisions of article 94;

II – the others, from among career judges of the Regional Labour Courts, nominated by the Superior Labour Court.

Paragraph 1. The law shall make provisions for the powers of the Superior Labour Court.

Paragraph 2. The following shall operate in conjunction with the Superior Labour Court:

I – the National School for the Education and Further Development of Labour Judges, which shall have the duty, among others, to regulate the official courses for admission into and promotion in the career;

II – the Higher Council of Labour Justice, which shall, under the terms of the law, exercise administrative, budgetary, financial, and property supervision over Labour Courts of first and second instances, in the quality of central body of the system, whose decisions shall have a binding effect.

Article 112. The law shall establish Labour Courts of first instance, allowing, in districts not covered by their jurisdiction, for the attribution of such jurisdiction to judges, appeals being admissible to the respective Regional Labour Court. (CA No. 24, 1999; CA No. 45, 2004)

Article 113. The law shall regulate the constitution, installation, jurisdiction, powers, guarantees, and conditions of exercise of the bodies of Labour Justice. (CA No. 24, 1999)

Article 114. Labour Justice has the power to hear and try: (CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 45, 2004)

I – judicial actions arising from labour relations, comprising entities of public international law and of the direct and indirect public administration of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities;
II – judicial actions involving the exercise of the right to strike;

Sole paragraph. The Prosecutors referred to in this article are entitled to acquire tenure after three years of effective exercise, by means of a performance appraisal carried out by the relevant agencies, following a detailed report issued by the corregidores.

Section III – The Legal Profession (CA No. 80, 2014)

Article 133. The lawyer is indispensable to the administration of justice and is inviolable for his acts or manifestations in the exercise of his profession, within the limits of the law.

Section IV – The Public Legal Defense (CA No. 80, 2014)

Article 134. The Public Legal Defense is a permanent institution, essential to the jurisdictional function of the State, and is responsible primarily, as an expression and an instrument of the democratic regime, for the judicial guidance, the promotion of human rights, and the full and free-of-charge defense, in all levels, both judicially and extrajudicially, of individual and collective rights of the needy, under the terms of item LXXIV of article 5, of the Federal Constitution. (CA No. 45, 2004; CA No. 74, 2013; CA No. 80, 2014)

Paragraph 1. A supplementary law shall organize the Public Legal Defense of the Union, of the Federal District and the Territories and shall prescribe general rules for its organization in the States, into career offices filled, in the initial class, by means of a civil service entrance examination of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, with the guarantee of irremovability being ensured to its members and the practice of the legal profession beyond the institutional attributions being forbidden.

Paragraph 2. The Public Legal Defense of each State shall be ensured of functional and administrative autonomy, as well as the prerogative to present its budget proposal within the limits set forth in the law of budgetary directives and in due compliance with the provisions of article 99, paragraph 2.

Paragraph 3. The provisions of paragraph 2 shall apply to the Public Legal Defense of the Union and to that of the Federal District.

Paragraph 4. Unity, indivisibility, and functional independence are institutional principles of the Public Legal Defense, and the provisions of article 93 and of item II of article 96 of this Federal Constitution shall also apply, insofar as pertinent.

Article 135. Servants in the careers regulated in Sections II and III of this Chapter shall be remunerated according to article 39, paragraph 4. (CA No. 19, 1998)

TITLE V – THE DEFENSE OF THE STATE AND OF THE DEMOCRATIC INSTITUTIONS

Chapter I – The State of Defense and the State of Siege

Section I – The State of Defense

Article 136. The President of the Republic may, after hearing the Council of the Republic and the National Defense Council, decree a state of defense to preserve or to promptly re-establish, in specific and restricted locations, the public order or the social peace threatened by serious and imminent institutional instability or affected by major natural calamities.

Paragraph 1. The decree instituting the State of defense shall determine the period of its duration, shall specify the areas to be encompassed and shall indicate, within the terms and limitations of the law, the coercive measures to be in force from among the following:

I – restrictions to the rights of:

- a) assembly, even if held within associations;
- b) secrecy of correspondence;
- c) secrecy of telegraph and telephone communication;

II – in the event of a public calamity, occupation and temporary use of public property and services, the Union being liable for the resulting damages and costs.

Paragraph 2. The State of defense shall not exceed thirty days and it may be extended once for an identical period if the reasons that justified its decreeing persist.

Paragraph 3. During the period in which the State of defense is in force:

I – arrest for a crime against the State, determined by the party executing the measure, shall be immediately communicated by such party to the competent judge, who shall remit it if it is illegal, it being the arrested person's choice to request examination of corpus delicti from the police authority;

II – the communication shall be accompanied by a statement by the authority as to the physical and mental state of the arrested person at the time of the filing of the charges;

III – the imprisonment or detention of any person shall not exceed ten days, unless authorized by the Judicial Power;

IV – incommunicability of the arrested person is forbidden.

Paragraph 4. Upon decreeing a state of defense or extension thereof, the President of the Republic shall, within twenty-four hours, submit the act with the respective justification to the National Congress, which shall decide by absolute majority.

Paragraph 5. If the National Congress is in recess, it shall be called extraordinarily within five days.

Paragraph 6. The National Congress shall examine the decree within ten days as from receipt thereof, and shall remain in operation as long as the State of defense is in force.

Paragraph 7. If the decree is rejected, the State of defense shall cease immediately.

Section II – The State of Siege

Article 137. The President of the Republic may, after hearing the Council of the Republic and the National Defense Council, request authorization from the National Congress to decree the State of siege in the event of:

I – serious disturbance with nationwide effects or occurrence of facts that evidence the ineffectiveness of a measure taken during the State of defense;

II – declaration of state of war or response to foreign armed aggression.

Sole paragraph. The President of the Republic shall, on requesting authorization to decree the State of siege or to extend it, submit the reasons that determine such request, and the National Congress shall decide by absolute majority.

Article 138. The decree of the State of siege shall specify the period of its duration, the rules required to implement it and the constitutional guarantees that are to be suspended and, after it is published, the President of the Republic shall designate the executor of the specific measures and the areas encompassed.

Paragraph 1. In the event of article 137, item I, the State of siege may not be decreed for more than thirty days nor may each extension exceed such period; in the event of item II, it may be decreed for the entire period of the war or foreign armed aggression.

Paragraph 2. If authorization to decree the State of siege is requested during parliamentary recess, the President of the Federal Senate shall immediately summon an extraordinary session of the National Congress to convene within five days in order to examine the act.

Paragraph 3. The National Congress shall remain in session until the end of the coercive measures.

Article 139. During the period in which the State of siege decreed under article 137, item I, is in force, only the following measures may be taken against persons:

I – obligation to remain at a specific place;

II – detention in a building not intended for persons accused of or convicted for common crimes;

III – restrictions regarding the inviolability of correspondence, the secrecy of communications, the rendering of information and the freedom of press, radio broadcasting and television, as established by law;

IV – suspension of freedom of assembly;

V – home search and seizure;

VI – intervention in public utility companies;

VII – requisitioning of property.

Sole paragraph. The broadcasting of speeches made by Congressmen in their Legislative Houses is not included in the restrictions of item III, if authorized by the respective Directing Board.

Section III – General Provisions

Article 140. The Directing Board of the National Congress shall, after hearing the party leaders, designate a Committee comprised of five of its members to monitor and supervise the implementation of the measures concerning the State of defense and the State of siege.

Article 141. Once the State of defense or the State of siege ceases, its effects shall also cease, without prejudice to liability for illicit acts performed by the executors or agents thereof.

Sole paragraph. As soon as the State of defense or the State of siege ceases, the measures applied during the period while it is in force shall be reported by the President of the Republic in a message to the National Congress, with specification and justification of the actions taken, with the listing of the names of those affected and indication of the restrictions applied.

Chapter II – The Armed Forces

Article 142. The Armed Forces, comprised of the Navy, the Army and the Air Force, are permanent and regular national institutions, organized on the basis of hierarchy and discipline, under the supreme authority of the President of the Republic, and are intended for the defense of the Country, for the guarantee of the constitutional powers, and, on the initiative of any of these, of law and order. Paragraph 3. The federal railway police are a permanent body organized and maintained by the Union, structured into a career, and intended, according to the law, to patrol ostensibly the federal railways.

Paragraph 4. It is incumbent upon the civil police, directed by career police commissioners and except for the competence of the Union, to exercise the functions of criminal police and to investigate criminal offenses, with the exception of the military ones.

Paragraph 5. It is within the competence of the military polices the ostensive policing and the maintenance of the public order; it is incumbent upon the military fire brigades, in addition to the duties defined by law, to carry out activities of civil defense.

Paragraph 6. The military polices and military fire brigades, ancillary forces and reserve of the Army, are subject, together with the civil police, to the Governors of the States, of the Federal District and of the Territories.

Paragraph 7. The law shall regulate the organization and operation of the agencies responsible for public security in such a manner as to guarantee the efficiency of their activities.

Paragraph 8. The Municipalities may organize Municipal Guards to protect their property, services and facilities, as the law shall establish.

Paragraph 9. The remuneration of the policemen who are members of the agencies mentioned in this article shall be stipulated according to paragraph 4 of article 39.

Paragraph 10. Road safety, carried out with a view to preserving public order and the safety of people and of their property on public roads:

I – comprises traffic education, engineering, and supervision, as well as other activities set forth in law, aimed at affording citizens the right to efficient urban mobility; and

II – is incumbent, within the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, on the respective executive bodies or entities and their traffic officers, organized in a career, under the terms of the law.

TITLE VI – TAXATION AND BUDGET

Chapter I – The National Tax System

Section I – General Principles

Article 145. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities may institute the following tributes:

I – taxes;

II – fees, by virtue of the exercise of police power or for the effective or potential use of specific and divisible public services, rendered to the taxpayer or made available to him;

III – benefit charges, resulting from public works.

Paragraph 1. Whenever possible, taxes shall have an individual character and shall be graded according to the economic capacity of the taxpayer, and the tax administration may, especially to confer effectiveness upon such objectives, with due respect to individual rights and under the terms of the law, identify the property, the incomes and the economic activities of the taxpayer.

Paragraph 2. Fees may not have the assessment basis reserved for taxes.

Article 146. A supplementary law shall: (CA No. 42, 2003)

I – provide for conflicts of competence concerning tax matters between the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities;

II – regulate the constitutional limitations on the power to tax;

III – establish general rules concerning tax legislation, especially with regard to:

- a) the definition of tributes and their types, as well as, regarding the taxes specified in this Constitution, the definition of the respective taxable events, assessment bases and taxpayers;
- b) tax liability, assessment, credit, limitation and laches;
- c) adequate tax treatment for the cooperative acts of cooperative associations;
- d) the definition of a differentiated and favorable tax treatment to be given to micro and small businesses, including special or simplified tax regimes in the case of the tax set forth in article 155, item II, the contributions set forth in article 195, item I, and paragraphs 12 and 13, and the contribution referred to in article 239.

Sole paragraph. The supplementary law referred to in item III, subitem d, may also establish a single regime for the collection of taxes and contributions owed to the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, with due regard for the following:

I – it shall be optional for the taxpayer;

II – different eligibility requirements may be established for each State;

III – payment of said tributes shall be unified and centralized, and the distribution of the share of funds belonging to the respective units of the Federation shall be immediate, any withholding or establishment of conditions being forbidden;

IV – collection, control, and claiming of payment may be shared by the units of the Federation, a single national roster of taxpayers being adopted.

Article 146-A. A supplementary law may establish special criteria for taxation, with a view to preventing imbalances in competition, without prejudice to the power of the Federal Government to establish, by law, rules for the same purpose. (CA No. 42, 2003)

Article 147. In a federal Territory, state taxes are within the competence of the Union and, if the Territory is not divided into Municipalities, also Municipal taxes; Municipal taxes are within the competence of the Federal District.

Article 148. The Union may, by means of a supplementary law, institute compulsory loans:

I – to meet extraordinary expenses resulting from public calamity, foreign war or the imminence thereof;
II – in the case of public investment of an urgent nature and relevant national interest, observing the provisions of article 150, item III, subitem, b.

Sole paragraph. The use of funds deriving from a compulsory loan shall be linked to the expense that justified the institution thereof.

Article 149. The Union shall have the exclusive competence to institute social contributions regarding intervention in the economic order and the interest of categories of employees or employers, as an instrument of its activity in the respective areas, observing the provisions of articles 146, item III, and 150, items I and III, and without prejudice to the provisions of article 195, paragraph 6, as regards the contributions mentioned in the latter article. (CA No. 33, 2001; CA No. 41, 2003; CA No. 42, 2003)

Paragraph 1. The States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall institute a contribution payable by their employees to fund the social security scheme referred to in article 40, for the benefit of such employees, and the respective rate may not be lower than the rate of the contribution paid by employees holding effective posts in the Union.

Paragraph 2. The social contribution taxes mentioned in the head paragraph of this article, as well as the contribution taxes regarding intervention in the economic domain:

- I – shall not be levied on export earnings;
- II – shall be also levied on the importation of foreign products or services;
- III – may have the following rates:
 - a) ad valorem rates, having as basis the proceeds, gross revenues, or the value of the transaction, and, in the case of importation, the customs value;

- b) specific rates, having as basis the unit of measurement adopted.

Paragraph 3. A natural person who is the recipient in an import transaction may be held as equivalent to a corporate body, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. The law shall establish the cases in which contributions will be levied only once.

Article 149-A. The Municipalities and the Federal District may establish a contribution, under the terms of their respective laws, to finance the public lighting service, with due regard for the provisions of article 150, item I and III. (CA No. 39, 2002)

Sole paragraph. The contribution mentioned in the head paragraph of this article may be charged to the consumer's electricity bill.

Section II – Limitations on the Power to Tax

Article 150. Without prejudice to any other guarantees ensured to the taxpayers, the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities are forbidden to: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 75, 2013)

I – impose or increase a tribute without a law to establish it;

II – institute unequal treatment for taxpayers who are in an equivalent situation, it being forbidden to establish any distinction by reason of professional occupation or function performed by them, independently of the juridical designation of their incomes, titles or rights;

- III – collect tributes:
 - a) for taxable events that occurred before the law which instituted or increased such tributes came into force;
 - b) in the same fiscal year in which the law which instituted or increased such tributes was published;
 - c) within the period of ninety days as from the date of publication of the law which instituted or raised such tributes, with due regard for the provision of subitem b;

IV – use a tribute for the purpose of confiscation;

V – establish limitations on the circulation of persons or goods, by means of interstate or interMunicipal tributes, except for the collection of toll fees for the use of highways maintained by the Government;

VI – institute taxes on:

- a) the property, income or services of one another;
- b) temples of any denomination;
- c) the property, income or services of political parties, including their foundations, of worker unions, of non-profit education and social assistance institutions, observing the requirements of the law;

- d) books, newspapers, periodicals and the paper intended for the printing thereof;
- e) musical phonograms and videophonograms produced in Brazil containing musical works or literary-musical works by Brazilian authors and/or works in general interpreted by Brazilian artists, as well as the physical media or digital files containing such works, except in the stage of industrial replication of laser-readable optical media.

Paragraph 1. The prohibition set forth in item III, subitem b, shall not apply to the taxes provided upon in articles 148, item I, 153, items I, item II, IV, and V; and 154, item II; and the prohibition set forth in item III, subitem c, shall not apply to the taxes provided upon in articles 148, item I, 153, items I, II, III, and V; and 154, item II, nor to the stipulation of the assessment basis of the taxes provided upon in articles 155, item III, and 156, item I.

Paragraph 2. The prohibition set forth in item VI, subitem a, extends to the autonomous government agencies and to the foundations instituted and maintained by the Government, as regards the property, income and services related to their essential purposes or resulting therefrom.

Paragraph 3. The prohibitions set forth in item VI, subitem a, and in the preceding paragraph do not apply to the property, income and services related to the exploitation of economic activities governed by the regulations which apply to private undertakings, or in which users pay consideration or prices or tariffs, nor exempt a promisor purchaser of real property from the obligation to pay tax thereon.

Paragraph 4. The prohibitions set forth in item VI, subitems b and c, encompass only the property, income and services related to the essential purposes of the entities mentioned therein.

Paragraph 5. The law shall determine measures for consumers to be informed about taxes levied on goods and services.

Paragraph 6. Any subsidy or exemption, reduction of assessment basis, concession of presumed credit, amnesty or remission, related to taxes, fees or contributions, may only be granted by means of a specific federal, State or Municipal law, which provides exclusively for the above-enumerated matters or the corresponding tax, fee or contribution, without prejudice to the provisions of article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g.

Paragraph 7. The law may impose upon the taxpayer the burden of the payment of a tax or contribution, whose taxable event will occur later, the immediate and preferential restitution of the amount paid being ensured, in case the presumed taxable event does not occur.

Article 151. It is forbidden for the Union:

I – to institute a tribute which is not uniform throughout the entire national territory or which implies a distinction or preference regarding a State, the Federal District or a Municipality to the detriment of another, it being allowed to grant tax incentives for the purpose of promoting the balanced social and economic development of the various regions of the country;

II – to tax income from public debt bonds of the States, of the Federal District and of the Municipalities, as well as the remuneration and earnings of the respective public agents, at levels above those established for its own bonds and agents;

III – to institute exemptions from tributes within the powers of the States, of the Federal District or of the Municipalities.

Article 152. The States, the Federal District and the Municipalities are forbidden to establish a tax difference between goods and services of any nature, by reason of their origin or destination.

Section III – Federal Taxes

Article 153. The Union shall have the power to institute taxes on: (CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 42, 2003)

I – importation of foreign products;

II – exportation to other countries of national or nationalized products;

III – income and earnings of any nature;

IV – industrialized products;

V – credit, foreign exchange and insurance transactions, or transactions relating to bonds or securities;

VI – rural property;

VII – large fortunes, under the terms of a supplementary law.

Paragraph 1. The Executive Power may, observing the conditions and the limits established in law, alter the rates of the taxes enumerated in items I, II, IV and V.

Paragraph 2. The tax established in item III:

I – shall be based on the criteria of generality, universality and progressiveness, under the terms of the law;

II – (revoked).

Paragraph 3. The tax established in item IV:

I – shall be selective, based on the essentiality of the product;

II – shall be non-cumulative, and the tax due in each transaction shall be compensated by the amount charged in previous transactions;

III – shall not be levied on industrialized products intended for export;

IV – shall have its impact reduced, as set forth by law, in the case of purchase of capital goods by a taxpayer who is liable to pay such tax.

Paragraph 4. The tax established in item VI of the head paragraph:

I – shall be progressive and its rates shall be determined in such a manner as to discourage the retention of unproductive real property;

II – shall not be levied on small tracts of land, as defined in law, when a proprietor who owns no other real property exploits them;

III – shall be controlled and collected by the Municipalities which opt to do so, under the terms of the law, provided that they do not reduce this tax or introduce any other type of fiscal waiver.

Paragraph 5. Gold, when defined in law as a financial asset or an exchange instrument, is subject exclusively to the tax established in item V of the head paragraph of the present article, due on the original transaction; the minimum rate shall be one per cent, and the transference of the amount collected is ensured under the following terms:

I – thirty per cent to the State, the Federal District or the Territory, depending on the origin;

II – seventy per cent to the Municipality of origin.

Article 154. The Union may institute:

I – by means of a supplementary law, taxes not instituted in the preceding article, provided that they are non-cumulative and not founded on a taxable event or an assessment basis reserved for the taxes specified in this Constitution;

II – in the imminence or in the event of foreign war, extraordinary taxes, encompassed or not by its power to tax, which shall be gradually suppressed when the causes for their institution have ceased.

Section IV – State and Federal District Taxes

Article 155. The States and the Federal District shall have the competence to institute taxes on: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 33, 2001; CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 87, 2015)

I – transfer by death and donation of any property or rights;

II – transactions relating to the circulation of goods and to the rendering of interstate and interMunicipal transportation services and services of communication, even when such transactions and renderings begin abroad;

III – ownership of automotive vehicles.

Paragraph 1. The tax established in item I:

I – regarding real property and the respective rights, is within the competence of the State where the property is located, or of the Federal District;

II – regarding bonds, titles and credits, is within the competence of the Federal District or of the State where the probate or enrollment is processed, or where the donor is domiciled;

III – a supplementary law shall regulate the competence for the institution of such tax:

a) if the donor is domiciled or residing abroad;

b) if the deceased owned property, was resident or domiciled or had his probate processed abroad;

IV – the Federal Senate shall establish the maximum rates for such tax.

Paragraph 2. The tax established in item II shall observe the following:

I – it shall be non-cumulative, and the tax due in each transaction concerning the circulation of goods or rendering of services shall be compensated by the amount charged in the previous transactions by the same or by another State or by the Federal District;

II – exemption or non-levy, except as otherwise determined in the law:

a) shall not imply credit for compensation relative to the amount due in the subsequent transactions or renderings of services;

b) shall cause the annulment of the credit for the previous transactions;

III – it may be selective, based on the essentiality of the goods or services;

IV – a resolution of the Federal Senate, on the initiative of the President of the Republic or of one-third of the Senators, approved by the absolute majority of its members, shall establish the rates that apply to interstate and export transactions and rendering of services;

V – the Federal Senate may:

a) establish minimum rates for domestic transactions, by means of a resolution on the initiative of one-third and approved by the absolute majority of its members;

b) establish maximum rates for the same transactions to settle a specific conflict involving the interest of the States, by means of a resolution on the initiative of the absolute majority and approved by two-thirds of its members;

VI – unless otherwise determined by the States and the Federal District, under the terms of the provisions of item XII, subitem g, the domestic rates for transactions concerning the circulation of goods and the rendering of services may not be lower than those established for interstate transactions;

VII – the interstate rate applies to the transactions and rendering of goods and services to end-users located in another State, whether it is incumbent upon them to pay that tax or not. The State where the recipient is located will collect the tax corresponding to the difference between the internal rate charged in the recipient State and the interstate rate;

a) (revoked);

b) (revoked);

VIII – the responsibility for the collection of the tax corresponding to the difference between the internal rate and the interstate rate referred to in item VII will be assigned to:

a) the recipient, when it is incumbent upon the recipient to pay that tax;

b) the remitter, when it is not incumbent upon the recipient to pay that tax;

IX – it shall also be levied:

a) on the entry of goods or products imported from abroad by an individual or corporate body, even in the case of a taxpayer who does not pay such tax on a regular basis, regardless of its purpose, as well as on services rendered abroad, and the tax shall be attributed to the State where the domicile or the establishment of the recipient of the product, good, or service is located;

b) on the total value of the transaction, when goods are supplied with services not included in the power to tax of the Municipalities;

X – it shall not be levied:

a) on transactions involving goods to be shipped abroad, nor on services to be delivered to parties abroad, and tax charges and credits in preceding transactions involving such goods or services shall continue in effect;

b) on transactions transferring petroleum, including lubricants, liquid and gaseous fuels derived therefrom, and electric energy to other States;

c) on gold, in the cases defined in article 153, paragraph 5;

d) on communications services in the modes of sound broadcasting and sound and image broadcasting which are available for reception by the public free of charge;

XI – its assessment basis shall not include the amount of the tax on industrialized products when the transaction carried out between taxpayers and concerning a product intended for industrialization or sale represents a taxable event for both taxes;

XII – A supplementary law shall:

a) define its taxpayers;

b) provide for tax substitution;

c) regulate the system of tax compensation;

d) establish, for purposes of collection of the tax and definition of the responsible establishment, the location of the transactions concerning the circulation of goods and the rendering of services;

e) exclude from levy of the tax, in exports to other countries, services and other products other than those mentioned in item X, subitem a;

f) provide for the event of maintenance of a credit for services and goods remitted to another State and exported to other countries;

g) regulate the manner in which, through deliberation by the States and the Federal District, tax exemptions, incentives and benefits shall be granted and revoked;

h) define the fuels and lubricants on which this tax shall be levied only once, regardless of its purpose, in which case the provision of item X, subitem b, shall not apply;

i) stipulate the assessment basis so as to include the amount of the tax, also in the event of importation of goods, products, or services from abroad.

Paragraph 3. With the exception of the taxes mentioned in item II of the head paragraph of the present article, and article 153, items I and II, no other tax may be levied on transactions concerning electric energy, telecommunications services, petroleum products, fuels, and minerals of the country.

Paragraph 4. In the event of item XII, subitem h, the following shall apply:

I – in transactions involving lubricants and petroleum-derived fuels, the tax shall be attributed to the State where consumption takes place;

II – in interstate transactions among taxpayers involving natural gas and its by-products, and lubricants and fuels not included in item I of this paragraph, the tax shall be shared by the State of origin and the State of destination, and the proportion existing in transactions involving other goods shall be observed;

III – in interstate transactions involving natural gas and its by-products, and lubricants and fuels not included in item I of this paragraph, when it is not incumbent upon the recipient to pay the tax, such tax shall be attributed to the State of origin;

IV – the tax rates shall be defined by joint decision of States and the Federal District, under the terms of paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g, with due regard for the following:

- a) they shall be uniform throughout the national territory, and they may be different for each product;
- b) they may be specific, according to the unit of measurement adopted, or ad valorem, levied on the value of the transaction or on the price the product or a similar product would be sold for in free competition circumstances;
- c) they may be lowered and restored to their original levels, and the provision of article 150, item III, subitem b, shall not apply thereto.

Paragraph 5. The rules for the enforcement of the provisions of paragraph 4, including those concerning the collection and assignment of the tax, shall be established by joint decision of States and the Federal District, under the terms of paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g.

Paragraph 6. The tax established in item III:

I – shall have its minimum rates stipulated by the Federal Senate;

II – may have different rates according to type and utilization.

Section V – Municipal Taxes

Article 156. The Municipalities shall have the competence to institute taxes on: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 29, 2000; CA No. 37, 2002)

I – urban buildings and urban land property;

II – inter vivos transfer, on any account, by onerous acts, of real property, by nature or physical accession, and of real rights to property, except for real security, as well as the assignment of rights to the purchase thereof;

III – services of any nature not included in article 155, item II, as defined in a supplementary law;

IV – (revoked).

Paragraph 1. Without prejudice to the progressiveness in time mentioned in article 182, paragraph 4, item II, the tax referred to in item I may:

I – be progressive according to the value of the property; and

II – have different rates according to the location and utilization of the property.

Paragraph 2. The tax set forth in item II:

I – shall not be levied on the transfer of goods or rights incorporated into the assets of a corporate body to pay up its capital, nor on the transfer of goods or rights resulting from the merger, incorporation, division or dissolution of corporate bodies, unless, in such cases, the predominant activity of the purchaser is the purchase and sale of such goods or rights, the lease of real property or leasing;

II – is within the competence of the Municipality where the property is located.

Paragraph 3. As regards the tax established in item III of the head paragraph of this article, a supplementary law shall:

I – establish its maximum and minimum rates;

II – exclude exportations of services to other countries from levy of the said tax;

III – regulate the manner and conditions for the granting and revocation of fiscal exemptions, incentives, and benefits.

Paragraph 4. (Revoked).

Section VI – Tax Revenue Sharing

Article 157. The following shall be assigned to the States and to the Federal District:

I – the proceeds from the collection of the federal tax on income and earnings of any nature, levied at source on income paid on any account by them, by their autonomous government entities and by the foundations they institute and maintain;

II – twenty per cent of the proceeds from the collection of the tax that the Union may institute in the exercise of the powers conferred on it by article 154, item I.

Article 158. The following shall be assigned to the Municipalities: (CA No. 42, 2003)

I – the proceeds from the collection of the federal tax on income and earnings of any nature, levied at source on income paid on any account by them, by their autonomous government entities and by the foundations they institute and maintain;

II – fifty per cent of the proceeds from the collection of the federal tax on rural property, concerning real property located in the Municipalities, or one hundred per cent of such proceeds in the case of the option referred to in article 153, paragraph 4, item III;

III – fifty per cent of the proceeds from the collection of the State tax on the ownership of automotive vehicles licensed in the Municipalities;

IV – twenty-five per cent of the proceeds from the collection of the State tax on transactions regarding the circulation of goods and on rendering of interstate and intermunicipal transportation services and services of communication.

Sole paragraph. The revenue portions assigned to the Municipalities, as mentioned in item IV, shall be credited in accordance with the following criteria:

I – at least three-fourths, in proportion to the value added in the transactions regarding the circulation of goods and the rendering of services carried out in the territory of the Municipalities;

II – up to one-quarter, in accordance with the provisions of a state law or, in the case of the Territories, of a federal law.

Article 159. The Union shall remit: (CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 44, 2004; CA No. 55, 2007; CA No. 84, 2014)

I – of the proceeds from the collection of taxes on income and earnings of any nature and on industrialized products, forty-nine per cent (49%) as follows:

- a) twenty-one and a half of one per cent to the Revenue Sharing Fund of the States and of the Federal District;
- b) twenty-two and a half of one per cent to the Revenue Sharing Fund of the Municipalities;
- c) three per cent, for application in programs to finance the productive sector of the North, Northeast and Centre-West Regions, through their regional financial institutions, in accordance with regional development plans, the semi-arid area of the Northeast being ensured of half of the funds intended for that Region, as provided by law;
- d) one per cent to the Revenue Sharing Fund of the Municipalities, to be remitted within the first ten days of the month of December of each year;
- e) one per cent (1%) to the Revenue Sharing Fund of the Municipalities, to be remitted within the first ten days of the month of July of each year.

II – of the proceeds from the collection of the tax on industrialized products, ten per cent to the States and to the Federal District, in proportion to the value of the respective exportations of industrialized products;

III – of the proceeds from the collection of the contribution for intervention in the economic domain set forth in article 177, paragraph 4, twenty-nine per cent to the States and to the Federal District, distributed in accordance with the law, with due regard for the allocation referred to in item II, subitem c, of said paragraph.

Paragraph 1. For purposes of calculating the amount to be remitted in accordance with the provisions in item I, the portion of the collected tax on income and earnings of any nature assigned to the States, to the Federal District and to the Municipalities shall be excluded, as provided by articles 157, item I, and 158, item I.

Paragraph 2. No federated unit may be allocated a portion in excess of twenty per cent of the amount referred to in item II, and any excess shall be distributed among the other participants, maintaining, for the latter, the apportionment criterion established therein.

Paragraph 3. The States shall remit twenty-five per cent of the funds they may receive as provided by item II to the respective Municipalities, observing the criteria established in article 158, sole paragraph, items I and II.

Paragraph 4. Twenty-five per cent of the amount of monies referred to in item III and allocated to each State shall be assigned to its Municipalities, in accordance with the law referred to in said item.

Article 160. It is forbidden to withhold or to make any restriction to the remittance and use of the funds assigned in this section to the States, to the Federal District and to the Municipalities, including any tax additions and increases. (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 29, 2000)

Sole paragraph. The prohibition mentioned in the present article does not prevent the Union and the States from remitting the funds on condition of:

I – payment of their credits, including those of the associate government agencies;

II – compliance with the provisions of article 198, paragraph 2, items II and III.

Article 161. A supplementary law shall:

I – define the added value for the purposes provided by article 158, sole paragraph, item I;

II – establish rules for the remittance of the funds referred to in article 159, especially the criteria for the sharing of the funds set forth in its item I, seeking to promote social and economic balance among States and among Municipalities;

III – provide for the monitoring, by the beneficiaries, of the calculation of the quotas and release of the participations set forth in articles 157, 158 and 159.

Sole paragraph. The Federal Audit Court shall calculate the quotas referring to the participation funds mentioned in item II.

Article 162. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall announce, on or before the last day of the month following that of collection, the amounts of each of the tributes collected, the funds received, the tax sums remitted and to be remitted and the numerical expression of the apportionment criteria.

Sole paragraph. The data announced by the Union shall be discriminated by State and by Municipality; those of the States, by Municipality.

Chapter II – Public Finances

Section I – General Rules

Article 163. A supplementary law shall make provisions for: (CA No. 40, 2003)

I – public finances;

II – foreign and domestic public debt, including the debt of the autonomous government agencies, foundations and other entities controlled by the Government;

III – granting of guarantees by government entities;

IV – issuance and redemption of public debt bonds;

V – financial supervision of governmental entities and entities owned by the Federal Government;

VI – foreign exchange transactions carried out by bodies and agencies of the Union, of the States, of the Federal District and of the Municipalities;

VII – compatibility of the functions of the official credit institutions of the Union, safeguarding all the characteristics and full operational conditions of those intended for regional development.

Article 164. The competence of the Union to issue currency shall be exercised exclusively by the central bank.

Paragraph 1. It is forbidden for the central bank to grant, either directly or indirectly, loans to the National Treasury and to any body or agency which is not a financial institution.

Paragraph 2. The central bank may purchase and sell bonds issued by the National Treasury, for the purpose of regulating the money supply or the interest rate.

Paragraph 3. The cash assets of the Union shall be deposited at the central bank; those of the States, of the Federal District, of the Municipalities and of the bodies or agencies of the Government and of the companies controlled by the same, at official financial institutions, excepting the cases established in law.

Section II – Budgets

Article 165. Laws of the initiative of the Executive Power shall establish: (CA No. 86, 2015)

I – the pluriannual plan;

II – the budgetary directives;

III – the annual budgets.

Paragraph 1. The law which institutes the pluriannual plan shall establish, on a regional basis, the directives, objectives and targets of the federal public administration for the capital expenditures and other expenses resulting therefrom and for those regarding continuous programmes.

Paragraph 2. The law of budgetary directives shall comprise the targets and priorities of the federal public administration, including the capital expenditures for the subsequent fiscal year, shall guide the drawing up of the annual budget law, shall make provisions for alterations in tax legislation and shall establish the investment policy for the official development financing agencies.

Paragraph 3. The Executive Power shall, within thirty days after the closing of each two-month period, publish a summarized report on budget implementation.

Paragraph 4. The national, regional and sectorial plans and programmes set forth in this Constitution shall be drawn up in compliance with the pluriannual plan and shall be examined by the National Congress.

Paragraph 5. The annual budget law shall include:

I – the fiscal budget regarding the Powers of the Union, their funds, bodies and entities of the direct and indirect administration, including foundations instituted and maintained by the Government;

II – the investment budget of companies in which the Union directly or indirectly holds the majority of the voting capital;

III – the social welfare budget, comprising all direct and indirect administration entities or bodies connected with social security, as well as funds and foundations instituted and maintained by the Government.

Paragraph 6. The budget bill shall be accompanied by a regionalized statement on the effect on revenues and expenses, deriving from exemptions, amnesties, remissions, subsidies and benefits of a financial, tributary and credit nature.

Paragraph 7. The functions of the budgets set forth in paragraph 5, items I and II, of the present article, compatible with the pluriannual plan, shall include the function of reducing interregional inequalities, according to populational criteria.

Paragraph 8. The annual budget law shall not contain any provision extraneous to a forecast of revenues and to the establishment of expenses, such prohibition not including authorization to open supplementary credits and to contract credit transactions, even if by advance of revenues, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 9. A supplementary law shall:

I – make provisions for the fiscal year, effectiveness, terms, drawing up and organization of the pluriannual plan, of the law of budgetary directives and of the annual budget law;

II – establish rules for the financial and property management of the direct and indirect administration, as well as conditions for the institution and operation of funds.

III – provide for criteria for an equitable implementation, in addition to procedures to be adopted in the event of legal and technical impediments, payment of carryovers, and limits to appropriations of a mandatory nature, for realization of the provisions of paragraph 11 of article 166.

Article 166. The bills regarding the pluriannual plan, the budgetary directives, the annual budget and the additional credits shall be examined by the two Houses of the National Congress, in accordance with their common regulations. (CA No. 86, 2015)

Paragraph 1. It is incumbent upon a permanent joint committee of Senators and Deputies to:

I – examine and issue its opinion on the bills referred to in the present article and on the accounts submitted annually by the President of the Republic;

II – examine and issue its opinion on the national, regional and sectorial plans and programmes established in this Constitution, and exercise budgetary monitoring and supervision, without affecting the operation of the other committees of the National Congress and of its Houses, created in accordance with article 58.

Paragraph 2. Amendments shall be submitted to the joint committee, which shall report on them, and shall be examined, in accordance with the regulations, by the Plenary Session of the two Houses of the National Congress.

Paragraph 3. Amendments to the bill of the annual budget or to the bills which modify it may only be approved if:

I – they are compatible with the pluriannual plan and with the law of budgetary directives;

II – they specify the necessary funds, allowing only those resulting from the annulment of expenses, and excluding those which apply to:

- a) allocations for personnel and their charges;
- b) debt servicing;
- c) constitutional tax transfers to the States, the Municipalities and the Federal District; or

III – they are related:

- a) to the correction of errors or omissions; or
- b) to the provisions of the text of the bill of law.

Paragraph 4. Amendments to the bill of budgetary directives may not be approved if they are incompatible with the pluriannual plan.

Paragraph 5. The President of the Republic may send a message to the National Congress to propose modifications in the bills referred to in the present article as long as the joint committee has not started to vote on the part for which an alteration is being proposed.

Paragraph 6. The bills of the pluriannual plan law, of the law of budgetary directives and of the annual budget law shall be forwarded by the President of the Republic to the National Congress, under the terms of the supplementary law referred to in article 165, paragraph 9.

Paragraph 7. The other rules regarding legislative procedure shall apply to the bills mentioned in this article, as long as they are not contrary to the provisions of this section.

Paragraph 8. Any funds which, as a result of a veto, amendment or rejection of the bill of the annual budget law, have no corresponding expenses, may be allocated, as the case may be, by means of special or supplementary credits, with prior and specific legislative authorization.

Paragraph 9. Individual amendments to the budget bill shall be approved up to the limit of one and two tenths percent (1.2%) of the net current revenue set forth in the bill forwarded by the Executive Branch, and half of such percentage shall be assigned to public health actions and services.

Paragraph 10. The amount spent in public health actions and services as set forth in paragraph 9, including current spending, shall be taken into account for purposes of compliance with article 198, paragraph 2, item I, it being forbidden to assign such amount to the payment of personnel expenditures or social charges.

Paragraph 11. The budget execution and the financial implementation of the appropriations referred to in paragraph 9 of this article are mandatory, in an amount corresponding to one and two tenths percent (1.2%) of the net current revenue realized in the previous fiscal year, as per the criteria for equitable execution of appropriations as defined in the supplementary law set forth in paragraph 9 of article 165.

Paragraph 12. The budget appropriations set forth in paragraph 9 of this article shall not be subject to mandatory execution in the cases of impediments of a technical nature.

Paragraph 13. When the mandatory transfer from the Union, for the execution of the appropriations set forth in paragraph 11 of this article, is intended for the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, it shall not depend upon the fulfillment of obligations by the recipient unit of the federation, and it shall not be included in the assessment basis of the net current revenue for purposes of application of the limits of expenditure on personnel referred to in the head paragraph of article 169.

Paragraph 14. In the event of an impediment of a technical nature, for financial commitments regarding expenditures included in the appropriations, under the terms of paragraph 11 of this article, the following measures shall be adopted:

I – within one hundred twenty (120) days after the publication of the Budgetary Law, the Executive Branch, the Legislative Branch, the Judicial Branch, the Public Prosecution Service, and the Public Legal Defense shall forward to the Legislative Branch the justification for the impediment;

II – within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item I, the Legislative Branch shall recommend to the Executive Branch the reallocation of the appropriations whose impediment is insurmountable;

III – by September 30 or within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item II, the Executive Branch shall forward a bill of law on the reallocation of the appropriations whose impediment is insurmountable;

IV – if, by November 20 or within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item III, the National Congress has not resolved upon the bill, the reallocation shall be implemented by an act of the Executive Branch, under the terms of the budgetary law.

Paragraph 15. After the deadline set forth in item IV of paragraph 14, the budget appropriations stipulated in paragraph 11 shall not be subject to mandatory execution in the cases of impediments justified in the notification referred to in item I of paragraph 14.

Paragraph 16. Carryovers may be taken into account for purposes of compliance with the amount of outlays set forth in paragraph 11 of this article, up to the limit of six tenths of one percent (0.6%) of the net current revenue realized in the previous fiscal year.

Paragraph 17. Should it be found that reestimating the revenue and the expenditure may lead to noncompliance with the targeted fiscal result established in the law of budgetary directives, the amount set forth in paragraph 11 of this article may be reduced by up to the same proportion of the limit applicable to all discretionary spending.

Paragraph 18. The execution of appropriations of a mandatory nature is deemed equitable if it meets, on an equal and impersonal basis, the purpose of the amendments presented, regardless of who their sponsors are.

Article 167. The following are forbidden: (CA No. 3, 1993; CA No. 19, 1998; CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 29, 2000; CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 85, 2015)

I – to begin programmes or projects not included in the annual budget law;

II – to incur expenses or to assume direct obligations which exceed the budgetary or additional credits;

III – to carry out credit transactions, which exceed the amount of capital expenses, excepting those authorized by means of supplementary or special credits with a specific purpose and approved by an absolute majority of the Legislative Power;

IV – to bind tax revenues to an agency, fund or expense, excepting the sharing of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes referred to in articles 158 and 159, the allocation of funds for public health actions and services, for the maintenance and development of education, and for the implementation of tax administration activities, as determined, respectively, in article 198, paragraph 2, article 212, and article 37, item XXII, and the granting of guarantees on credit transactions by advance of revenues, as established in article 165, paragraph 8, as well as in paragraph 4 of the present article;

V – to open a supplementary or special credit without prior legislative authorization and without specification of the corresponding funds;

VI – to reassign, reallocate or transfer funds from one programming category to another or from one agency to another without prior legislative authorization;

VII – to grant or use unlimited credits;

VIII – to use, without specific legislative authorization, funds from the fiscal and social security budgets to supply a necessity or to cover a deficit of companies, foundations and funds, including those mentioned in article 165, paragraph 5;

IX – to institute funds of any nature without prior legislative authorization;

X – to transfer funds voluntarily and to grant loans, including by means of advancement of revenues, by the Federal Government, the Government of the States and their financial institutions, for the payment of expenditures related to active and retired personnel and pensioners, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities;

XI – to use the funds arising from the welfare contributions set forth in article 195, items I, subitem a, and II, to defray expenses other than the payment of benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201.

Paragraph 1. No investment whose execution exceeds one fiscal year may be implemented without prior inclusion in the pluriannual plan, or without a law to authorize such inclusion, subject to crime of malversation.

Paragraph 2. Special and extraordinary credits shall be effective in the fiscal year in which they are authorized, unless the authorization act is enacted during the last four months of that fiscal year, in which case, reopened within the limits of their balances, such credits shall be incorporated into the budget of the subsequent fiscal year.

Paragraph 3. The opening of extraordinary credit may only be allowed to meet unforeseeable and urgent expenses, such as those resulting from war, internal commotion or public calamity, observing the provisions in article 62.

Paragraph 4. It is permitted to bind proper revenues generated by the taxes referred to in articles 155 and 156, and the funds mentioned in articles 157, 158 and 159, items I, subitems a and b, and II, to the granting of a guarantee or a counter-guarantee to the Union, and to the payment of debts owed to the same.

Paragraph 5. Reassigning, reallocating, or transferring funds from one programming category to another may eventually be permitted, within science, technology, and innovation activities, with a view to enabling the outcomes of projects restricted to these functions, by means of an act of the Executive Power, without the prior legislative authorization set forth in item VI of this article.

Article 168. Funds corresponding to budgetary allocations, including supplementary and special credits, intended for the bodies of the Legislative and Judicial Powers, the Public Prosecution, and the Public Legal Defense, shall be remitted to them on or before the twentieth of each month, in twelfths, as provided by the supplementary law referred to in article 165, paragraph 9. (CA No. 45, 2004)

Article 169. Expenditures on active and retired personnel of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities may not exceed the limits established in a supplementary law. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Paragraph 1. The granting of any advantage or increase of remuneration, the creation of posts, positions or functions, or alteration of career structures, as well as admission or hiring of personnel, on any account, by Government bodies and entities, or entities owned by the Government, including foundations instituted and maintained by the Government, may only be effected: I – if there is a prior budgetary allocation sufficient to cover the estimated expenditure with personnel and the increases resulting therefrom;

II – if there is specific authorization in the law of budgetary directives, with the exception of government enterprises and joint stock companies.

Paragraph 2. Once finished the time limit established in the supplementary law referred to in this article for the adaptation to the standards therein stipulated, all remittances of federal or state funds shall be immediately suspended to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities which do not obey the said limits.

Paragraph 3. To comply with the limits established according to this article, within the time period stipulated in the supplementary law referred to in the head paragraph, the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall adopt the following measures: I – reduction of at least twenty percent of the expenditures on commission offices and positions of trust; II – discharge of untenured servants.

Paragraph 4. If the measures adopted according to the preceding paragraph are not sufficient to guarantee compliance with the provision of the supplementary law referred to in this article, tenured servants may be dismissed, provided that a regulatory act justified by each of the Branches specifies the activity, the agency, or the administrative unit where reduction of personnel must be carried out.

Paragraph 5. A servant who is dismissed according to the preceding paragraph shall be entitled to compensation equivalent to one month of remuneration per year of service.

Paragraph 6. The post affected by the reduction mentioned in the preceding paragraphs shall be considered extinct, and the creation of a post, position, or function with equal or similar duties shall be forbidden for the period of four years.

Paragraph 7. A federal act shall provide for the general rules to be complied with in carrying out the provision of paragraph 4.

TITLE VII – THE ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL ORDER

Chapter I – The General Principles of the Economic Activity

Article 170. The economic order, founded on the appreciation of the value of human work and on free enterprise, is intended to ensure everyone a life with dignity, in accordance with the dictates of social justice, with due regard for the following principles: (CA No. 6, 1995; CA No. 42, 2003)

I – national sovereignty;

II – private property;

III – the social function of property;

IV – free competition;

V – consumer protection;

VI – environment protection, which may include differentiated treatment in accordance with the environmental impact of goods and services and of their respective production and delivery processes;

VII – reduction of regional and social differences;

VIII – pursuit of full employment;

IX – preferential treatment for small enterprises organized under Brazilian laws and having their head-office and management in Brazil.

Sole paragraph. Free exercise of any economic activity is ensured to everyone, regardless of authorization from government agencies, except in the cases set forth by law.

Article 171. (Revoked). (CA No. 6, 1995)

Article 172. The law shall regulate, based on national interests, the foreign capital investments, shall encourage reinvestments and shall regulate the remittance of profits.

Article 173. With the exception of the cases set forth in this Constitution, the direct exploitation of an economic activity by the State shall only be allowed whenever needed to the imperative necessities of the national security or to a relevant collective interest, as defined by law. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Paragraph 1. The law shall establish the legal system of public companies, joint-stock companies and their subsidiary companies engaged in economic activities connected with the production or trading of goods, or with the rendering of services, providing upon:

I – their social function and the forms of control by the State and by society;

II – compliance with the specific legal system governing private companies, including civil, commercial, labour, and tax rights and liabilities;

III – bidding and contracting of works, services, purchases, and disposal, with due regard for the principles of government services;

IV – the establishment and operation of boards of directors and of boards of supervisors, with the participation of minority shareholders;

V – the terms of office, the performance appraisals, and the liability of administrators.

Paragraph 2. The public companies and the mixed-capital companies may not enjoy fiscal privileges which are not extended to companies of the private sector.

Paragraph 3. The law shall regulate the relationships of public companies with the State and society.

Paragraph 4. The law shall repress the abuse of economic power that aims at the domination of markets, the elimination of competition and the arbitrary increase of profits.

Paragraph 5. The law shall, without prejudice to the individual liability of the managing officers of a legal entity, establish the liability of the latter, subjecting it to punishments compatible with its nature, for acts performed against the economic and financial order and against the citizens' monies.

Article 174. As the normative and regulating agent of the economic activity, the State shall, in the manner set forth by law, perform the functions of control, incentive and planning, the latter being binding for the public sector and indicative for the private sector.

Paragraph 1. The law shall establish the guidelines and bases for planning of the balanced national development, which shall embody and make compatible the national and regional development plans.

Paragraph 2. The law shall support and encourage cooperative activity and other forms of association.

Paragraph 3. The State shall favour the organization of the placer-mining activity in cooperatives, taking into account the protection of the environment and the social-economic furthering of the placer-miners.

Paragraph 4. The cooperatives referred to in the preceding paragraph shall have priority in obtaining authorization or grant for prospecting and mining of placer resources and deposits in the areas where they are operating and in those established in accordance with article 21, item XXV, as set forth by law.

Article 175. It is incumbent upon the Government, as set forth by law, to provide public utility services, either directly or by concession or permission, which will always be through public bidding.

Sole paragraph. The law shall provide for:

I – the operating rules for the public service concession – or permission-holding companies, the special nature of their contract and of the extension thereof, as well as the conditions of forfeiture, control and termination of the concession or permission;

II – the rights of the users;

III – tariff policy;

IV – the obligation of maintaining adequate service.

Article 176. Mineral deposits, under exploitation or not, and other mineral resources and the hydraulic energy potentials form, for the purpose of exploitation or use, a property separate from that of the soil and belong to the Union, the concessionaire being guaranteed the ownership of the mined product. (CA No. 6, 1995)

Paragraph 1. The prospecting and mining of mineral resources and the utilization of the potentials mentioned in the head paragraph of this article may only take place with authorization or concession by the Union, in the national interest, by Brazilians or by a company organized under Brazilian laws and having its head-office and management in Brazil, in the manner set forth by law, which law shall establish specific conditions when such activities are to be conducted in the boundary zone or on Indian lands.

Paragraph 2. The owner of the soil is ensured of participation in the results of the mining operation, in the manner and amount as the law shall establish.

Paragraph 3. Authorization for prospecting shall always be for a set period of time and the authorization and concession set forth in this article may not be assigned or transferred, either in full or in part, without the prior consent of the conceding authority.

Paragraph 4. Exploitation of a renewable energy potential of small capacity shall not require an authorization or concession.

Article 177. The following are the monopoly of the Union: (CA No. 9, 1995; CA No. 33, 2001; CA No. 49, 2006)

I – prospecting and exploitation of deposits of petroleum and natural gas and of other fluid hydrocarbons;

II – refining of domestic or foreign petroleum;

III – import and export of the products and basic by-products resulting from the activities set forth in the preceding items;

IV – ocean transportation of crude petroleum of domestic origin or of basic petroleum by-products produced in the country, as well as pipeline transportation of crude petroleum, its by-products and natural gas of any origin;

V – prospecting, mining, enrichment, reprocessing, industrialization, and trading of nuclear mineral ores and minerals and their by-products, with the exception of radioisotopes whose production, sale, and use may be authorized under a permission, in accordance with subitems b and c of item XXIII of the head paragraph of article 21 of this Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 1. The Union may contract with state-owned or with private enterprises for the execution of the activities provided for in items I through IV of this article, with due regard for the conditions set forth by law.

Paragraph 2. The law referred to in paragraph 1 shall provide for:

I – a guarantee of supply of petroleum products in the whole national territory;

II – the conditions of contracting;

III – the structure and duties of the regulatory agency of the monopoly of the Union.

Paragraph 3. The law shall provide with respect to the transportation and use of radioactive materials within the national territory.

Paragraph 4. The law which institutes a contribution tax of intervention in the economic domain regarding activities of importation or sale of petroleum and petroleum products, natural gas and its by-products, and fuel alcohol shall include the following requirements:

I – the contribution rate may be:

a) different for each product or use;

b) lowered and restored to its original level by an act of the Executive Branch, and the provision of article 150, item III, subitem b, shall not apply thereto;

II – the proceeds from the collection of the contribution shall be allocated:

a) to the payment of price or transportation subsidies for fuel alcohol, natural gas and its by-products, and petroleum products;

b) to the financing of environmental projects related to the petroleum and gas industry;

c) to the financing of transportation infrastructure programs.

Article 178. The law shall provide for the regulation of air, water and ground transportation, and it shall, in respect to the regulation of international transportation, comply with the agreements entered into by the Union, with due regard to the principle of reciprocity. (CA No. 7, 1995)

Sole paragraph. In regulating water transportation, the law shall set forth the conditions in which the transportation of goods in coastal and internal navigation will be permitted to foreign vessels.

Article 179. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall afford micro-enterprises and small enterprises, as defined by law, differentiated legal treatment, seeking to further them through simplification of their administration, tax, social security and credit obligations or through elimination or reduction thereof by means of law.

Article 180. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall promote and further tourism as a factor of social and economic development.

Article 181. Compliance with request for a document or for information of commercial nature, made by a foreign administrative or judicial authority to an individual or legal entity residing or domiciled in the country shall depend upon authorization from the competent authority.

Chapter II – Urban Policy

Article 182. The urban development policy carried out by the Municipal Government, according to general guidelines set forth in the law, is aimed at ordaining the full development of the social functions of the city and ensuring the well-being of its inhabitants.

Paragraph 1. The master plan, approved by the City Council, which is compulsory for cities of over twenty thousand inhabitants, is the basic tool of the urban development and expansion policy.

Paragraph 2. Urban property performs its social function when it meets the fundamental requirements for the ordainment of the city as set forth in the master plan.

Paragraph 3. Expropriation of urban property shall be made against prior and fair compensation in cash.

Paragraph 4. The Municipal Government may, by means of a specific law, for an area included in the master plan, demand, according to federal law, that the owner of unbuilt, underused or unused urban soil provide for adequate use thereof, subject, successively, to:

I – compulsory parceling or construction;

II – rates of urban property and land tax that are progressive in time;

III – expropriation with payment in public debt bonds issued with the prior approval of the Federal Senate, redeemable within up to ten years, in equal and successive annual installments, ensuring the real value of the compensation and the legal interest.

Article 183. An individual who possesses an urban area of up to two hundred and fifty square meters, for five years, without interruption or opposition, using it as his or as his family's home, shall acquire domain of it, provided that he does not own any other urban or rural property.

Paragraph 1. The deed of domain and concession of use shall be granted to the man or woman, or both, regardless of their marital status.

Paragraph 2. This right shall not be recognized for the same holder more than once.

Paragraph 3. Public real estate shall not be acquired by prescription.

Chapter III – Agricultural and Land Policy and Agrarian Reform

Article 184. It is within the power of the Union to expropriate on account of social interest, for purposes of agrarian reform, the rural property which is not performing its social function, against prior and fair compensation in agrarian debt bonds with a clause providing for maintenance of the real value, redeemable within a period of up to twenty years computed as from the second year of issue, and the use of which shall be defined in the law.

Paragraph 1. Useful and necessary improvements shall be compensated in cash.

Paragraph 2. The decree declaring the property as being of social interest for agrarian reform purposes empowers the Union to start expropriation action.

Paragraph 3. It is incumbent upon a supplementary law to establish special summary adversary proceeding for expropriation action.

Paragraph 4. The budget shall determine each year the total volume of agrarian debt bonds, as well as the total amount of funds to meet the agrarian reform programme in the fiscal year.

Paragraph 5. The transactions of transfer of property expropriated for agrarian reform purposes are exempt from federal, State and Municipal taxes.

Article 185. Expropriation of the following for agrarian reform purposes is not permitted:

I – small and medium-size rural property, as defined by law, provided its owner does not own other property;

II – productive property.

Sole paragraph. The law shall guarantee special treatment for the productive property and shall establish rules for the fulfillment of the requirements regarding its social function.

Article 186. The social function is met when the rural property complies simultaneously with, according to the criteria and standards prescribed by law, the following requirements:

I – rational and adequate use;

II – adequate use of available natural resources and preservation of the environment;

III – compliance with the provisions that regulate labour relations;

IV – exploitation that favours the well-being of the owners and labourers.

Article 187. The agricultural policy shall be planned and carried out as established by law, with the effective participation of the production sector, comprising producers and rural workers, as well as the marketing, storage and transportation sectors, with especial consideration for:

- I – the credit and fiscal mechanisms;
- II – prices compatible with production costs and the guarantee of marketing;
- III – research and technology incentives;
- IV – technical assistance and rural extension;
- V – agricultural insurance;
- VI – cooperative activity;
- VII – rural electricity and irrigation systems;
- VIII – housing for the rural workers.

Paragraph 1. Agricultural planning includes agro-industrial, stock raising, fishing and forestry activities.

Paragraph 2. Agricultural policy and agrarian reform actions shall be made compatible.

Article 188. The destination given to public and unoccupied lands shall be made compatible with the agricultural policy and the national agrarian reform plan. Paragraph 1. The alienation or concession in any way of public lands with an area of more than two thousand and five hundred hectares to an individual or legal entity, even if through an intermediary, shall depend on the prior approval of the National Congress.

Paragraph 2. Alienations or concessions of public lands for agrarian reform purposes are excluded from the provisions of the preceding paragraph.

Article 189. The beneficiaries of distribution of rural land through agrarian reform shall receive title-deeds or concession of use which may not be transacted for a period of ten years.

Sole paragraph. The title-deed and the concession of use shall be granted to the man or the woman, or to both, irrespective of their marital status, according to the terms and conditions set forth by law.

Article 190. The law shall regulate and limit the acquisition or lease of rural property by a foreign individual or legal entity, and shall establish the cases that shall depend on authorization by the National Congress.

Article 191. The individual who, not being the owner of rural or urban property, holds as his own, for five uninterrupted years, without opposition, an area of land in the rural zone, not exceeding fifty hectares, making it productive with his labour or that of his family, and having his dwelling thereon, shall acquire ownership of the land.

Sole paragraph. The public real estate shall not be acquired by prescription.

Chapter IV – The National Financial System

Article 192. The national financial system, structured to promote the balanced development of the country and to serve the collective interests, in all of the component elements of the system, including credit cooperatives, shall be regulated by supplementary laws which shall also provide for the participation of foreign capital in the institutions that make up the said system: (CA No. 13, 1996; CA No. 40, 2003)

I – (revoked);

II – (revoked);

III – (revoked);

a) (revoked);

b) (revoked);

IV – (revoked);

V – (revoked);

VI – (revoked);

VII – (revoked);

VIII – (revoked).

Paragraph 1. (Revoked).

Paragraph 2. (Revoked).

Paragraph 3. (Revoked).

TITLE VIII – THE SOCIAL ORDER

Chapter I – General Provision

Article 193. The social order is based on the primacy of work and aimed at social well-being and justice.

Chapter II – Social Welfare

Section I – General Provisions

Article 194. Social welfare comprises an integrated whole of actions initiated by the Government and by society, with the purpose of ensuring the rights to health, social security and assistance. (CA No. 20, 1998)

Sole paragraph. It is incumbent upon the Government, as provided by law, to organize social welfare, based on the following objectives:

I – universality of coverage and service;

II – uniformity and equivalence of benefits and services for urban and rural populations;

III – selectivity and distributiveness in the provision of benefits and services;

IV – irreducibility of the value of the benefits;
 V – equitable participation in funding;
 VI – diversity of the financing basis;
 VII – democratic and decentralized character of administration, by means of a quadripartite management, with the participation of workers, employers, retirees, and the Government in the collegiate bodies.

Article 195. Social welfare shall be financed by all of society, either directly or indirectly, as provided by law, with funds coming from the budgets of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities and from the following welfare contributions: (CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 42, 2003; CA No. 47, 2005)

I – of employers, companies, and entities defined by law as being comparable to companies, assessed on:

- a) the payroll and other labour earnings paid or credited, on any account, to individuals who render services to them, even when there is no employment bond;
- b) income or revenues;
- c) profits;

II – of workers and other persons insured by social security, no contribution being assessed on retirement pensions and other pensions granted by the general social security scheme referred to in article 201;

III – on the revenues of lotteries;

IV – of importers of goods or services from other countries, or of other parties defined by law as being comparable to such importers.

Paragraph 1. The revenues of the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities allotted to social welfare shall be included in the respective budgets, not being part of the budget of the Union.

Paragraph 2. The proposal for the social welfare budget shall be drawn up jointly by the agencies responsible for health, social security and social assistance, in accordance with the goals and priorities established in the law of budgetary directives, ensuring each area of the management of its funds.

Paragraph 3. A legal entity indebted to the social welfare system, as established in law, may not contract with the Government nor receive benefits or fiscal or credit incentives therefrom.

Paragraph 4. The law may institute other sources intended to guarantee the maintenance or expansion of social welfare, with due regard to the provisions of article 154, item I.

Paragraph 5. No social welfare benefit or service may be created, increased or extended without a corresponding source of full funding.

Paragraph 6. The social contributions referred to in this article may only be collected ninety days after the publication of the law which instituted or modified them, the provisions of article 150, item III, subitem b, not applying thereto.

Paragraph 7. Benevolent entities of social assistance which meet the requirements established in law shall be exempt from contribution to social welfare.

Paragraph 8. Rural producers, sharecroppers, tenant farmers, and self-employed fishermen, as well as their spouses, who exercise their activities within a household system and without permanent employees shall contribute to social welfare by applying a rate to the proceeds from the sale of their production and shall be entitled to the benefits provided by law.

Paragraph 9. The welfare contributions set forth in item I of the head paragraph of this article may have differentiated rates or assessment bases, according to the economic activity, the intensive use of labour, the size of the company, or the structural situation of the labour market.

Paragraph 10. The law shall define the criteria for the transfer of funds allocated to the unified health system and for social assistance initiatives, from the Union to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, and from the States to the Municipalities, with due regard for the respective transfer of funds.

Paragraph 11. It is forbidden to grant remission or pardon of the welfare contributions referred to in items I, subitem a, and II of this article, for debits which exceed the limit stipulated by a supplementary law.

Paragraph 12. The law shall define the sectors of economic activity for which the contributions stipulated under the terms of items I, subitem b, and IV of the head paragraph, shall be non-cumulative.

Paragraph 13. The provision of paragraph 12 shall also apply in the case of gradual replacement, either total or partial, of the contribution stipulated under the terms of item I, subitem a, by the contribution due on income or revenues.

Section II – Health

Article 196. Health is a right of all and a duty of the State and shall be guaranteed by means of social and economic policies aimed at reducing the risk of illness and other hazards and at the universal and equal access to actions and services for its promotion, protection and recovery.

Article 197. Health actions and services are of public importance, and it is incumbent upon the Government to provide, in accordance with the law, for their regulation, supervision and control, and they shall be carried out directly or by third parties and also by individuals or private legal entities.

Article 198. Health actions and public services integrate a regionalized and hierarchical network and constitute a single system, organized according to the following directives: (CA No. 29, 2000; CA No. 51, 2006; CA No. 63, 2010; CA No. 86, 2015)

I – decentralization, with a single management in each sphere of government;

II – full service, priority being given to preventive activities, without prejudice to assistance services;

III – participation of the community.

Paragraph 1. The unified health system shall be financed, as set forth in article 195, with funds from the social welfare budget of the Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities, as well as from other sources.

Paragraph 2. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall apply each year, to health actions and public services, a minimum amount of funds derived from the application of percentages calculated upon the following:

I – in the case of the Union, the net current revenue of the respective fiscal year, and it may not be lower than fifteen percent (15%);

II – in the case of the States and of the Federal District, the proceeds from the collection of the taxes mentioned in article 155 and of the funds mentioned in articles 157 and 159, items I, subitem a, and II, after deducting the portions remitted to the respective Municipalities;

III – in the case of the Municipalities and of the Federal District, the proceeds from the collection of the taxes mentioned in article 156 and of the funds mentioned in articles 158 and 159, item I, subitem b, and paragraph 3.

Paragraph 3. A supplementary law to be revised at least every five years shall establish:

I – the percentages referred to in items II and III of paragraph 2;

II – the criteria for the sharing of funds of the Union earmarked for health and assigned to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, and of funds of the States assigned to their respective Municipalities, with a view to a progressive reduction of regional disparities;

III – the rules for supervision, assessment, and control of expenditures on health at the level of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities;

IV – (revoked).

Paragraph 4. The local managers of the unified health system may hire community health workers and endemic disease control agents by means of a public selection process, taking into account the nature and complexity of their duties and the specific requirements of their activity.

Paragraph 5. Federal legislation shall provide for the legal regime, a nationwide professional minimum salary, the guidelines for Career Schemes, and the regulation of activities of community health workers and endemic disease control agents, and it shall be incumbent upon the Federal Government, under the terms of the law, to provide supplementary financial support to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities, to achieve compliance with said minimum salary.

Paragraph 6. In addition to the cases set forth in paragraph 1 of article 41 and in paragraph 4 of article 169 of the Federal Constitution, an employee whose activities are equivalent to those of a community health worker or an endemic disease control agent may be dismissed if he does not comply with the specific requirements stipulated by law for such activities.

Article 199. Health assistance is open to private enterprise.

Paragraph 1. Private institutions may participate in a supplementary manner in the unified health system, in accordance with the directives established by the latter, by means of public law contracts or agreements, preference being given to philanthropic and non-profit entities.

Paragraph 2. The allocation of public funds to aid or subsidize profit-oriented private institutions is forbidden.

Paragraph 3. Direct or indirect participation of foreign companies or capital in health assistance in the country is forbidden, except in cases provided by law.

Paragraph 4. The law shall provide for the conditions and requirements which facilitate the removal of organs, tissues and human substances for the purpose of transplants, research and treatment, as well as the collection, processing and transfusion of blood and its by-products, all kinds of sale being forbidden.

Article 200. It is incumbent upon the unified health system, in addition to other duties, as set forth by the law: (CA No. 85, 2015)

I – to supervise and control proceedings, products and substances of interest to health and to participate in the production of drugs, equipment, immunobiological products, blood products and other inputs;

II – to carry out actions of sanitary and epidemiologic vigilance as well as those relating to the health of workers;
 III – to organize the training of personnel in the area of health;

IV – to participate in the definition of the policy and in the implementation of basic sanitation actions;

VI – to supervise and control foodstuffs, including their nutritional contents, as well as drinks and water for human consumption;

VII – to participate in the supervision and control of the production, transportation, storage and use of psychoactive, toxic and radioactive substances and products;

VIII – to cooperate in the preservation of the environment, including that of the workplace.

Section III – Social Security

Article 201. The social security system shall be organized as a general scheme, of a contributory basis and mandatory participation, with due regard for criteria that preserve financial and actuarial balance, and shall provide for, in accordance with the law: (CA No. 20, 1998; CA No. 41, 2003; CA No. 47, 2005)

I – coverage for the events of illness, disability, death, and old age;

II – protection to maternity, especially to pregnant women;

III – protection to workers in a situation of involuntary unemployment;

IV – family allowance and confinement allowance for the dependents of the low-income insured;

V – pension for death of the insured, man or woman, to the spouse or companion, and dependents, complying with the provision of paragraph 2.

Paragraph 1. The adoption of differentiated requirements and criteria for the granting of retirement to the beneficiaries of the general social security scheme is forbidden, with the exception of the cases, as defined by a supplementary law, of activities carried out under special conditions which are harmful to health or to physical wholeness, and of cases in which the insured are persons with disabilities.

Paragraph 2. No benefit which replaces the contribution salary or labour earnings of the insured shall have a monthly amount lower than the minimum monthly wage.

Paragraph 3. All contribution salaries included in the calculation of the benefit shall be duly updated, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. Readjustment of the benefits is ensured, to the end that their real value is permanently maintained, in accordance with criteria defined by law.

Paragraph 5. Participation in the general social security scheme, in the quality of an optional insured, is forbidden for a person who participates in a special social security scheme.

Paragraph 6. The Christmas bonus for retirees and pensioners shall be based on the amount of the earnings in the month of December of each year.

Paragraph 7. Retirement is ensured under the general social security scheme, in accordance with the law, upon compliance with the following conditions:

I – thirty-five years of contribution, if a man, and thirty years of contribution, if a woman;

II – sixty-five years of age, if a man, and sixty years, if a woman, this age limit being reduced by five years for rural workers of both sexes and for those who exercise their activities within a household system, therein included rural producers, placer miners, and self-employed fishermen.

Paragraph 8. The requirements referred to in item I of the preceding paragraph will be reduced by five years, for teachers who document exclusively a period of effective exercise of teaching functions in children education and in elementary and secondary education.

Paragraph 9. For purposes of retirement, the reciprocal computation of the period of contribution in government bodies and in private activity, either rural or urban, shall be ensured, in which case the various social security schemes shall offset each other financially, in accordance with criteria established by law.

Paragraph 10. The law shall regulate the coverage of employment-injury risks, and such coverage shall be provided both by the general social security scheme and the private sector.

Paragraph 11. The amounts habitually earned by an employee, on any account, shall be incorporated into his monthly salary for purposes of social security contribution and the resulting effects on benefits, in the cases and in the manner provided by law.

Paragraph 12. The law shall provide for a special system to include low-income workers in the social security system, as well as to include no-income persons who are engaged exclusively in household chores within their own homes, provided that they belong to low-income families, so that they have guaranteed access to benefits at an amount equal to one monthly minimum salary.

Paragraph 13. The rates and grace periods of the special system of inclusion in the social security system referred to in paragraph 12 of this article shall be lower than those in effect for other insured participants of the general social security scheme.

Article 202. The private social security scheme, of a complementary nature and organized on an autonomous basis as regards the general social security scheme, shall be optional, based on the formation of reserves which guarantee the contracted benefit, and regulated by a supplementary law. (CA No. 20, 1998)

Paragraph 1. The supplementary law referred to in this article shall ensure that the participant in benefit plans of private pension plan companies is provided with full access to information regarding the management of their respective plans.

Paragraph 2. The contributions of employers, the benefits, and the terms of contracts set forth in the bylaws, regulations, and benefit plans of the private pension plan companies are neither an integral part of the employment contract of participants, nor, with the exception of the benefits granted, an integral part of the remuneration of participants, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 3. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, their associate government agencies, foundations, public enterprises, joint stock companies, and other public entities are forbidden to contribute funds to private pension plan companies, save in the quality of sponsors, in which case their standard contribution may not, under any circumstances, exceed that of the insured.

Paragraph 4. A supplementary law shall regulate the relationship between the Union, the States, the Federal District, or the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies, foundations, joint stock companies, and enterprises controlled either directly or indirectly, in the quality of sponsors of closed private pension plan companies, and their respective closed private pension plan companies.

Paragraph 5. The supplementary law referred to in the preceding paragraph shall apply, insofar as pertinent, to private companies holding a permission or concession to render public services, when such companies sponsor closed private pension plan companies.

Paragraph 6. The supplementary law referred to in paragraph 4 of this article shall establish the requirements for the appointment of board members of the closed private pension plan companies, and shall regulate the inclusion of participants in the collegiate bodies and decision-making bodies in which their interests are subject to discussion and decision.

Paragraph 1. Marriage is civil and the marriage ceremony is free of charge.

Paragraph 2. Religious marriage has civil effects, in accordance with the law.

Paragraph 3. For purposes of protection by the State, the stable union between a man and a woman is recognized as a family entity, and the law shall facilitate the conversion of such entity into marriage.

Paragraph 4. The community formed by either parent and their descendants is also considered as a family entity.

Paragraph 5. The rights and the duties of marital society shall be exercised equally by the man and the woman.

Paragraph 6. Civil marriage may be dissolved by divorce.

Paragraph 7. Based on the principles of human dignity and responsible parenthood, family planning is a free choice of the couple, it being within the competence of the State to provide educational and scientific resources for the exercise of this right, any coercion by official or private agencies being forbidden.

Paragraph 8. The State shall ensure assistance to the family in the person of each of its members, creating mechanisms to suppress violence within the family.

Article 227. It is the duty of the family, society, and the State to ensure children, adolescents, and young people, with absolute priority, the right to life, health, nourishment, education, leisure, professional training, culture, dignity, respect, freedom, and family and community life, as well as to guard them from all forms of negligence, discrimination, exploitation, violence, cruelty, and oppression. (CA No. 65, 2010)

Paragraph 1. The State shall promote full health assistance programmes for children, adolescents, and young people, the participation of non-governmental entities being allowed, by means of specific policies and with due regard to the following precepts:

I – allocation of a percentage of public health care funds to mother and child assistance;

II – creation of preventive and specialized care programmes for persons with physical, sensory, or mental disabilities, as well as programmes for the social integration of disabled adolescents and young people, by means of training for a profession and for community life and by means of enhanced access to communal facilities and services, including the elimination of architectural barriers and all forms of discrimination.

Paragraph 2. The law shall regulate construction standards for public sites and buildings and for the manufacturing of public transportation vehicles, in order to ensure adequate access to the handicapped.

Paragraph 3. The right to special protection shall include the following aspects:

I – minimum age of fourteen years for admission to work, with due regard to the provisions of article 7, item XXXIII;

II – guarantee of social security and labour rights;

III – guarantee of access to school for adolescent and young workers;

IV – guarantee of full and formal knowledge of the determination of an offense, equal rights in the procedural relationships and technical defense by a qualified professional, in accordance with the provisions of the specific protection legislation;

V – compliance with the principles of brevity, exceptionality and respect to the peculiar conditions of the developing person, when applying any measures that restrain freedom;

VI – Government fostering, by means of legal assistance, tax incentives and subsidies, as provided by law, of the protection, through guardianship, of orphaned or abandoned children or adolescents;

VII – preventive and specialized care programmes for children, adolescents, and young people addicted to narcotics or related drugs.

Paragraph 4. The law shall severely punish abuse, violence and sexual exploitation of children and adolescents.

Paragraph 5. Adoption shall be assisted by the Government, as provided by law, which shall establish cases and conditions for adoption by foreigners.

Paragraph 6. Children born inside or outside wedlock or adopted shall have the same rights and qualifications, any discriminatory designation of their filiation being forbidden.

Paragraph 7. In attending to the rights of children and adolescents, the provisions of article 204 shall be taken into consideration.

Paragraph 8. The law shall establish:

I – a young people's statute, for the purpose of regulating young people's rights;

II – a ten-year national plan for young people, aimed at coordinating the work of the various levels of government in the implementation of public policies.

Article 228. Minors under eighteen years of age may not be held criminally liable and shall be subject to the rules of the special legislation.

Article 229. It is the duty of parents to assist, raise and educate their under-age children and it is the duty of children of age to help and assist their parents in old-age, need or sickness.

Article 230. It is the duty of the family, society and the State, to assist the elderly, ensuring their participation in the community, defending their dignity and well-being and guaranteeing their right to life.

Paragraph 1. Assistance programmes for the elderly shall be carried out preferably within their homes.

Paragraph 2. Those over sixty-five years of age are guaranteed free urban public transportation.

Chapter VIII – Indians

Article 231. Indians shall have their social organization, customs, languages, creeds and traditions recognized, as well as their original rights to the lands they traditionally occupy, it being incumbent upon the Union to demarcate them, protect and ensure respect for all of their property.

Paragraph 1. Lands traditionally occupied by Indians are those on which they live on a permanent basis, those used for their productive activities, those indispensable to the preservation of the environmental resources necessary for their well-being and for their physical and cultural reproduction, according to their uses, customs and traditions.

Paragraph 2. The lands traditionally occupied by Indians are intended for their permanent possession and they shall have the exclusive usufruct of the riches of the soil, the rivers and the lakes existing therein.

Paragraph 3. Hydric resources, including energetic potentials, may only be exploited, and mineral riches in Indian land may only be prospected and mined with the authorization of the National Congress, after hearing the communities involved, and the participation in the results of such mining shall be ensured to them, as set forth by law.

Paragraph 4. The lands referred to in this article are inalienable and indisposable and the rights thereto are not subject to limitation.

Paragraph 5. The removal of Indian groups from their lands is forbidden, except ad referendum of the National Congress, in case of a catastrophe or an epidemic which represents a risk to their population, or in the interest of the sovereignty of the country, after decision by the National Congress, it being guaranteed that, under any circumstances, the return shall be immediate as soon as the risk ceases.

Paragraph 6. Acts with a view to occupation, domain and possession of the lands referred to in this article or to the exploitation of the natural riches of the soil, rivers and lakes existing therein, are null and void, producing no legal effects, except in case of relevant public interest of the Union, as provided by a supplementary law and such nullity and voidness shall not create a right to indemnity or to sue the Union, except in what concerns improvements derived from occupation in good faith, in the manner prescribed by law.

Paragraph 7. The provisions of article 174, paragraphs 3 and 4, shall not apply to Indian lands.

Article 232. The Indians, their communities and organizations have standing under the law to sue to defend their rights and interests, the Public Prosecution intervening in all the procedural acts.

TITLE IX – GENERAL CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS

Article 233. (Revoked). (CA No. 28, 2000)

Article 234. It is forbidden for the Union to assume, directly or indirectly, as a result of the creation of a State, burdens related to expenses with inactive personnel and with charges and repayments of internal or foreign debt of the public administration, including those of the indirect administration.

Article 235. During the first ten years after the creation of a State the following basic rules shall be observed:

I – the Legislative Assembly shall be composed of seventeen Deputies if the population of the State is less than six hundred thousand inhabitants, and of twenty-four Deputies if it is equal to or greater than this number, up to one million and five hundred thousand inhabitants;
II – the Government shall have at most ten Secretariats;
III – the Audit Court shall have three members, appointed by the elected Governor, among Brazilians of proven good repute and notable knowledge;
IV – the Court of Justice shall have seven Judges;
V – the first Judges shall be appointed by the elected Governor, chosen in the following manner:

- a) five of them from among judges with more than thirty-five years of age, in exercise within the area of the new State or of the original one;
- b) two of them from among public prosecutors, under the same conditions, and from among attorneys of proven good repute and legal knowledge, with at least ten years of professional practice, complying with the procedures set forth in this Constitution;

VI – in the case of a State which originated from a federal Territory, the first five Judges may be chosen from among judges from any part of the country;

VII – in each judicial district the first Judge, the first Public Prosecutor and the first Public Defender shall be appointed by the elected Governor after a public entrance examination of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials;

VIII – until the promulgation of the State Constitution, the offices of Attorney-General, Advocate-General and Defender-General shall be held by lawyers of notable knowledge, with at least thirty-five years of age, appointed by the elected Governor and removable ad nutum;

IX – if the new State results from the transformation of a federal Territory, the transfer of financial burden from the Union for payment of opting civil servants who belonged to the Federal Administration, shall take place as follows:

- a) in the sixth year after its creation, the State shall assume twenty percent of the financial burden for the payment of the civil servants, the remainder continuing as a responsibility of the Union;

- b) in the seventh year, thirty percent shall be added to the burden of the State and, in the eighth year, the remaining fifty percent;

X – the appointments subsequent to the first ones, for the offices mentioned in this article, shall be regulated by the State Constitution;

XI – the budgetary personnel expenses shall not exceed fifty percent of the revenues of the State.

Article 236. Notary and registration services shall be exercised by private entities by Government delegation.

Paragraph 1. The law shall regulate the activities, discipline the civil and criminal liability of notaries, registrars and their officials and define the supervision of their acts by the Judicial Power.

Paragraph 2. Federal law shall set forth general rules for the establishment of the fees for the acts performed by notary and registration services.

Paragraph 3. The entrance in notary and registration activities shall depend on a public entrance examination of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, and an office shall not be permitted to remain vacant for more than six months, without the opening of a public examination to fill it, either by appointment or transference.

Article 237. The supervision and control of foreign trade, which are essential to the defense of national financial interests, shall be exercised by the Ministry of Finance.

Article 238. The law shall organize the sale and resale of petroleum-derived fuels, fuel alcohol and other fuels derived from renewable raw-materials, respecting the principles of this Constitution.

Article 239. The revenues from contributions to the Social Integration Program, created by the Supplementary Law number 7 of September 7, 1970, and to the Civil Servants Asset Development Programme, created by the Supplementary Law number 8, of December 3, 1970, shall, from the date of the promulgation of this Constitution, fund the unemployment insurance programme and the bonus referred to in paragraph 3 of this article, in the manner prescribed by law.

Paragraph 1. At least forty percent of the funds mentioned in the head paragraph of this article shall be allocated to finance economic development programmes, through the National Economic and Social Development Bank, with remuneration criteria which preserve their value. Paragraph 2. The accrued assets of the Social Integration Programme and of the Civil Servants Asset Development Programme shall be preserved, maintaining the criteria for withdrawal in the situations provided for in specific laws, with the exception of withdrawal by reason of marriage, it being forbidden the distribution of the revenues referred to in the head paragraph of this article, for deposit in the personal accounts of the participants.

Paragraph 3. Employees who receive monthly remuneration of up to two minimum wages from employers who contribute to the Social Integration Programme and to the Civil Servants Asset Development Programme shall be ensured the annual payment of one minimum wage, in which value the income of the individual accounts shall be computed, in the case of those who already participated in such programmes before the date of the promulgation of this Constitution.

Paragraph 4. Funding of the unemployment insurance programme shall receive an additional contribution from companies in which employee turnover exceeds the average turnover rate of the sector, in the manner established by law.

Article 240. The present compulsory contributions calculated on the payroll, made by employers, intended for private social service and professional training entities linked to the labour union system, are excluded from the provisions of article 195.

Article 241. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall issue legislation to regulate public syndicates and cooperation agreements between members of the Federation, authorizing the joint management of public services, as well as the transfer, in whole or in part, of charges, services, personnel, and goods essential to the continued rendering of the services transferred. (CA No. 19, 1998)

Article 242. The principle of article 206, item IV, shall not apply to the official educational institutions created by state or Municipal law and in existence on the date of the promulgation of this Constitution, which are not totally or predominantly maintained with public funds. Paragraph 1. The teaching of Brazilian history shall take into account the contribution of the different cultures and ethnic groups to the formation of the Brazilian people.

Paragraph 2. The Pedro II School, located in the city of Rio de Janeiro, shall be maintained in the federal sphere.

Article 243. Rural and urban properties in any region of the country where illegal plantations of psychotropic plants are found or the exploitation of slave labour as defined by law is uncovered shall be expropriated and assigned to agrarian reform and to low-income housing programs, with no indemnity to the owner and without prejudice to other sanctions set forth by law, with due regard, when appropriate, for the provisions of article 5. (CA No. 81, 2014)

Sole paragraph . Any and all goods of economic value seized as a result of illegal traffic of narcotics and similar drugs and of the exploitation of slave labour shall be confiscated and reverted to a special fund for a specific purpose, as the law provides.

TEMPORARY CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS ACT

Article 1. The President of the Republic, the President of the Federal Supreme Court and the members of the National Congress shall take an oath to maintain, defend and comply with the Constitution, upon and on the date of the promulgation thereof.

Article 2. On September 7, 1993, the voters shall define, through a plebiscite, the form (republic or constitutional monarchy) and system of government (parliamentary or presidential) to be in force in Brazil.⁶

Paragraph 1. The free diffusion of these forms and systems through public utility mass communication vehicles shall be free of charge.

Paragraph 2. The Superior Electoral Court shall, upon promulgation of the Constitution, issue the regulatory rules for this article.

Article 3. The revision of the Constitution shall be effected after five years as of its promulgation, by the vote of the absolute majority of the members of the National Congress in a unicameral session.

Article 4. The term of office of the incumbent President of the Republic shall end on March 15, 1990.

Paragraph 1. The first election for President of the Republic after promulgation of the Constitution shall be held on November 15, 1989, and the provisions of article 16 of the Constitution shall not apply thereto.

Paragraph 2. The irreducibility of the present representation of the States and the Federal District in the Chamber of Deputies is ensured.

Paragraph 3. The terms of office of the Governors and of the Vice-Governors elected on November 15, 1986 shall end on March 15, 1991.

Paragraph 4. The terms of office of the present Mayors, Vice-Mayors and City Councilmen shall end on January 1, 1989, with the inauguration of those elected.

Article 5. The provisions of article 16 and the rules of article 77 of the Constitution do not apply to the elections scheduled for November 15, 1988.

Paragraph 1. For the elections of November 15, 1988, an electoral domicile in the electoral district of at least four months prior to the election shall be required, and the candidates who fulfill this requirement and satisfy the other legal requisites may register with the Electoral Courts after the Constitution is promulgated.

Paragraph 2. In the absence of a specific legal rule, it shall be incumbent upon the Superior Electoral Court to issue the rules required to hold the 1988 elections, with due regard for the laws in force.

Paragraph 3. Present Federal Congressmen and State Representatives elected for the office of Vice-Mayor, if called to exercise the office of Mayor, shall not lose their parliamentary office.

Paragraph 4. The number of Councilmen per Municipality shall be determined, for the representation to be elected in 1988, by the respective Regional Electoral Court, with due regard for the limits established in article 29, item IV, of the Constitution.

Paragraph 5. For the elections to be held on November 15, 1988, except for those who already hold an elective office, the spouse and relatives by blood or marriage up to the second degree or relatives by adoption of the President of the Republic, of a State Governor, or the Governor of the Federal District and of a Mayor who have served more than half of their term of office, are ineligible for any office within the jurisdiction of the office holder.

Article 6. Federal Congressmen may, during the six months following the promulgation of the Constitution, and forming a group of at least thirty, request from the Superior Electoral Court the registration of a new political party, the petition to be accompanied by the respective manifest, the by-laws and the programme duly signed by the petitioners.

Paragraph 1. The provisional registration, which shall be promptly granted by the Superior Electoral Court, according to this article, grants to the new party all rights, duties and prerogatives of the existing parties, among which the right to take part, under its own name, in the elections to be held during the twelve months following its formation.

Paragraph 2. The new party shall automatically lose its provisional registration if, within twenty-four months of its formation, it fails to obtain the final registration at the Superior Electoral Court, as established by law.

Article 7. Brazil shall strive for the creation of an international court of human rights.

Article 8. Amnesty is granted to those who, during the period from September 18, 1946, to the date the Constitution is promulgated, have been affected, exclusively for political reasons, by institutional or supplementary acts of exception, to those encompassed in Legislative Decree No. 18, of December 15, 1961, and to those affected by Decree-Law No. 846, of September 12, 1969,

6. Please refer to CA No. 2, 1992.

Paragraph 2. At least fifteen percent of the funds of the Union expended under the terms of this article shall be applied in the Municipalities, according to the populational criterion, to health actions and public services, in accordance with the law.

Paragraph 3. The funds of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities assigned for health actions and public services, as well as those transferred by the Union for the same purpose, shall be applied by means of the Health Fund, to be monitored and supervised by the Health Board, without prejudice to the provisions of article 74 of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 4. In the absence of the supplementary law referred to in article 198, paragraph 3, the provisions of this article shall apply to the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities as of the financial year of 2005.

Article 78. With the exception of credits defined by law as being of a small amount, credits for alimony, and credits stated in article 33 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act and their supplementations, as well as those credits whose respective funds have already been released or paid into court, the court order debts for which payment is outstanding on the date of promulgation of this Amendment²¹ and those deriving from actions commenced before or on December 31, 1999, shall be settled according to their real value, in legal tender, including legal interests, in equal and successive annual installments, within ten years at the most, the assignment of credits being permitted. (CA No. 30, 2000)

Paragraph 1. The division of installments is permitted, at the discretion of the creditor.

Paragraph 2. In the event the annual installments referred to in the head paragraph of this article have not been paid before the end of the relevant fiscal year, they shall be deducted from the taxes owed to the debtor entity. Paragraph 3. The period of time referred to in the head paragraph of this article is reduced to two years, in the case of court order debts deriving from the expropriation of a creditor's residential property, provided that such property is proven to be the creditor's only residential property at the time of emission of a writ of ejectment. Paragraph 4. If the time limit has elapsed, or in the case of omission in the budget, or in the event the right of precedence is not respected, the President of the appropriate Court shall, upon petition of a creditor, requisition or order the seizure of funds of the debtor entity, at an amount sufficient to pay the installment.

Article 79. The Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, hereby instituted within the sphere of the Federal Executive Branch, shall be in force through the year 2010²² and shall be regulated by a supplementary law, aiming at enabling all Brazilians to have access to adequate subsistence levels, and its resources shall be applied to supplementary initiatives regarding nutrition, housing, education, health, a complementary family income, and other programs of relevant social interest oriented towards the improvement of the quality of life. (CA No. 31, 2000; CA No. 67, 2010)

Sole paragraph. The Fund set forth in this article shall have an Advisory and Monitoring Board that must include representatives of civil society, under the terms of the law.

Article 80. The Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty is comprised of: (CA No. 31, 2000)

- I – the part of the proceeds from the collection corresponding to additional eight hundredths of one percent, applicable from June 18, 2000, through June 17, 2002, to the rate of the social contribution referred to in article 75 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act;
- II – the part of the proceeds from the collection corresponding to additional five percent on the rate of the federal VAT [IPI], or of the tax that may eventually replace it, levied on luxury goods and applicable while the Fund is in force;
- III – the proceeds from the collection of the tax referred to in article 153, item VII, of the Constitution;
- IV – budgetary appropriations;
- V – donations, of any nature, by individuals or corporations established in Brazil or abroad;
- VI – other revenues, to be defined by the legislation that regulates the Fund.

Paragraph 1. The provisions of articles 159 and 167, item IV, of the Constitution, are not applicable to the resources that make up the Fund, neither is any disconnection of budgetary resources.

Paragraph 2. The proceeds from the collection of the resources referred to in item I of this article, during the period from June 18, 2000 through the date the supplementary law mentioned in article 79 becomes effective, shall be remitted in full to the Fund, their real value being preserved, in federal government securities, progressively redeemable after June 18, 2002, under the terms of the law.

Article 81. A Fund is hereby instituted, to be comprised of the resources received by the Federal Government as a result of divestiture of government-controlled corporations and public enterprises controlled either directly or indirectly by the Federal Government, when such operation involves the divestment of the respective controlling interest to an individual or entity not belonging to the government bodies, or of any remaining equity interest following such divestment, and the income thereof, generated as from June 18, 2002, shall be transferred to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty. (CA No. 31, 2000)

Paragraph 1. In case the yearly amount of income to be transferred to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, as set forth in this article, does not add up to the total of four billion reais, it shall be supplemented according to article 80, item IV, of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Paragraph 2. Without prejudice to the provision of paragraph 1, the Executive Branch may allocate other revenues deriving from the sale of Federal Government assets to the Fund mentioned in this article.

Paragraph 3. The resources that make up the Fund referred to in the head paragraph of this article, the transfer of said resources to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, and the other provisions concerning paragraph 1 of this article shall be regulated by law, and the provision of article 165, paragraph 9, item II of the Constitution shall not be applicable.

Article 82. The States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall institute Funds to Fight Poverty, comprised of the resources referred to in this article and other resources that may eventually be allocated for this purpose, and the said Funds shall be managed by entities which include the participation of civil society. (CA No. 31, 2000; CA No. 42, 2003)

22. Period of effect extended indefinitely. CA No. 67, 2010.

Paragraph 1. With a view to financing the State Funds and the Federal District Fund, an additional tax of up to two percent may be created, to raise the rate of the State VAT [ICMS], due on luxury goods and services and observing the conditions defined in the supplementary law referred to in article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, of the Constitution, and the provision of article 158, item IV, of the Constitution shall not be applicable to such percentage.

Paragraph 2. With a view to financing the Municipal Funds, an additional tax of up to half of one percent may be created, to raise the rate of the local service tax [ISS], or the rate of the tax that may eventually replace it, levied on luxury services.

Article 83. A federal law shall define the luxury goods and services referred to in articles 80, item II, and 82, paragraph 2. (CA No. 31, 2000; CA No. 42, 2003)

Article 84. The provisional contribution on the movement or transmission of monies and of credits and rights of a financial nature, set forth in articles 74, 75, and 80, item I, of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, shall be collected through December 31, 2004. (CA No. 37, 2002; CA No. 42, 2003)

Paragraph 1. The effect of Law No. 9,311, of October 24, 1996, as well as of its alterations, is hereby extended through the date mentioned in the head paragraph of this article.

Paragraph 2. Of the proceeds from collection of the social contribution mentioned in this article, the portion corresponding to the following rates shall be allocated to the purposes herein stated:

I – twenty hundredths percent to the National Health Fund, for the financing of health actions and services;
II – ten hundredths percent to the financing of social security;

III – eight hundredths percent to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, set forth in articles 80 and 81 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Paragraph 3. The rate of the contribution mentioned in this article shall be equal to:

I – thirty-eight hundredths percent in the financial years of 2002 and 2003;

II – (revoked).

Article 85. The contribution mentioned in article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall not be levied, as from the thirtieth day after the publication of this Constitutional Amendment²³, on entries concerning: (CA No. 37, 2002)

I – current deposit accounts especially opened and exclusively used for transactions carried out by:

- a) clearinghouses and providers of clearing and settlement services referred to in article 2, sole paragraph, of Law No. 10,214, of March 27, 2001;
- b) securitization companies referred to in Law No. 9,514, of November 20, 1997;
- c) business corporations whose exclusive purpose is to purchase credits originating from transactions carried out in the financial market;

- b) contracts written on stocks or stock indices, in their various modes, negotiated in stock exchanges, commodities and futures exchanges;

III – foreign investors' accounts, regarding entries into and remittances from Brazil of funds employed exclusively in transactions and contracts referred to in item II of this article.

Paragraph 1. The Executive Branch shall regulate the provisions of this article within thirty days as of the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment²⁴.

Paragraph 2. The provisions of item I of this article apply only to the transactions specified in an act issued by the Executive Branch, from among the transactions that constitute the purpose of said entities.

Paragraph 3. The provisions of item II of this article apply only to transactions and contracts effected through financial institutions, securities brokerage houses, securities distribution companies, and commodities brokerage houses.

Article 86. Debts that must be paid by the Federal, State, Federal District, or Municipal Tax Authorities by virtue of final and unappealable judicial decisions shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, the parceling rule established in the head paragraph of article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act not being applicable, if such debts meet the following cumulative conditions: (CA No. 37, 2002)

I – having been the subject of a court order;

23. Should read as "Constitutional Amendment No. 37, 2002".

24. Should read as "Constitutional Amendment No. 37, 2002".

II – having been defined as small amount debts by the law referred to in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, or by article 87 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act;

III – their payment being outstanding, in whole or in part, on the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment²⁵.

Paragraph 1. The debts referred to in the head paragraph of this article, or their respective balances, shall be paid in chronological order of presentation of the respective court orders, with precedence over debts of a higher amount.

Paragraph 2. If the debts referred to in the head paragraph of this article have not been subject to partial payment yet, under the terms of article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, they may be paid in two annual installments, as the law provides.

Paragraph 3. The payment of the alimony debts referred to in this article, with due respect for the chronological order of their presentation, shall take precedence over the payment of all other debts.

Article 87. For purposes of the provisions set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, and in article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, and until such time as the official publication of the respective defining acts by the units of the Federation is effected, the debts or bonds stated in court orders shall be considered as being of a small amount, with due regard for paragraph 4 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, if their amount is equal to or lesser than: (CA No. 37, 2002)

I – forty minimum monthly wages, in the case of debts owed by the Tax Authorities of the States and of the Federal District;

II – thirty minimum monthly wages, in the case of debts owed by the Tax Authorities of the Municipalities.

Sole paragraph. Should the amount under execution exceed the amount stipulated in this article, payment shall always be made by means of a court order, the execution creditor being entitled to waiving the credit of the excess amount, so that he may opt to receive the balance without the emission of a court order, in the manner set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100.

Article 88. Until such time as a supplementary law regulates the provisions of items I and III of paragraph 3 of article 156 of the Federal Constitution, the tax referred to in item III of the head paragraph of said article shall: (CA No. 37, 2002)

I – have a minimum rate of two percent, save for the services referred to in items 32, 33, and 34 of the List of Services appended to Decree-Law No. 406, of December 31, 1968;

II – not be subject to the granting of fiscal exemptions, incentives, and benefits, should the direct or indirect result of such granting be the reduction of the minimum rate stipulated in item I.

Article 89. The members of the uniformed police force and local administration employees of the former federal Territory of Rondônia, who, in accordance with official documents, were regularly exercising their functions and rendering services to such former Territory at the time it was transformed into a State, as well as the employees and uniformed police officers covered by the provisions of article 36 of Supplementary Law No. 41, December 22, 1981, and those who were legally included in the Rondônia State Government personnel up until March 15, 1987, that is, the date the first elected governor took office, shall be included, at their option, in a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services, being ensured of their specific rights and advantages, whereas the payment, under any circumstances, of remuneration differences shall be forbidden. (CA No. 38, 2002; CA No. 60, 2009)

Paragraph 1. The members of the uniformed police force shall continue rendering services to the State of Rondônia, in the quality of detailed personnel, subject to their respective uniformed police forces, with due regard for the compatibility between the duties of their function and their rank in the hierarchy.

Paragraph 2. The employees referred to in the head paragraph shall continue rendering services to the State of Rondônia, in the quality of detailed personnel, up until they are placed in a federal government entity, associate government agency, or foundation.

Article 90. The time limit set forth in the head paragraph of article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act is hereby extended through December 31, 2007. (CA No. 42, 2003)

Paragraph 1. The effect of Law No. 9,311, of October 24, 1996, as well as of its alterations, is hereby extended through the date mentioned in the head paragraph of this article.

Paragraph 2. The rate of the contribution referred to in article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall be equal to thirty-eight hundredths per cent through the date referred to in the head paragraph of this article.

25. Should read as “Constitutional Amendment No. 37, 2002”.

Article 91. The Union shall remit to the States and to the Federal District the amount defined by a supplementary law, in accordance with the criteria, time limits, and terms therein determined, taking into consideration exports of primary commodities and semi-manufactured products to other countries, the import-export ratio, credits deriving from purchases intended for the permanent assets, and the effective maintenance and utilization of the tax credits referred to in article 155, paragraph 2, item X, subitem a. (CA No. 42, 2003)

Paragraph 1. As to the amount of funds to be remitted to each State, seventy-five percent of such amount shall be assigned to the State itself, and twenty-five percent to its Municipalities, such percentage being distributed in accordance with the criteria referred to in article 158, sole paragraph, of the Constitution.

Paragraph 2. The remittance of funds set forth in this article shall prevail, as defined in a supplementary law, until such time as the proceeds from the collection of the tax referred to in article 155, subitem II, are predominantly assigned, in a proportion not below eighty per cent, to the State where consumption of the products, goods, or services takes place.

Paragraph 3. Until such time as the supplementary law referred to in the head paragraph is enacted, and so as to replace the system of remittance of funds set forth therein, there shall remain in force the system of remittance of funds set forth in article 31 and Schedule of Supplementary Law No. 87, of September 13, 1996, with the wording provided by Supplementary Law No. 115, of December 26, 2002.

Paragraph 4. The States and the Federal District shall present to the Federal Government, under the terms of instructions issued by the Finance Ministry, information regarding the tax referred to in article 155, item II, supplied by the taxpayers who carry out transactions involving goods to be shipped abroad or services to be delivered to foreign parties.

Article 93. The provisions of article 159, item III, and paragraph 4 shall only come into force after the promulgation of the law referred to in said item III. (CA No. 42, 2003)

Article 94. The special tax regimes for micro and small businesses which are specific of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall be discontinued as from the date the regime set forth in article 146, item III, subitem d, of the Constitution comes into force. (CA No. 42, 2003)

Article 95. Persons born abroad between June 7, 1994, and the date of enactment of this Constitutional Amendment²⁶, to a Brazilian father or a Brazilian mother, may be registered with a Brazilian diplomatic or consular authority, or with an official registry if they come to reside in the Federative Republic of Brazil. (CA No. 54, 2007)

Article 96. Acts aimed at the establishment, fusion, merger, and dismemberment of Municipalities, whose act of creation was published on or before December 31, 2006, are hereby confirmed, provided that the requirements set forth in the legislation of the respective State at the time of establishment of said Municipalities have been fulfilled. (CA No. 57, 2008)

Article 97. Up until the supplementary law referred to in paragraph 15 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution is enacted, the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities which, on the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62, have not yet effected payment of past due court-ordered debts regarding their respective direct and indirect administration, including court orders issued during the period the special regime instituted by this article is in force, shall effect such payments in accordance with the rules set forth in this article, whereas the provisions of article 100 of this Federal Constitution shall not be applicable, save for its paragraphs 2, 3, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14, and without prejudice to conciliation agreements already formalized by the date of publication of Constitutional Amendment No. 62. (CA No. 62, 2009)

Paragraph 1. The States, the Federal District, and Municipalities subject to the special regime set forth in this article shall, by means of an Executive Power act, opt for either:

I – depositing the amount referred to in paragraph 2 of this article into a special account; or

II – adopting the special regime for a period of up to 15 (fifteen) years, in which case the percentage to be deposited into the special account referred to in paragraph 2 of this article shall be equivalent to the total yearly balance of court-ordered debts, increased by the official rate applied to savings accounts and by simple interest applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment – the employment of compensatory interest being excluded, reduced by any paid amount, and divided by the remaining number of years in the special regime of payment.

Paragraph 2. In order to pay up both its past due and future accruing court-ordered debts through the special regime, the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt shall effect a monthly deposit into a special account created for such purpose, of 1/12 (one twelfth) of the amount calculated as a percentage of the respective net current revenues, as computed in the second month preceding the month of payment, whereas such percentage, calculated at the time of opting for the special regime and kept unchanged through the end of the period referred to in paragraph 14 of this article, shall be equal to:

I – in the case of the States and of the Federal District:

- a) at least 1.5% (one whole and five tenths per cent), for the States of the North, Northeast, and Centre-West regions, in addition to the Federal District, or for those States where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to up to 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the total net current revenues;
- b) at least 2% (two per cent), for the States of the South and Southeast Regions, where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to over 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues;

II – in the case of Municipalities:

- a) at least 1% (one per cent), for Municipalities of the North, Northeast, and Centre-West regions, or for those Municipalities where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to up to 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues;
- b) at least 1.5% (one whole and five tenths per cent), for Municipalities of the South and Southeast Regions, where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to over 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues.

Paragraph 3. For the purposes of this article, net current revenues mean the total sum of tax, industry, and agriculture revenues, property income, revenues from contributions and from services, current transfers, and other current revenues, including those deriving from paragraph 1 of article 20 of the Federal Constitution, such total sum being computed in the period including the reference month and the 11 (eleven) preceding months, excluding any double counting but at the same time deducting:

I – in the case of the States, the portions remitted to the Municipalities as set forth by the Constitution;

II – in the case of the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities, the contribution paid by respective employees to fund their own social security and social assistance system, as well as revenues deriving from the financial offsetting referred to in paragraph 9 of article 201 of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 4. The special accounts referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be managed by the respective Court of Justice, for payment of judicial orders issued by courts.

Paragraph 5. The funds deposited into the special accounts referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article may not be returned to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt.

Paragraph 6. At least 50% (fifty per cent) of the funds referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article shall be used to pay court orders according to their chronological order of submission, with due regard for the priorities defined in paragraph 1 of article 100 – in the case of court orders of one same year, and in paragraph 2 – in the case of court orders of all years.

Paragraph 7. If it is not possible to ascertain the chronological priority between 2 (two) court orders, the court order stating the smallest amount shall be paid first.

Paragraph 8. The employment of the remaining funds shall depend on option to be effected by the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, through an Executive Power act, in accordance with the following modes, which may be applied either separately or simultaneously:

I – payment of court orders by means of auctions;

II – payment in cash of court orders not paid up under the terms of paragraph 6 and of item I, in a single, increasing order of respective amounts;

III – payment through direct agreement with creditors, under the terms of law specific to each federating unit in debt, which may provide for the establishment and mode of operation of conciliation panels.

Paragraph 9. The following shall apply to the auctions referred to in item I of paragraph 8 of this article:

I – auctions shall be carried out through an electronic system managed by an entity authorized by the Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission (CVM) or by the Central Bank of Brazil;

II – court orders – or a installment of a court order amount as designated by its holder – with respect to which no appeal or challenge of any nature whatsoever is pending within the Judicial Power shall be qualified to take part in an auction, whereas, at the initiative of the Executive Power, it will be permitted to offset court-order debt payments against clear legal debits, either registered or not under debts in execution and attributed to the original debtor by the Treasury in debt up to the date of issuance of respective court order, save for those whose enforceability has been stayed under the terms of the law, or which have already been subject to deduction under the terms of paragraph 9 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution;

III – auctions will be effected through public offer to all creditors qualified by the respective federating unit in debt;

IV – any creditor who meets the requirements of item II shall be considered automatically qualified;

V – auctions shall be carried out as many times as necessary to meet the available amount;

VI – inclusion of an installment of the total amount in an auction will be effected at the discretion of respective creditor, at an abatement in the amount of the installment;

VII – auctions shall take the form of debt abatement, associated with the largest volume offered – either cumulated or not with the highest percentage of abatement, according to the highest percentage of abatement, in which case the maximum amount per creditor may be stipulated, or according to another criterion to be defined in a public call notice;

VIII – the price formation mechanism shall be stated in the public call notices issued for each auction;

IX – the payment in part of a court order shall be ratified by the court which issued said court order.

Paragraph 10. Should the funds referred to in item II of paragraph 1 and in paragraphs 2 and 6 of this article not be made available in due time:

I – there shall be effected attachment of the relevant amount in the accounts belonging to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, by order of the Presiding Judge of the Court referred to in paragraph 4, up to the limit of the amount not made available;

II – there shall be established, as an alternative, by order of the Presiding Judge of the relevant Court, in favor of creditors of court orders, against the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, a clear legal right – self-enforceable and irrespective of regulation – to automatic offsetting against clear debits attributed to said creditors by such debtors, whereas, there being a balance in favor of a creditor, such amount shall automatically be deductible from the taxes owed to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, up to the offsetting limits;

III – the head of respective Executive Power shall be held liable under the terms of the legislation on fiscal responsibility and administrative dishonesty;

IV – for as long as non-compliance prevails, the federating unit in debt:

a) shall not be allowed to raise loans at home or abroad;

b) shall not be entitled to receive voluntary transfers;

V – the Federal Government shall not effect the remittances regarding the Revenue Sharing Fund of the States and the Federal District and the Revenue Sharing Fund of Municipalities, depositing them instead into the special accounts referred to in paragraph 1 of this article, whereas the employment of such amounts must comply with paragraph 5 of this article.

Paragraph 11. As regards a court order concerning several creditors in a joinder of parties, the court of origin of said court order may dismember the total amount per creditor, and each creditor may participate in an auction with the total amount such creditor is entitled to, the rule set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution not being applicable to such case.

Paragraph 12. Should the legislation referred to in paragraph 4 of article 100 not be enacted within 180 (one hundred and eighty) days as from the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62, the following amounts shall prevail for the relevant purposes, for the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt which have failed to regulate the matter:

I – 40 (forty) monthly minimum wages in the case of States and the Federal District;

II – 30 (thirty) monthly minimum wages in the case of Municipalities.

Paragraph 13. During the period in which the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt are effecting payment of court orders through the special regime, they may not be subject to attachment of amounts, except when the funds referred to in item II of paragraph 1 and in paragraph 2 of this article are not made available in due time.

Paragraph 14. The special regime for payment of court orders set forth in item I of paragraph 1 of this article shall be in force for as long as the amount of court-ordered debts is higher than the amount of funds earmarked under the terms of paragraph 2 of this article, or for a fixed period of 15 (fifteen) years in the case of the option referred to in item II of paragraph 1.

Paragraph 15. Court-ordered debts divided into installments under the terms of article 33 or article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act and whose payment is still pending shall be included in the special regime with the amount of all pending installments being updated, whereas the balance of any judicial and extrajudicial agreements shall also be included in the special regime.

Paragraph 16. As from the date Constitutional Amendment No. 62 is enacted, the amounts stated in court orders, up until effective payment, irrespective of their nature, shall be adjusted according to the official rate applied to savings accounts, whereas, for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment, simple interest will be applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts, the employment of compensatory interest being excluded.

Paragraph 17. While the special regime is in force, any amount in excess of the limit set forth in paragraph 2 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall be paid in accordance with paragraphs 6 and 7 or with items I, II, and III of paragraph 8 of this article, whereas the amounts used to meet the provision of paragraph 2 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall be computed for the purposes of paragraph 6 of this article.

Paragraph 18. While the special regime referred to in this article is in effect, the original holders of court orders who have reached the age of 60 (sixty) years old by the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62 shall also be entitled to the priority referred to in paragraph 6.

Article 98. The number of Public Legal Defenders in each judicial district shall be proportional to the effective demand for the service of the Public Legal Defense and to the respective population. (CA No. 80, 2014)

Paragraph 1. Within 8 (eight) years, the Union, the States, and the Federal District shall have Public Legal Defenders in all of their judicial districts, with due regard for the head paragraph of this article.

Paragraph 2. During the period set forth in paragraph 1 of this article, the assignment of Public Legal Defenders shall be effected so as to serve, on a priority basis, those regions with higher levels of social exclusion and higher population density.

Article 99. For the purposes of the provisions in item VII of paragraph 2 of article 155, in the case of transactions and renderings of goods and services to end-users located in another State, who are not taxpayers, the taxes corresponding to the difference between the internal rate and the interstate rate will be shared between the State of origin and the State of destination, in the following proportions: (CA No. 87, 2015)

I – for the year 2015: 20% (twenty per cent) for the State of destination and 80% (eighty per cent) for the State of origin;

II – for the year 2016: 40% (forty per cent) for the State of destination and 60% (sixty per cent) for the State of origin;

III – for the year 2017: 60% (sixty per cent) for the State of destination and 40% (forty per cent) for the State of origin;

IV – for the year 2018: 80% (eighty per cent) for the State of destination and 20% (twenty per cent) for the State of origin;

V – as of year 2019: 100% (one hundred per cent) for the State of destination.

Article 100. Until the supplementary law mentioned in item II of paragraph 1 of article 40 of the Federal Constitution comes into force, the justices of the Federal Supreme Court, of the Higher Courts and of the National Accounts Court will retire, compulsorily, at the age of 75 (seventy five), under the conditions of article 52 of the Federal Constitution. REVISION CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

REVISION CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 1, 1994

The Directing Board of the National Congress, under the terms of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, combined with article 3 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, promulgates the following Constitutional Amendment:

Article 1. Articles 71, 72 and 73, with the following wording, are hereby added to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act:

“Article 71. The Emergency Social Fund is hereby instituted for the fiscal years of 1994 and 1995, aiming at the financial recuperation of the Federal Public Finances and the economic stabilization, the resources of which shall be applied to the actions of the health and education systems, the welfare benefits and welfare assistance of permanent nature, including the payment of welfare debts, as well as other programs of great social and economic interest. Sole paragraph. The provision of the final part of item II of paragraph 9 of article 165 of the Constitution shall not apply, in the 1994 fiscal year, to the the Fund established by this article.

Article 72. The Emergency Social Fund is comprised of:

I – the proceeds from the collection of the tax on income and earnings of any nature to be levied at source on payments of any nature effected by the Union, including its autonomous government agencies and foundations;

II – the part of the proceeds from the collection of the tax on rural property, of the tax on income and earnings of any nature, and of the tax on credit, foreign exchange and insurance transactions, or transactions relating to bonds and securities, resulting from the changes generated by Provisional Measure 419 and from Laws No. 8,847, 8,849, and 8,848, all dated January 28, 1994, the period in force of the latter being extended to December 31, 1995;

III – the part of the proceeds from the collection due to the increase of the rate of welfare contribution on the profit of taxpayers mentioned in paragraph 1 of article 22 of Law No. 8,212 of July 24, 1991, which, in the fiscal years of 1994 and 1995 shall be of 30 percent, the other stipulations of Law No. 7,869 of December 15, 1988 remaining unchanged;

IV – twenty percent of the proceeds from the collection of all taxes and contributions to the Union, except those provided by items I, II and III;

V – the part of the proceeds from the collection of the contribution mentioned in Supplementary Law No. 7, of September 7, 1970, owed by the juridical entities referred to in item III of this article, which will be calculated, in the fiscal years of 1994 and 1995, through the employment of a rate of seventy five hundredths of one percent on the gross operating income, as defined in the legislation of income tax and earnings of any nature;

VI – other incomes defined in specific legislation.

Paragraph 1. The rates and calculation base defined in items III and V shall be applied as from the first day of the month following the ninetieth day after the promulgation of this amendment.

Paragraph 2. The parts referred to in items I, II, III and V shall be previously deducted of the calculation base of any legal or constitutional designation or participation, and the provisions of articles 158, item II, 159, 212 and 239 of the Constitution shall not apply to them.

Paragraph 3. The part referred to in item IV shall be previously deducted from the calculation base of any constitutional or legal designation or participation stipulated by articles 153, paragraph 5, 157, item II, 158, item II, 212 and 239 of the Constitution.

Paragraph 4. The provision of the former paragraph shall not apply to the resources provided by article 159 of the Constitution.

Paragraph 5. The part of the resources originating from the tax on rural property and from the tax on income and earnings of any nature, designated for the Emergency Social Fund, as provided by item II of this article, shall not exceed:

I – in the case of the tax on rural property, eighty six and two-tenths of one percent of the total proceeds from its collection;

II – in the case of the tax on income and earnings of any nature, five and six-tenths of one percent of the total proceeds from its collection.

Article 73. In the regulation of the Emergency Social Fund, the instrument provided by item V of article 59 of the Constitution may not be applied.”

Article 2. Paragraph 4 of article 2 of the Constitutional Amendment No. 3 of 1993 is hereby revoked.

Article 3. This amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

Brasília, March 1, 1994.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 3, 1993

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60, of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. The provisions of the Federal Constitution enumerated below shall henceforth be in force with the following alterations:

“Article 40. [...]

Paragraph 6. The retirement and pension benefits of the federal civil servants shall be financed by resources originating from the Union and from the contributions of the civil servants, under the terms of the law.”

“Article 42. [...]

Paragraph 10. The provisions in article 40, paragraphs 4, 5, and 6 apply to the servicemen referred to in this article and to their pensioners.

[...]”

I – [...]

- a) direct actions of unconstitutionality of a federal or State law or normative act, and declaratory actions of constitutionality of a federal law or normative act;

Paragraph 1. A claim of non-compliance with a fundamental precept deriving from this Constitution shall be examined by the Federal Supreme Court, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 2. Final decisions on merits, pronounced by the Federal Supreme Court, in declaratory actions of constitutionality of a federal law or normative act, shall have force against all, as well as a binding effect, as regards the other bodies of the Judicial Power, as well as the Executive Power.”

“Article 103. [...]

Paragraph 4. A declaratory action of constitutionality may be filed by the President of the Republic, the directing board of the Federal Senate, the directing board of The Chamber of the Deputies or by the Attorney-General of the Republic.”

“Article 150. [...]

Paragraph 6. Any subsidy or exemption, reduction of assessment basis, concession of presumed credit, amnesty or remission, related to taxes, fees or contributions, may only be granted by means of a specific federal, state or Municipal law, which provides exclusively for the above-enumerated matters or the corresponding tax, fee or contribution, without prejudice to the provisions of article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g.

Paragraph 7. The law may impose upon the taxpayer the burden of the payment of a tax or contribution, whose taxable event will occur later, the immediate and preferential restitution of the amount paid being ensured, in case the presumed taxable event does not occur.”

“Article 155. The States and the Federal District shall have the power to institute taxes on:

I – transfer by death and donation of any property or rights;

II – transactions relating to the circulation of goods and to the rendering of interstate and interMunicipal transportation services and services of communication, even when such transactions and renderings begin abroad;

III – ownership of automotive vehicles.

Paragraph 1. The tax established in item I:

Paragraph 2. The tax established in item II shall observe the following:

[...]

Paragraph 3. With the exception of the taxes mentioned in item II of the head paragraph of the present article, and article 153, items I and II, no other tribute may be levied on transactions concerning electric energy, telecommunications services, petroleum by-products, fuels and minerals of the country.”

“Article 156. [...]

III – services of any nature not included in article 155, item II, as defined in a supplementary law.

Paragraph 3. As regards the tax established in item III, a supplementary law shall:

I – establish its maximum rates;

II – exclude exportations of services to other countries from levy of the said tax.”

“Article 160. [...]

Sole paragraph. The prohibition mentioned in the present article does not prevent the Union and the States from remitting the funds on condition of payment of their credits, including those of the autonomous government agencies.”

“Article 167. [...]

IV – to bind tax revenues to an agency, fund or expense, excepting the sharing of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes referred to in articles 158 and 159, the allocation of funds for the maintenance and development of education, as determined in article 212, and the granting of guarantees on credit transactions by advance of revenues, as established in article 165, paragraph 8, as well as in paragraph 4 of the present article;

Paragraph 4. It is permitted to bind proper revenues generated by the taxes referred to in articles 155 and 156, and the funds mentioned in articles 157, 158 and 159, items I, subitems a and b, and II, to the granting of a guarantee or a counter-guarantee to the Union, and to the payment of debits owed to the same.”

Article 2. The Union may institute, under the terms of a supplementary law, effective until December 31, 1994, a tax on the transaction or transfer of securities and of credits and rights of a financial nature.

Paragraph 1. The rate of the tax mentioned in the present article shall not exceed twenty-five hundredths percent, and the Executive Power may reduce it or re-establish it, in whole or in part, under the conditions and limits set forth in law.

Paragraph 2. Article 150, items III, subitem b, and VI, and the provisions of paragraph 5 of article 153 of this Constitution do not apply to the tax mentioned in the present article.

Paragraph 3. The proceeds from the collection of the tax mentioned in the present article are not subject to any mode of sharing with another unit of the federation.

Paragraph 4. (Revoked).

Article 3. The elimination of the tax additional to income tax, within the competence of the States, deriving from the present Constitutional Amendment, shall only become effective as of January 1, 1996, the corresponding rate being reduced to at least two and a half percent in the fiscal year of 1995.

Article 4. The elimination of the tax on the retail sales of liquid and gaseous fuels, within the competence of the Municipalities, deriving from the present Constitutional Amendment, shall only become effective as of January 1, 1996, the corresponding rate being reduced to at least one and a half percent in the fiscal year of 1995.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 14, 1996

Alters articles 34, 208, 211 and 212 of the Federal Constitution and gives new wording to article 60 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Subitem e is added to item VII of article 34 of the Federal Constitution, with the following wording:

“e) the application of the mandatory minimum of the income resulting from State taxes, including those originating from transfers, to the maintenance and development of education.”

Article 2. New wording is given to items I and II of article 208 of the Federal Constitution, as follows:

“I – mandatory and free elementary education, including the assurance of its free offer to all those who did not have access to it at the proper age;
II – progressive universalization of the free high-school education;”

Article 3. New wording is given to paragraphs 1 and 2 of article 211 of the Federal Constitution, and two additional paragraphs are inserted in this article, to read as follows:

“Article 211. [...]

Paragraph 1. The Union shall organize the federal educational system and that of the Territories, shall finance the federal public educational institutions and shall have, in educational matters, a redistributive and supplementary function, so as to guarantee the equalization of the educational opportunities and a minimum standard of quality of education, through technical and financial assistance to the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities.

Paragraph 2. The Municipalities shall act on a priority basis in elementary education and in the education of children.

Paragraph 3. The States and the Federal District shall act on a priority basis in elementary and secondary education.

Paragraph 4. In the organization of their educational systems, the States and Municipalities shall establish forms of cooperation, so as to guarantee the universalization of the mandatory education.”

Article 4. New wording is given to paragraph 5 of article 212 of the Federal Constitution, as follows:

“Paragraph 5. The public elementary education shall have, as an additional source of financing, the social contribution for education, collected from companies, as provided by law.”

Article 5. Article 60 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act is hereby altered and new paragraphs are inserted into it, with the article having the following wording:

“Article 60. In the first ten years after the promulgation of this Amendment, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall allocate no less than 60% of the funds referred to in the head paragraph of article 212 of the Federal Constitution, to the maintenance and development of elementary education, aiming at the assurance of the universalization of the service and the payment of appropriate salaries to the teachers.

Paragraph 1. The distribution of responsibilities and resources between the States and their Municipalities, to be effected with part of the resources defined in this article, as set forth in article 211 of the Federal Constitution, is assured through the establishment, within each State and the Federal District, of a Fund for the Maintenance and Development of the Elementary Education and for the Increase of the Worth of the Teaching Profession, of a financial nature.

Paragraph 2. The Fund referred to in the preceding paragraph shall be made up by, at least, fifteen percent of the resources referred to in articles 155, item II; 158, item IV; and 159, item I, subitems a and b; and item II, of the Federal Constitution, and shall be distributed among each State and its Municipalities, in proportion to the number of students in the respective elementary education networks.

Paragraph 3. The Union shall supplement the resources of the Funds referred to in paragraph 1, whenever in each State and in the Federal District its value per student does not reach the nationally set minimum.

Paragraph 4. The Union, the States, the Federal District and the Municipalities shall effect, during a period of five years, progressive adjustments of their contributions to the Fund, so as to guarantee a value per student corresponding to a minimum quality standard of education, defined at the national level.

Paragraph 5. A share of not less than 60% of the resources of each Fund referred to in paragraph 1 shall be used for the payment of elementary education teachers actually teaching.

Paragraph 6. The Union shall apply never less than 30 percent of the resources referred to in the head paragraph of article 212 of the Federal Constitution to the eradication of illiteracy and to the maintenance and development of the elementary education, including the supplementation referred to in paragraph 3.

Paragraph 7. The law shall provide for the organization of the Funds, the proportional distribution of its resources, its oversight and control, as well as for the way to calculate the national minimum value per student.”

Article 6. This Amendment shall come into force on January 1 of the year subsequent to that of its promulgation.

“Article 206. Education shall be provided on the basis of the following principles:

V – appreciation of the value of teaching professionals, guaranteeing, in accordance with the law, career plans for public school teachers, with a professional minimum salary and admittance exclusively by means of public entrance examinations consisting of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials;

[...]”

Article 24. Article 241 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 241. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall issue legislation to regulate public syndicates and cooperation agreements between members of the Federation, authorizing the joint management of public services, as well as the transfer, in whole or in part, of charges, services, personnel, and goods essential to the continued rendering of the services transferred.”

Article 25. It is incumbent upon the Union to honor the current financial commitments with the rendering of public services in the Federal District until such time as the fund referred to in item XIV of article 21 of the Federal Constitution is established.

Article 26. Within two years of the promulgation of this Amendment, the entities owned by the Government shall have their by-laws revised regarding their respective legal nature, taking into account the purpose and the actual duties carried out.

Article 27. The National Congress, within one hundred and twenty days of the promulgation of this Amendment, shall draft legislation for the protection of public service users.

Article 28. The current public employees on probation are ensured of the period of two years of effective exercise to acquire tenure, without prejudice to the assessment referred to in paragraph 4 of article 41 of the Federal Constitution.

Article 29. As of the promulgation of this Amendment, the compensation, salaries, remuneration, retirement pay, pensions, and any other types of remuneration shall comply with the limits arising from the Federal Constitution, receipt of excess being forbidden under any circumstances.

Article 30. The bill of supplementary law mentioned in article 163 of the Federal Constitution shall be submitted by the Executive Branch to the National Congress within one hundred and eighty days, at most, of the promulgation of this Amendment.

Article 31. The public employees of federal governmental entities and of entities owned by the Federal Government, the local administration employees, and the members of the uniformed police force of the former federal Territories of Amapá and Roraima, who, subject to the presentation of proof, were regularly exercising their functions and rendering services to those former Territories on the date they were transformed into States, the employees and members of the uniformed police force who were legally included in the Amapá and Rondônia State Government personnel in the period between the transformation and the effective installation of such States in October 1993 and, furthermore, the employees in these States whose employment status has already been acknowledged by the Union shall, at their option, be included in a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services. (CA No. 79, 2014)

Paragraph 1. The inclusion in a special job class as referred to in the head paragraph, in the case of employees or members of the uniformed police force who were legally included in the State Government personnel between the transformation and the installation of the States in October 1993 shall be effected in the post in which such employees were first placed or in an equivalent post.

Paragraph 2. The members of the uniformed police force referred to in the head paragraph shall go on rendering services to their respective States, in the quality of detailed personnel, subject to the legal provisions that govern their respective uniformed police corps, with due regard for compatibility between the duties of their function and their rank in the hierarchy and for their right to due promotion.

Paragraph 3. The employees referred to in the head paragraph shall go on rendering services to their respective States and Municipalities, in the quality of detailed personnel, up until they are placed in a federal government entity, associate government agency, or foundation.

Article 32. The Federal Constitution shall henceforth include the following article:

“Article 247. The laws provided for in item III of paragraph 1 of article 41, and in paragraph 7 of article 169, shall establish special criteria and guarantees for the loss of office of a tenured public employee who, by virtue of the duties of his effective post, performs exclusive activities of State.

Sole paragraph. In the event of insufficient performance, the loss of office shall only take place by means of an administrative proceeding in which the adversary system and ample defense are ensured.”

Article 33. For the purposes of article 169, paragraph 3, item II, of the Federal Constitution, untenured servants are those who were admitted into a governmental entity, an associate government agency, or a foundation, without having taken an entrance examination consisting of tests, or tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, after the October 5, 1983.

Article 34. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its promulgation.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 20, 1998

Alters the social security system, establishes rules for the transitional period, and makes other provisions.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. The Federal Constitution shall henceforth be in force with the following alterations:

“Article 7. [...]

XII – family allowance paid to each dependent of low-income workers, under the terms of the law; [...]

XXXIII – prohibition of night, dangerous, or unhealthy work for minors under eighteen years of age, and of any work for minors under sixteen years of age, except as an apprentice, for minors above fourteen years of age;

[...]”

“Article 37. [...]

Paragraph 10. Receiving retirement pensions arising from article 40 or from articles 42 and 142, while at the same time receiving the remuneration of a public office, position or function is forbidden, with the exception of offices that may be accumulated under the terms of this Constitution, elective offices, and commission offices declared by law as being of free appointment and discharge.”

“Article 40. Employees holding effective posts in the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, therein included their associate government agencies and foundations, are ensured of a social security scheme on a contributory basis, with due regard for criteria that preserve financial and actuarial balance and for the provisions of this article.

Paragraph 1. The employees covered by the social security scheme set forth in this article shall go into retirement, their pensions being calculated according to the amounts stipulated under the terms of paragraph 3:

I – for permanent disability, with a pension in proportion to the period of contribution, except when such disability results from a work injury, a professional disease, or a serious, contagious, or incurable illness, as specified by law;

II – compulsorily, at seventy years of age, with a pension in proportion to the period of contribution;

III – voluntarily, upon completing at least ten years of effective exercise in public administration and five years in the effective post from which retirement is going to take place, with due regard for the following conditions:

- a) sixty years of age and thirty-five of contribution, if a man, and fifty-five years of age and thirty of contribution, if a woman;
- b) sixty-five years of age, if a man, and sixty, if a woman, with pay in proportion to the period of contribution.

Paragraph 2. At the time they are granted, retirement pensions and other pensions may not exceed the remuneration of the respective employee in the effective post from which he retired or which was taken as a parameter for the granting of the pension.

Paragraph 3. At the time it is granted, the retirement pension will be calculated according to the remuneration of the employee in the effective post from which he is retiring and will be equivalent to the total remuneration, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. The adoption of differentiated requirements and criteria for the granting of retirement to those covered by the scheme set forth in this article is forbidden, with the exception of the cases, as defined by a supplementary law, of activities carried out exclusively under special conditions which are harmful to health or to physical wholeness.

Paragraph 5. The requirements concerning age and period of contribution will be reduced by five years, as regards the provision of paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, for teachers who document exclusively a period of effective exercise of teaching functions in children education and in elementary and secondary education.

Paragraph 6. With the exception of the cases of retirement from posts that can be accumulated under the terms of this Constitution, receiving more than one retirement pension charged to the social security scheme set forth in this article is forbidden.

Paragraph 7. The law shall provide for the granting of the benefit of a death pension, which will be equal to the retirement pension of the deceased employee, or to the remuneration that the employee in active service would be entitled to at the date of his death, with due regard for the provision of paragraph 3.

Paragraph 8. With due regard for the provision of article 37, item XI, retirement pensions and other pensions shall be revised in the same proportion and on the same date, whenever the remuneration of employees in active service is changed, and any benefits or advantages subsequently granted to employees in active service shall also be extended to retirees and to pensioners, including those arising from the transformation or reclassification of the post or function from which retirement was taken, or which was taken as a parameter for the granting of a pension, as the law provides.

Paragraph 9. The period of contribution in a federal, state, or Municipal post shall be computed for the purpose of retirement, and the corresponding period of service shall be computed for the purpose of placement on paid availability.

Paragraph 10. The law may not establish any method of computation of fictitious periods of contribution.

Paragraph 11. The limit set forth in article 37, item XI, applies to the total amount of the retirement pension and other pensions, including those resulting from the accumulation of public posts or positions, as well as from other activities which must contribute to the general social security scheme, and to the amount resulting from the addition of pensions and the remuneration of a post which may be accumulated under the terms of this Constitution, a commission office declared by law as being of free appointment and discharge, and an elective office.

Paragraph 12. In addition to the provisions of this article, the social security scheme of government employees who hold effective posts shall comply, whenever appropriate, with the requirements and criteria stipulated for the general social security scheme.

Paragraph 13. The general social security scheme applies to employees who hold exclusively commission offices declared by law as being of free appointment and discharge, as well as other temporary posts or public positions.

Paragraph 14. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, provided that they establish a complementary social security scheme for their respective employees who hold effective posts, may stipulate, for the amount of retirement pensions and other pensions to be granted by the scheme referred to in this article, the maximum limit set forth for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201.

Paragraph 15. With due regard for the provisions of article 202, a supplementary law shall provide for the general rules for the establishment of a complementary social security scheme by the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, to serve their respective employees who hold effective posts.

Paragraph 16. The provisions of paragraphs 14 and 15 may be applied to an employee who has entered public administration on or before the date of publication of the act which instituted the corresponding complementary social security scheme only if such employee has previously expressed such option.”

“Article 42. [...]

Paragraph 1. The provisions of article 14, paragraph 8; article 40, paragraph 9; and of article 142, paragraphs 2 and 3, apply to the military of the States, of the Federal District, and of the Territories, in addition to other provisions that the law may establish, it being incumbent upon specific state legislation to provide for the matters of article 142, paragraph 3, item X, the ranks of the officers being awarded by the respective State Governors.

Paragraph 2. The provisions of article 40, paragraphs 7 and 8, apply to the military of the States, of the Federal District, and of the Territories, and to their pensioners.”

“Article 73. [...]

Paragraph 3. The Justices of the Federal Audit Court shall have the same guarantees, prerogatives, impediments, remuneration, and advantages as the Justices of the Superior Court of Justice, their retirement pensions and other pensions being ruled by the provisions of article 40.

[...]”

“Article 93. [...]

VI – the retirement of judges as well as the pensions for their dependents shall comply with the provisions of article 40;

[...]”

“Article 100. [...]

Paragraph 3. The provision contained in the head paragraph of this article, regarding the emission of court orders, does not apply to bonds defined by law as being of a small amount, which must be paid by the federal, State, or Municipal finance authorities by virtue of a final and unappealable court decision.”

“Article 114. [...]

Paragraph 3. It is also incumbent upon the Labour Justice to enforce, ex officio, the welfare contributions set forth in article 195, items I, subitem a, and II, and their legal raises, arising from the judgements it pronounces.”

“Article 142. [...]

Paragraph 3. [...]

IX – the provisions of article 40, paragraphs 7 and 8, apply to the military and to their pensioners; [...]

“Article 167. [...]

XI – to use the funds arising from the welfare contributions set forth in article 195, items I, subitem a, and II, to defray expenses other than the payment of benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201.

[...]”

“Article 194. [...]

Sole paragraph. [...]

VII – democratic and decentralized character of administration, by means of a quadripartite management, with the participation of workers, employers, retirees, and the Government in the collegiate bodies.”

“Article 195. [...]

I – of employers, companies, and entities defined by law as being comparable to companies, assessed on:

- a) the payroll and other labour earnings paid or credited, on any account, to individuals who render services to them, even when there is no employment bond;
- b) income or revenues;
- c) profits;

II – of workers and other persons insured by social security, no contribution being assessed on retirement pensions and other pensions granted by the general social security scheme referred to in article 201;

Paragraph 8. Rural producers, sharecroppers, tenant farmers, and self-employed fishermen, as well as their spouses, who exercise their activities within a household system and without permanent employees shall contribute to social welfare by applying a rate to the proceeds from the sale of their production and shall be entitled to the benefits provided by law.

Paragraph 9. The welfare contributions set forth in item I of this article may have differentiated rates or assessment bases, according to the economic activity or the intensive use of labour.

Paragraph 10. The law shall define the criteria for the transfer of funds allocated to the unified health system and for social assistance initiatives, from the Union to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, and from the States to the Municipalities, with due regard for the respective transfer of funds.

Paragraph 11. It is forbidden to grant remission or pardon of the welfare contributions referred to in items I, subitem a, and II of this article, for debits which exceed the limit stipulated by a supplementary law.”

“Article 201. The social security system shall be organized as a general scheme, of a contributory basis and mandatory participation, with due regard for criteria that preserve financial and actuarial balance, and shall provide for, in accordance with the law:

I – coverage for the events of illness, disability, death, and old age;

II – protection to maternity, especially to pregnant women;

III – protection to workers in a situation of involuntary unemployment;

IV – family allowance and confinement allowance for the dependents of the low-income insured;

V – pension for death of the insured, man or woman, to the spouse or companion, and dependents, complying with the provision of paragraph 2.

Paragraph 1. The adoption of differentiated requirements and criteria for the granting of retirement to the beneficiaries of the general social security scheme is forbidden, with the exception of the cases, as defined by a supplementary law, of activities carried out under special conditions which are harmful to health or to physical wholeness.

Paragraph 2. No benefit which replaces the contribution salary or labour earnings of the insured shall have a monthly amount lower than the minimum monthly wage.

Paragraph 3. All contribution salaries included in the calculation of the benefit shall be duly updated, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. Adjustment of the benefits is ensured, to the end that their real value is permanently maintained, in accordance with criteria defined by law.

Paragraph 5. Participation in the general social security scheme, in the quality of an optional insured, is forbidden for a person who participates in a special social security scheme.

Paragraph 6. The Christmas bonus for retirees and pensioners shall be based on the amount of the earnings in the month of December of each year.

Paragraph 7. Retirement is ensured under the general social security scheme, in accordance with the law, upon compliance with the following conditions:

I – thirty-five years of contribution, if a man, and thirty years of contribution, if a woman;

II – sixty-five years of age, if a man, and sixty years, if a woman, this age limit being reduced by five years for rural workers of both sexes and for those who exercise their activities within a household system, therein included rural producers, placer miners, and self-employed fishermen.

Paragraph 8. The requirements referred to in item I of the preceding paragraph will be reduced by five years, for teachers who document exclusively a period of effective exercise of teaching functions in children education and in elementary and secondary education.

Paragraph 9. For purposes of retirement, the reciprocal computation of the period of contribution in government bodies and in private activity, either rural or urban, shall be ensured, in which case the various social security schemes shall offset each other financially, in accordance with criteria established by law.

Paragraph 10. The law shall regulate the coverage of employment-injury risks, and such coverage shall be provided both by the general social security scheme and the private sector.

Paragraph 11. The amounts habitually earned by an employee, on any account, shall be incorporated into his monthly salary for purposes of social security contribution and the resulting effects on benefits, in the cases and in the manner provided by law.”

“Article 202. The private social security scheme, of a complementary nature and organized on an autonomous basis as regards the general social security scheme, shall be optional, based on the formation of reserves which guarantee the contracted benefit, and regulated by a supplementary law.

Paragraph 1. The supplementary law referred to in this article shall ensure that the participant in benefit plans of private pension plan companies is provided with full access to information regarding the management of their respective plans.

Paragraph 2. The contributions of employers, the benefits, and the terms of contracts set forth in the bylaws, regulations, and benefit plans of the private pension plan companies are neither an integral part of the employment contract of participants, nor, with the exception of the benefits granted, an integral part of the remuneration of participants, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 3. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, their associate government agencies, foundations, public enterprises, joint stock companies, and other public entities are forbidden to contribute funds to private pension plan companies, save in the quality of sponsors, in which case their standard contribution may not, under any circumstances, exceed that of the insured.

Paragraph 4. A supplementary law shall regulate the relationship between the Union, the States, the Federal District, or the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies, foundations, joint stock companies, and enterprises controlled either directly or indirectly, in the quality of sponsors of closed private pension plan companies, and their respective closed private pension plan companies.

Paragraph 5. The supplementary law referred to in the preceding paragraph shall apply, insofar as pertinent, to private companies holding a permission or concession to render public services, when such companies sponsor closed private pension plan companies.

Paragraph 6. The supplementary law referred to in paragraph 4 of this article shall establish the requirements for the appointment of board members of the closed private pension plan companies, and shall regulate the inclusion of participants in the collegiate bodies and decision-making bodies in which their interests are subject to discussion and decision.”

Article 2. The following articles are added to the General Constitutional Provisions of the Federal Constitution:

“Article 248. The benefits paid, under any auspices, by the agency in charge of the general social security scheme, even if they are financed by the National Treasury, and those benefits not subject to the maximum amount stipulated for benefits granted by such scheme shall comply with the limits set forth in article 37, item XI.

Article 249. For the purpose of securing monies for the payment of retirement pensions and other pensions granted to their respective employees and their dependents, in addition to the monies of their respective treasuries, the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities may establish funds, made up of monies arising from contributions, and of property, rights, and assets of any kind, by means of a law that shall provide for the nature and the management of such funds.

Article 250. For the purpose of securing monies for the payment of benefits granted by the general social security scheme, in addition to the monies arising from taxation, the Union may establish a fund made up of property, rights, and assets of any kind, by means of a law that shall provide for the nature and the management of such a fund.”

Article 3. The granting of retirement pensions and other pensions is ensured, at any time, to public employees and to participants in the general social security scheme, as well as to their dependents, who, by the date of publication of this Amendment, have complied with the requirements to be entitled to such benefits, in accordance with the criteria of the legislation in effect at that time.

Paragraph 1. The public employee referred to in this article, who has met the requirements for retirement with full pay and who chooses to remain in active service, shall be entitled to exemption from social security contribution until he meets the requirements for retirement set forth in article 40, paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 2. The retirement pay to be granted to the public employees referred to in the head paragraph of this article, either in full or in proportion to the period of service completed by the date of publication of this Amendment, as well as the pensions for their dependents, shall be calculated in accordance with the legislation in effect at the time the requirements therein contained for the granting of such benefits were met, or with the terms of the current legislation.

Paragraph 3. All rights and guarantees ensured by constitutional provisions in effect at the date of publication of this Amendment, to civil servants and military, retirees and pensioners, amnestied persons and war veterans, as well as to those who, by such date, have met the requirements to be entitled to such rights, with due regard for the provision of article 37, item XI, of the Federal Constitution, shall be maintained.

Article 4. With due regard for article 40, paragraph 10, of the Federal Constitution, the period of service taken into account by the current legislation for the purpose of retirement, and completed by the time the law regulates the matter, shall be computed as a period of contribution.

Article 5. The provision of article 202, paragraph 3, of the Federal Constitution, regarding the requirement of parity between the contribution of the sponsor and that of the insured, shall come into force two years as from the publication of this Amendment, or on the date of publication of the supplementary law mentioned in paragraph 4 of the same article, if such publication takes place first.

Article 6. The closed private pension plan companies sponsored by public entities, including public enterprises and joint stock companies, must review, two years as from the publication of this Amendment, their benefit and service plans, so as to adjust them to their assets in terms of actuarial calculations, otherwise subject to intervention, and their managers as well as those of their respective sponsors shall bear civil and criminal liability for non-compliance with the provision of this article.

Article 7. The bills of supplementary laws stated in article 202 of the Federal Constitution shall be presented to the National Congress within ninety days as from the publication of this Amendment.

Article 8. (Revoked). (CA No. 41, 2003)

Article 9. With due regard for the provision of article 4 of this Amendment, and excepting the right to opt for retirement under the terms established by this Amendment for the general social security scheme, the right to retirement is ensured to participants who join the general social security scheme, before the date of publication of this Amendment, when they meet the following cumulative conditions:

- I – fifty-three years of age, if a man, and forty-eight, if a woman;
- II – a period of contribution equal to at least the sum of:

- a) thirty-five years, if a man, and thirty, if a woman; and
- b) an additional period of contribution equivalent to twenty percent of the period which, at the date of publication of this Amendment, would still be necessary to reach the limit set forth in the preceding letter.

Paragraph 1. The participants mentioned in this article, with due regard for its item I, and in accordance with article 4 of this Amendment, may go into retirement with pay in proportion to the period of contribution, if they meet the following conditions: I – a period of contribution equal to at least the sum of:

- a) thirty years, if a man, and twenty-five years, if a woman; and
- b) an additional period of contribution equivalent to forty percent of the period which, at the date of publication of this Amendment, would still be necessary to reach the limit set forth in the preceding letter;

II – the proportional retirement pay shall be equivalent to seventy percent of the retirement pay referred to in the head paragraph of this article, increased by the addition of five percent per year of contribution which exceeds the sum referred to in the preceding item, up to the limit of one hundred percent.

Paragraph 2. The period of service performed until the publication of this Amendment shall be increased by the addition of seventeen percent, for a male teacher, and twenty percent, for a female teacher, who, until the date of publication of this Amendment, has exercised teaching activities and opts to retire under the terms of the head paragraph of this article, provided that such retirement is based exclusively on the period of effective exercise of a teaching function.

Article 10. (Revoked). (CA No. 41, 2003)

Article 11. The prohibition set forth in article 37, paragraph 10, of the Federal Constitution, is not applicable to members of government branches and to retired employees, both civil and military, who, until the publication of this Amendment, have reentered public administration by means of a public sector competitive examination consisting of tests, or of tests and presentation of academic and professional credentials, and by other means set forth in the Federal Constitution, and they are forbidden to receive more than one retirement pay under the social security scheme referred to in article 40 of the Federal Constitution, the limitation mentioned in paragraph 11 of the same article being applicable to them under any circumstances.

Article 12. Until such time as the laws providing for the contributions set forth in article 195 of the Federal Constitution come into force, the contributions established by law to fund social welfare and the various social security schemes shall be collected.

Article 13. Until such time as the law regulates the access to family allowance and to confinement allowance for employees, participants, and their dependents, such benefits shall be granted only to those who earn a monthly gross income equal to or lower than R$ 360.00 (three hundred and sixty reais), which, until the publication of the law, shall be adjusted according to the same indices applicable to the benefits of the general social security scheme.

Article 14. The maximum limit for the amount of benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201 of the Federal Constitution is defined as R$ 1,200.00 (one thousand and two hundred reais), and it shall be adjusted, as from the date of publication of this Amendment, to the end that its real value is permanently maintained, updated according to the same indices applicable to the benefits of the general social security scheme.

Article 15. Until such time as the supplementary law referred to in article 201, paragraph 1, of the Federal Constitution, is published, the provisions of articles 57 and 58 of Law No. 8,213, of July 24, 1991, remain effective, with the wording in force at the date of publication of this Amendment.

Article 16. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

Article 17. Item II of paragraph 2 of article 153 of the Federal Constitution is hereby revoked.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 21, 1999

Extends the provisional contribution on the movement or transmission of monies and of credits and rights of a financial nature, referred to in article 74 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, and alters its rate.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 75 is included in the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, with the following wording:

“Article 75. The collection of the provisional contribution on the movement or transmission of monies and of credits and rights of a financial nature mentioned in article 74, established by Law No. 9,311, of October 24, 1996, is extended for thirty-six months, and the same extension applies to the effect of Law No. 9,539, of December 12, 1997, which modified Law No. 9,311.

Paragraph 1. With due regard for paragraph 6 of article 195 of the Federal Constitution, the rate of the contribution shall be thirty-eight hundredths of one percent, in the first twelve months, and thirty hundredths in the subsequent months, and the Executive Power may reduce it, in whole or in part, in the limits hereby stipulated.

Paragraph 2. The proceeds from increased collection of the contribution, resulting from the alteration of the rate, during the financial years of 1999, 2000, and 2001, shall be allocated to the financing of social security.

Paragraph 3. The Union is authorized to issue domestic public debt bonds, whose resources shall be allocated to the financing of health services and social security, in an amount equivalent to the proceeds of the collection of the contribution, estimated but not achieved in 1999.”

Article 2. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

IV – to bind tax revenues to an agency, fund or expense, excepting the sharing of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes referred to in articles 158 and 159, the allocation of funds for health actions and public services and for the maintenance and development of education, as determined, respectively, in article 198, paragraph 2, and article 212, and the granting of guarantees on credit transactions by advance of revenues, as established in article 165, paragraph 8, as well as in paragraph 4 of the present article;

[...]"

Article 6. Article 198 shall henceforth include the following paragraphs 2 and 3, and the current sole paragraph shall be renumbered as paragraph 1:

"Article 198. [...]"

Paragraph 1 (original sole paragraph) [...]"

Paragraph 2. The Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall apply each year, to health actions and public services, a minimum amount of funds derived from the application of percentages calculated upon the following:"

"I – in the case of the Union, in the manner defined under the terms of the supplementary law provided for in paragraph 3;"

"II – in the case of the States and of the Federal District, the proceeds from the collection of the taxes mentioned in article 155 and of the funds mentioned in articles 157 and 159, items I, subitem a, and II, after deducting the portions remitted to the respective Municipalities;"

"III – in the case of the Municipalities and of the Federal District, the proceeds from the collection of the taxes mentioned in article 156 and of the funds mentioned in articles 158 and 159, item I, subitem b, and paragraph 3."

"Paragraph 3. A supplementary law to be revised at least every five years shall establish:"

"I – the percentages referred to in paragraph 2;"

"II – the criteria for the sharing of funds of the Union earmarked for health and assigned to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, and of funds of the States assigned to their respective Municipalities, with a view to a progressive reduction of regional disparities;"

"III – the rules for supervision, assessment, and control of expenditures on health at the level of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities;"

"IV – the rules to calculate the amount to be applied by the Union."

Article 7. The Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall henceforth include the following article 77:

"Article 77. Until the financial year of 2004, the minimum amount of funds applied to health actions and public services shall be equivalent to:"

"I – in the case of the Union:"

"a) in the year 2000, the amount of checks issued to health actions and public services during the financial year of 1999, plus at least five percent;"

"b) from the year 2001 through the year 2004, the amount expended in the previous year, restated according to the nominal changes of the Gross Domestic Product (GDP);"

"II – in the case of the States and of the Federal District, twelve percent of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes referred to in article 155 and of the funds mentioned in articles 157 and 159, items I, subitem a, and II, after deducting the portions transferred to the respective Municipalities;"

"III – in the case of the Municipalities and of the Federal District, fifteen percent of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes mentioned in article 156 and of the funds mentioned in articles 158 and 159, item I, subitem b, and paragraph 3."

"Paragraph 1. The States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities which apply percentages lower than those stipulated in items II and III shall raise them gradually, until the financial year of 2004, the difference being reduced at the rate of at least one fifth per year, and the application shall consist of at least seven percent as of the year 2000."

"Paragraph 2. At least fifteen percent of the funds of the Union expended under the terms of this article shall be applied in the Municipalities, according to the populational criterion, to health actions and public services, in accordance with the law.”

“Paragraph 3. The funds of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities assigned for health actions and public services, as well as those transferred by the Union for the same purpose, shall be applied by means of the Health Fund, to be monitored and supervised by the Health Board, without prejudice to the provisions of article 74 of the Federal Constitution.”

“Paragraph 4. In the absence of the supplementary law referred to in article 198, paragraph 3, the provisions of this article shall apply to the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities as of the financial year of 2005.”

Article 8. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 30, 2000

Alters the wording of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, and adds article 78 to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, regarding the payment of court order debts.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 100. [...]”

Paragraph 1. It is mandatory for the budgets of public entities to include the funds required for the payment of debts arising from final and unappealable judicial decisions, stated in court orders presented until or on July 1, and the payment shall be made before the close of the subsequent fiscal year, on which date their amounts shall be adjusted for inflation.”

“Paragraph 1-A. Alimony debts include those arising from salaries, remuneration, pay, pensions, and their supplementations, social security benefits and compensation for death and disability, such compensation being based on civil liability, by virtue of a final and unappealable judicial decision.”

“Paragraph 2. The budgetary allocations and the credits opened shall be assigned directly to the Judicial Power, it being within the competence of the President of the Court which rendered the decision of execution to determine payment, according to the possibilities of the deposit, and to authorize, upon petition of a creditor and exclusively in the event that his right of precedence is not respected, seizure of the amount required to satisfy the debt.”

“Paragraph 3. The provision contained in the head paragraph of this article, regarding the emission of court orders, does not apply to bonds defined by law as being of a small amount, which must be paid by the Federal, State, or Municipal tax authorities by virtue of a final and unappealable judicial decision.”

“Paragraph 4. The law may stipulate different amounts for the purpose set forth in paragraph 3 of this article, according to the different capacities of public entities.”

“Paragraph 5. The President of the appropriate Court who, by means of an act or omission, delays or attempts to frustrate the regular payment of a court order debt shall be liable to crime of malversation.”

Article 2. Article 78 is added to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, with the following wording:

“Article 78. With the exception of credits defined by law as being of a small amount, credits for alimony, and credits stated in article 33 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act and their supplementations, as well as those credits whose respective funds have already been released or paid into court, the court order debts for which payment is outstanding on the date of promulgation of this Amendment and those deriving from actions commenced before or on December 31, 1999, shall be settled according to their real value, in legal tender, including legal interests, in equal and successive annual installments, within ten years at the most, the assignment of credits being permitted.”

“Paragraph 2. In the event the annual installments referred to in the head paragraph of this article have not been paid before the end of the relevant fiscal year, they shall be deducted from the taxes owed to the debtor entity.”

“Paragraph 3. The period of time referred to in the head paragraph of this article is reduced to two years, in the case of court order debts deriving from the expropriation of a creditor’s residential property, provided that such property is proven to be the creditor’s only residential property at the time of emission of a writ of ejectment.”

“Paragraph 4. If the time limit has elapsed, or in the case of omission in the budget, or in the event the right of precedence is not respected, the President of the appropriate Court shall, upon petition of a creditor, requisition or order the seizure of funds of the debtor entity, at an amount sufficient to pay the installment.”

Article 3. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 31, 2000

Alters the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, introducing articles that establish the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. The following articles are added to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act of the Federal Constitution:

“Article 79. The Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, hereby instituted within the sphere of the Federal Executive Branch, shall be in force through the year 2010 and shall be regulated by a supplementary law, aiming at enabling all Brazilians to have access to adequate subsistence levels, and its resources shall be applied to supplementary initiatives regarding nutrition, housing, education, health, a complementary family income, and other programs of relevant social interest oriented towards the improvement of the quality of life.

Sole paragraph. The Fund set forth in this article shall have an Advisory and Monitoring Board that must include representatives of civil society, under the terms of the law.

Article 80. The Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty is comprised of:

I – the part of the proceeds from the collection corresponding to additional eight hundredths of one percent, applicable from June 18, 2000, through June 17, 2002, to the rate of the social contribution referred to in article 75 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act;

II – the part of the proceeds from the collection corresponding to additional five percent on the rate of the federal VAT [IPI], or of the tax that may eventually replace it, levied on luxury goods and applicable while the Fund is in force;

III – the proceeds from the collection of the tax referred to in article 153, item VII, of the Constitution;

IV – budgetary appropriations;

V – donations, of any nature, by individuals or corporations established in Brazil or abroad;

VI – other revenues, to be defined by the legislation that regulates the Fund.

Paragraph 1. The provisions of articles 159 and 167, item IV, of the Constitution, are not applicable to the resources that make up the Fund, neither is any disconnection of budgetary resources.

Paragraph 2. The proceeds from the collection of the resources referred to in item I of this article, during the period from June 18, 2000 through the date the supplementary law mentioned in article 79 becomes effective, shall be remitted in full to the Fund, their real value being preserved, in federal government securities, progressively redeemable after June 18, 2002, under the terms of the law.

Article 81. A Fund is hereby instituted, to be comprised of the resources received by the Federal Government as a result of divestiture of government-controlled corporations and public enterprises controlled either directly or indirectly by the Federal Government, when such operation involves the divestment of the respective controlling interest to an individual or entity not belonging to the government bodies, or of any remaining equity interest following such divestment, and the income thereof, generated as from June 18, 2002, shall be transferred to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty.

Paragraph 1. In case the yearly amount of income to be transferred to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, as set forth in this article, does not add up to the total of four billion reais, it shall be supplemented according to article 80, item IV, of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Paragraph 2. Without prejudice to the provision of paragraph 1, the Executive Branch may allocate other revenues deriving from the sale of Federal Government assets to the Fund mentioned in this article.

Paragraph 3. The resources that make up the Fund referred to in the head paragraph of this article, the transfer of said resources to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, and the other provisions concerning paragraph 1 of this article shall be regulated by law, and the provision of article 165, paragraph 9, item II of the Constitution shall not be applicable.

Article 82. The States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall institute Funds to Fight Poverty, comprised of the resources referred to in this article and other resources that may eventually be allocated for this purpose, and the said Funds shall be managed by entities which include the participation of civil society.

Paragraph 1. With a view to financing the State Funds and the Federal District Fund, an additional tax of up to two percent may be created, to raise the rate of the State VAT [ICMS], or the rate of the tax that may eventually replace it, levied on luxury goods and services, and the provision of article 158, item IV, of the Constitution shall not be applicable to such additional tax.

Paragraph 2. With a view to financing the Municipal Funds, an additional tax of up to half of one percent may be created, to raise the rate of the local service tax [ISS], or the rate of the tax that may eventually replace it, levied on luxury services.

Article 83. A federal law shall define the luxury goods and services referred to in articles 80, item II, and 82, paragraphs 1 and 2.”

Article 2. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 32, 2001

Alters provisions of articles 48, 57, 61, 62, 64, 66, 84, 88, and 246 of the Federal Constitution, and makes other provisions.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Articles 48, 57, 61, 62, 64, 66, 84, 88, and 246 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 48. [...]

X – creation, change, and abolishment of public offices, positions and functions, with due regard for article 84, item VI, subitem b;

XI – creation and abolishment of Ministries and Government bodies;

[...]”

“Article 57. [...]

Paragraph 7. In a special legislative session, the National Congress shall deliberate only upon the matter for which it was called, exception being made for the event mentioned in paragraph 8, the payment of a compensatory amount in excess of the monthly compensation being forbidden.

Paragraph 8. If there are provisional measures in effect on the date a special session of the National Congress is called, they shall be automatically included in the agenda of the session.”

“Article 61. [...]

Paragraph 1. [...]

II – [...]

- e) creation and abolishment of Ministries and Government bodies, with due regard for the provision of article 84, item VI;

[...]”

“Article 62. In important and urgent cases, the President of the Republic may adopt provisional measures with the force of law and shall submit them to the National Congress immediately.

Paragraph 1. The issuance of provisional measures is forbidden when the matter involved:

I – deals with:

- a) nationality, citizenship, political rights, political parties, and election law;
- b) criminal law, criminal procedural law, and civil procedural law;
- c) organization of the Judicial Branch and of the Public Prosecution, the career and guarantees of their members;
- d) pluriannual plans, budgetary directives, budgets, and additional and supplementary credits, with the exception of the provision mentioned in article 167, paragraph 3;

II – aims at the detention or seizure of goods, people’s savings, or any other financial asset;

III – is reserved for a supplementary law;

IV – has already been regulated by a bill of law passed by the National Congress which is awaiting sanction or veto by the President of the Republic.

Paragraph 2. A provisional measure to institute or increase taxes, with the exception of the taxes mentioned in articles 153, items I, II, IV, V, and 154, item II, shall only produce effects in the subsequent financial year if it has been converted into law before or on the last day of the financial year in which it was issued.

Paragraph 3. With the exception of the provisions mentioned in paragraphs 11 and 12, provisional measures shall lose effectiveness from the day of their issuance if they are not converted into law within a period of sixty days, which may be extended once for an identical period of time under the terms of paragraph 7, and the National Congress shall issue a legislative decree to regulate the legal relations arising therefrom.

Paragraph 4. The period mentioned in paragraph 3 shall be counted from the date of publication of the provisional measure and shall be interrupted while the National Congress is in recess.

Paragraph 5. Deliberation by each House of the National Congress upon the merits of provisional measures shall depend on prior determination of their compliance with the constitutional requirements.

Paragraph 6. If a provisional measure is not examined within forty-five days as of its date of publication, it shall subsequently be forwarded to urgent consideration in each House of the National Congress, and the deliberation of all other legislative matters shall be suspended in the House where it is under consideration, until such time as voting is concluded.

Paragraph 7. If the voting of a provisional measure is not concluded in both Houses of the National Congress within the period of sixty days as of its date of publication, its period of effectiveness may be extended once for an identical period of time.

Paragraph 8. The voting of provisional measures shall start in the House of Deputies.

Paragraph 9. It is incumbent upon the joint committee of Deputies and Senators to examine provisional measures and issue an opinion thereon, before they are submitted to floor action in each House of the National Congress in a separate session.

Paragraph 10. It is forbidden to reissue a provisional measure in the same legislative session in which it was rejected or lost its effectiveness due to lapse of time.

Paragraph 11. If the legislative decree mentioned in paragraph 3 is not issued within sixty days as of the date the provisional measure was rejected or lost its effectiveness, the legal relations constituted and arising from acts performed during its period of effectiveness shall still be regulated by such provisional measure.

Paragraph 12. Should a bill of law be passed that alters the original text of a provisional measure, the latter will remain effective in full until such date as the bill is sanctioned or vetoed.”

“Article 64. [...]

Paragraph 2. If, in the event of paragraph 1, the Chamber of Deputies and the Federal Senate fail to act, each one, successively, on the proposition, within the period of forty-five days, deliberation on all other legislative matters shall be suspended in the respective House, save those which must be considered within a stipulated constitutional period, in order that the voting may be concluded.

“Article 66. [...]

Paragraph 6. If the period of time established in paragraph 4 elapses without a decision being reached, the veto shall be included in the order of the day of the subsequent session, and all other propositions shall be suspended until its final voting.

“Article 84. [...]

VI – provide for the following, by means of a decree:

- a) organization and operation of federal government services, whenever no augmentation of expenditures or creation or abolishment of government bodies is involved;
- b) abolishment of public positions or posts, if vacant;

“Article 88. The law shall provide for the creation and abolishment of Ministries and government bodies.”

“Article 246. The adoption of a provisional measure for the regulation of any article of the Constitution the wording of which has been altered by means of an amendment enacted between January 1, 1995 and the date of enactment of this amendment is forbidden.”

Article 2. Any provisional measures issued on a date prior to the date of publication of this amendment shall remain in force until such time as a subsequent provisional measure explicitly revokes them or until final deliberation by the National Congress.

Article 3. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 33, 2001

Alters articles 149, 155, and 177 of the Federal Constitution.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 149 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth be in force with the addition of the following paragraphs, and the current sole paragraph shall be renumbered as paragraph 1:

“Article 149. [...]

Paragraph 1. [...]

Paragraph 2. The social contribution taxes mentioned in the head paragraph of this article, as well as the contribution taxes regarding intervention in the economic domain:

I – shall not be levied on export earnings;

II – may be levied on the importation of petroleum and petroleum products, natural gas and its by-products, and fuel alcohol;

III – may have the following rates:

- a) ad valorem rates, having as basis the proceeds, gross revenues, or the value of the transaction, and, in the case of importation, the customs value;
- b) specific rates, having as basis the unit of measurement adopted.

Paragraph 3. A natural person who is the recipient in an import transaction may be held as equivalent to a corporate body, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 4. The law shall establish the cases in which contributions will be levied only once.”

Article 2. Article 155 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth be in force with the following alterations:

“Article 155. [...]

IX – [...]

- a) on the entry of goods or products imported from abroad by an individual or corporate body, even in the case of a taxpayer who does not pay such tax on a regular basis, regardless of its purpose, as well as on services rendered abroad, and the tax shall be attributed to the State where the domicile or the establishment of the recipient of the product, good, or service is located;

[...]

XII – [...]

- h) define the fuels and lubricants on which this tax shall be levied only once, regardless of its purpose, in which case the provision of item X, subitem b, shall not apply;
- i) stipulate the assessment basis so as to include the amount of the tax, also in the event of importation of goods, products, or services from abroad.

Paragraph 3. With the exception of the taxes mentioned in item II of the head paragraph of the present article, and article 153, items I and II, no other tax may be levied on transactions concerning electric energy, telecommunications services, petroleum products, fuels, and minerals of the country.

Paragraph 4. In the event of item XII, subitem h, the following shall apply:

I – in transactions involving lubricants and petroleum-derived fuels, the tax shall be attributed to the State where consumption takes place;

II – in interstate transactions among taxpayers involving natural gas and its by-products, and lubricants and fuels not included in item I of this paragraph, the tax shall be shared by the State of origin and the State of destination, and the proportion existing in transactions involving other goods shall be observed;

III – in interstate transactions involving natural gas and its by-products, and lubricants and fuels not included in item I of this paragraph, when it is not incumbent upon the recipient to pay the tax, such tax shall be attributed to the State of origin;

IV – the tax rates shall be defined by joint decision of States and the Federal District, under the terms of paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g, with due regard for the following:

- a) they shall be uniform throughout the national territory, and they may be different for each product;
- b) they may be specific, according to the unit of measurement adopted, or ad valorem, levied on the value of the transaction or on the price the product or a similar product would be sold for in free competition circumstances;
- c) they may be lowered and restored to their original levels, and the provision of article 150, item III, subitem b, shall not apply thereto.

Paragraph 5. The rules for the enforcement of the provisions of paragraph 4, including those concerning the collection and assignment of the tax, shall be established by joint decision of States and the Federal District, under the terms of paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g.”

Article 3. Article 177 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth include the following paragraph:

“Article 177. [...]”

Paragraph 4. The law which institutes a contribution tax of intervention in the economic domain regarding activities of importation or sale of petroleum and petroleum products, natural gas and its by-products, and fuel alcohol shall include the following requirements:

I – the contribution rate may be:

- a) different for each product or use;
- b) lowered and restored to its original level by an act of the Executive Branch, and the provision of article 150, item III, subitem b, shall not apply thereto;

II – the proceeds from the collection of the contribution shall be allocated:

- a) to the payment of price or transportation subsidies for fuel alcohol, natural gas and its by-products, and petroleum products;
- b) to the financing of environmental projects related to the petroleum and gas industry;
- c) to the financing of transportation infrastructure programs.”

Article 4. Until such time as the supplementary law mentioned in article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, subitem h, of the Federal Constitution, comes into force, the States and the Federal District, by means of an agreement entered into under the terms of paragraph 2, item XII, subitem g, of the said article, shall establish provisional rules to regulate the matter.

Article 5. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its promulgation.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 53 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth be in force with the following alterations:

“Article 53. Deputies and Senators enjoy civil and criminal inviolability on account of any of their opinions, words and votes.

Paragraph 1. Deputies and Senators, from the date of issuance of the certificate of election victory, shall be tried by the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 2. From the date of issuance of the certificate of election victory, the members of the National Congress may not be arrested, except in flagrante delicto of a non-bailable offense. In such case, the case records shall be sent within twenty-four hours to the respective House, which, by the vote of the majority of its members, shall decide on the arrest.

Paragraph 3. Upon receiving an accusation against a Senator or Deputy, for an offense committed after the issuance of the certificate of election victory, the Federal Supreme Court shall inform the respective House, which, by the initiative of a political party therein represented and by the vote of the majority of those House members, may, until such time as a final decision is issued, stay consideration of the action.

Paragraph 4. The request for stay shall be examined by the respective House within the unextendable period of forty-five days as from its receipt by the Directing Board.

Paragraph 5. The stay of proceedings shall suspend the limitation for the duration of the term of office.

Paragraph 6. Deputies and Senators shall not be compelled to render testimony on information received or given by virtue of the exercise of their mandate, nor on persons who rendered them information or received information from them.

Paragraph 7. Incorporation into the Armed Forces of Deputies and Senators, even if they hold military rank and even in time of war shall depend upon the prior granting of permission by the respective House.

Paragraph 8. The immunities of Deputies and Senators shall be maintained during a state of siege and may only be suspended by the vote of two-thirds of the members of the respective House, in the case of acts committed outside the premises of Congress, which are not compatible with the implementation of such measure.”

Article 2. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 37, 2002

Alters articles 100 and 156 of the Federal Constitution and adds articles 84, 85, 86, 87, and 88 to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth be in force with the addition of the following paragraph 4, and the subsequent paragraphs shall be renumbered:

“Article 100. [...]

Paragraph 4. The issuance of a court order as a supplementation to or in addition to an amount to be paid, as well as the parceling, apportionment, or reduction of the amount under execution are forbidden, so that payment will not be made, in part, as stipulated in paragraph 3 of this article, and, in part, by means of the issuance of a court order. [...]”

Article 2. Paragraph 3 of article 156 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 156. [...]

Paragraph 3. As regards the tax established in item III of the head paragraph of this article, a supplementary law shall:

I – establish its maximum and minimum rates; [...]

III – regulate the manner and conditions for the granting and revocation of fiscal exemptions, incentives, and benefits.

[...]”

Article 3. The Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall henceforth be in force with the addition of the following articles 84, 85, 86, 87, and 88:

“Article 84. The provisional contribution on the movement or transmission of monies and of credits and rights of a financial nature, set forth in articles 74, 75, and 80, item I, of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, shall be collected through December 31, 2004.

Paragraph 1. The effect of Law No. 9,311, of October 24, 1996, as well as of its alterations, is hereby extended through the date mentioned in the head paragraph of this article.

Paragraph 2. Of the proceeds from collection of the social contribution mentioned in this article, the portion corresponding to the following rates shall be allocated to the purposes herein stated:

I – twenty hundredths percent to the National Health Fund, for the financing of health actions and services;

II – ten hundredths percent to the financing of social security;

III – eight hundredths percent to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, set forth in articles 80 and 81 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Paragraph 3. The rate of the contribution mentioned in this article shall be equal to:

I – thirty-eight hundredths percent in the financial years of 2002 and 2003;

II – eight hundredths percent in the financial year of 2004, and it shall be wholly allocated to the Fund to Fight and Eradicate Poverty, set forth in articles 80 and 81 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Article 85. The contribution mentioned in article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall not be levied, as from the thirtieth day after the publication of this Constitutional Amendment, on entries concerning:

I – current deposit accounts especially opened and exclusively used for transactions carried out by:

a) clearinghouses and providers of clearing and settlement services referred to in article 2, sole paragraph, of Law No. 10,214, of March 27, 2001;

b) securitization companies referred to in Law No. 9,514, of November 20, 1997;

c) business corporations whose exclusive purpose is to purchase credits originating from transactions carried out in the financial market;

II – current deposit accounts, when such entries are related to:

a) stock purchase and sale transactions, effected within stock exchange trading floors or electronic systems, and in the organized over-the-counter market;

b) contracts written on stocks or stock indices, in their various modes, negotiated in stock exchanges, commodities and futures exchanges;

III – foreign investors’ accounts, regarding entries into and remittances from Brazil of funds employed exclusively in transactions and contracts referred to in item II of this article.

Paragraph 1. The Executive Branch shall regulate the provisions of this article within thirty days as of the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment.

Paragraph 2. The provisions of item I of this article apply only to the transactions specified in an act issued by the Executive Branch, from among the transactions that constitute the purpose of said entities.

Paragraph 3. The provisions of item II of this article apply only to transactions and contracts effected through financial institutions, securities brokerage houses, securities distribution companies, and commodities brokerage houses.

Article 86. Debts that must be paid by the Federal, State, Federal District, or Municipal Tax Authorities by virtue of final and unappealable judicial decisions shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, the parceling rule established in the head paragraph of article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act not being applicable, if such debts meet the following cumulative conditions:

I – having been the subject of a court order;

II – having been defined as small amount debts by the law referred to in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, or by article 87 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act;

 III – their payment being outstanding, in whole or in part, on the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment.

Paragraph 1. The debts referred to in the head paragraph of this article, or their respective balances, shall be paid in chronological order of presentation of the respective court orders, with precedence over debts of a higher amount.

Paragraph 2. If the debts referred to in the head paragraph of this article have not been subject to partial payment yet, under the terms of article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, they may be paid in two annual installments, as the law provides.

Paragraph 3. The payment of the alimony debts referred to in this article, with due respect for the chronological order of their presentation, shall take precedence over the payment of all other debts.

Article 87. For purposes of the provisions set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, and in article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, and until such time as the official publication of the respective defining acts by the units of the Federation is effected, the debts or bonds stated in court orders shall be considered as being of a small amount, with due regard for paragraph 4 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution, if their amount is equal to or lesser than:

I – forty minimum monthly wages, in the case of debts owed by the Tax Authorities of the States and of the Federal District;

II – thirty minimum monthly wages, in the case of debts owed by the Tax Authorities of the Municipalities.

Sole paragraph. Should the amount under execution exceed the amount stipulated in this article, payment shall always be made by means of a court order, the execution creditor being entitled to waiving the credit of the excess amount, so that he may opt to receive the balance without the emission of a court order, in the manner set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100.

Article 88. Until such time as a supplementary law regulates the provisions of items I and III of paragraph 3 of article 156 of the Federal Constitution, the tax referred to in item III of the head paragraph of said article shall:

I – have a minimum rate of two percent, save for the services referred to in items 32, 33, and 34 of the List of Services appended to Decree-Law No. 406, of December 31, 1968;

II – not be subject to the granting of fiscal exemptions, incentives, and benefits, should the direct or indirect result of such granting be the reduction of the minimum rate stipulated in item I.”

Article 4. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 41, 2003

Alters articles 37, 40, 42, 48, 96, 149, and 201 of the Federal Constitution, revokes item IX of paragraph 3 of article 142 of the Federal Constitution and provisions of Constitutional Amendment No. 20, of December 15, 1998, and makes further provisions.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60, of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. The Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 37. [...]”

XI – the remuneration and the compensation of the holders of public offices, functions, and positions in governmental entities, associate government agencies, and foundations; of the members of any of the Powers of the Union, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities; of the holders of elective offices, and of any other political agent, as well as the pay, pension, or other type of remuneration, earned on a cumulative basis or not, including advantages of a personal nature or of any other nature, may not be higher than the monthly compensation, in legal tender, of the Justices of the Federal Supreme Court, and the following limits shall be applied: in Municipalities, the compensation of the Mayor; in the States and in the Federal District, the monthly compensation of the Governor in the sphere of the Executive Branch, the compensation of State and Federal District Deputies in the sphere of the Legislative Branch, and the compensation of the Judges of the State Court of Justice, limited to ninety and twenty-five hundredths percent of the monthly compensation, in legal tender, of the Justices of the Federal Supreme Court in the sphere of the Judicial Branch, this limit being applicable to the members of the Office of the Public Interest Attorney, to Prosecutors, and to Public Legal Defenders; [...]”

“Article 40. Employees holding effective posts in the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, therein included their associate government agencies and foundations, are ensured of a social security scheme on a contributory and solidary basis, with contributions from the respective public entity, from the current employees, retired personnel, and pensioners, with due regard for criteria that preserve financial and actuarial balance and for the provisions of this article.

Paragraph 1. The employees covered by the social security scheme set forth in this article shall go into retirement, their pensions being calculated according to the amounts stipulated under the terms of paragraphs 3 and 17:

I – for permanent disability, with a pension in proportion to the period of contribution, except when such disability results from a work-related injury, a professional disease, or a serious, contagious, or incurable illness, under the terms of the law;
 [...]”

Paragraph 3. The calculation of the retirement pension, at the time retirement is granted, shall take into account the remunerations used as basis for the contributions of the employee to the social security schemes mentioned in this article and in article 201, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 7. The law shall provide for the granting of the benefit of a death pension, which will be equal to:

I – the total amount of the retirement pension of the deceased employee, up to the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201, increased by seventy percent of the amount in excess of this limit, if the employee had already retired on the date of his death; or

II – the total amount of the remuneration of the employee in the effective post he was holding on the date of his death, up to the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201, increased by seventy percent of the amount in excess of this limit, if the employee was in active service on the date of his death.

Paragraph 8. Readjustment of the benefits is ensured, to the end that their real value is permanently maintained, in accordance with criteria established by law.

Paragraph 15. The complementary social security scheme referred to in paragraph 14 shall be instituted by an act of the respective Executive Power, with due regard for the provisions of article 202 and its paragraphs, insofar as pertinent, through closed private pension plan companies, of a public nature, which will offer to their respective participants benefit plans exclusively in the defined contribution mode.

Paragraph 17. All remuneration amounts taken into account in the calculation of the benefit set forth in paragraph 3 shall be duly updated, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 18. A contribution shall be levied on retirement pensions and other pensions granted by the scheme referred to in this article if such pensions exceed the maximum limit established for the benefits of the general social security scheme mentioned in article 201, at a percentage equal to the one established for employees holding effective posts.

Paragraph 19. Employees referred to in this article who have fulfilled the requirements for voluntary retirement stipulated in paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, and who choose to remain working shall be entitled to a continuous activity bonus equivalent to the amount of their social security contribution until such date as they fulfill the requirements for compulsory retirement set forth in paragraph 1, item II.

Paragraph 20. The establishment of more than one special social security scheme for employees holding effective posts, and of more than one unit to manage the respective scheme in each State is forbidden, except for the provision of article 142, paragraph 3, item X.”

“Article 42. [...]

Paragraph 2. The provisions that may be established by a specific act of the respective State shall apply to the pensioners of the military of the States, of the Federal District, and of the Territories.”

“Article 48. [...]

XV – stipulation of the compensation for the Justices of the Federal Supreme Court, with due regard for articles 39, paragraph 4; 150, item II; 153, item III; and 153, paragraph 2, item I.”

“Article 96. [...]

II – [...]

- b) creation and abolishment of offices and the remuneration of the auxiliary services and of the courts connected with them, as well as the establishment of the compensation for their members and for the judges, including those of the lower courts, if existing;

[...]”

“Article 149. [...]

Paragraph 1. The States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall institute a contribution payable by their employees to fund the social security scheme referred to in article 40, for the benefit of such employees, and the respective rate may not be lower than the rate of the contribution paid by employees holding effective posts in the Union.

[...]”

Paragraph 12. The law shall provide for a special system to include low-income workers in the social security system, so that they have guaranteed access to benefits at an amount equal to a monthly minimum salary, except for retirement benefits due to contribution period.”

Article 2. With due regard for the provision of article 4 of Constitutional Amendment No. 20, December 15, 1998, the right to opt for voluntary retirement with pay calculated according to article 40, paragraphs

3 and 17, of the Federal Constitution, is ensured to employees who have properly taken effective posts in government services, associate government agencies, and foundations, before the date of publication of said Amendment, when such employees meet the following cumulative conditions:

- I – fifty-three years of age, if a man, and forty-eight, if a woman;
- II – five years of effective exercise in the post from which retirement takes place;
- III – a period of contribution equal to at least the sum of:
 - a) thirty-five years, if a man, and thirty years, if a woman; and
 - b) an additional period of contribution equivalent to twenty percent of the period which, at the date of publication of said Amendment, would still be necessary to reach the limit set forth in subitem a of this item.

Paragraph 1. The employees mentioned in this article who meet the requirements for retirement under the terms of the head paragraph shall have their retirement pay reduced for each year their retirement is brought forward as regards the age limits established by article 40, paragraph 1, item III, subitem a, and paragraph 5, of the Federal Constitution, according to the following proportion:

- I – three and five tenths per cent, for employees who meet the requirements for retirement under the terms of the head paragraph by December 31, 2005;
- II – five per cent, for employees who meet the requirements for retirement under the terms of the head paragraph as from January 1, 2006.

Paragraph 2. The provisions of this article are applicable to judges and to members of the Office of the Public Interest Attorney and of audit courts.

Paragraph 3. When the provisions of paragraph 2 of this article are applied, the period of service performed until the publication of Constitutional Amendment No. 20, December 15, 1998, shall be increased by the addition of seventeen percent for a judge or a member of the Office of the Public Interest Attorney and of audit courts, if a man.

Paragraph 4. The period of service performed until the publication of Constitutional Amendment No. 20, December 15, 1998, shall be increased by the addition of seventeen percent, for a male teacher, and twenty percent, for a female teacher, who is an employee of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies and foundations, and who, until the date of publication of said Amendment, has properly taken an effective teaching post and opts to retire under the terms of the head paragraph, provided that such retirement is based exclusively on the period of effective exercise of a teaching function, with due regard for paragraph 1.

Paragraph 5. The employee referred to in this article, who has met the requirements for voluntary retirement as set forth in the head paragraph and chooses to remain in active service, shall be entitled to a continuous activity bonus equivalent to the amount of his social security contribution until such date as he meets the requirements for compulsory retirement as set forth in article 40, paragraph 1, item II, of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 6. The provisions of article 40, paragraph 8, of the Federal Constitution, shall apply to retirement pensions granted under the terms of this article.

Article 3. The granting of retirement pensions to public employees, as well as pensions to their dependents, is ensured, at any time, if, by the date of publication of this Amendment, they have complied with the requirements to be entitled to such benefits, in accordance with the criteria of the legislation in effect at that time.

Paragraph 1. The employee referred to in this article, who chooses to remain in active service after having met the requirements for voluntary retirement, and who has, at least, twenty-five years of contribution, if a woman, or thirty years of contribution, if a man, shall be entitled to a continuous activity bonus equivalent to the amount of her or his social security contribution until such date as she or he meets the requirements for compulsory retirement as set forth in article 40, paragraph 1, item II, of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 2. The retirement pay to be granted to the public employees referred to in the head paragraph, either in full or in proportion to the period of contribution completed by the date of publication of this Amendment, as well as the pensions for their dependents, shall be calculated in accordance with the legislation in effect at the time the requirements therein contained for the granting of such benefits were met, or with the terms of the current legislation.

Article 4. Retired employees and pensioners of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies and foundations, who are regularly receiving benefits on the date of publication of this Amendment, as well as public employees covered by the provisions of its article 3, shall contribute to the funding of the scheme referred to in article 40 of the Federal Constitution at the same percentage stipulated for employees holding effective posts.

Sole paragraph. The social security contribution referred to in the head paragraph shall be levied only on the portion of the retirement pensions and other pensions which exceeds:

I – fifty per cent of the maximum limit stipulated for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201 of the Federal Constitution, for retired employees and pensioners of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities;

II – sixty per cent of the maximum limit for the benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201 of the Federal Constitution, for retired employees and pensioners of the Union.

Article 5. The maximum limit for the amount of benefits of the general social security scheme referred to in article 201 of the Federal Constitution is defined as R$ 2,400.00 (two thousand and four hundred reais), and it shall be adjusted, as from the date of publication of this Amendment, to the end that its real value is permanently maintained and updated according to the same indices applicable to the benefits of the general social security scheme.

Article 6. Without prejudice to the right to opt for retirement in accordance with the rules established by article 40 of the Federal Constitution or the rules established by article 2 of this Amendment, an employee of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies and foundations, who has entered public administration before the date of publication of this Amendment may go into retirement with full pay, equivalent to the total remuneration of such employee in the effective post from which he retires, under the terms of the law, when, with due regard for the reductions on account of age and contribution period contained in paragraph 5 of article 40 of the Federal Constitution, such employee meets the following cumulative conditions:

I – sixty years of age, if a man, and fifty-five years of age, if a woman;

II – thirty-five years of contribution, if a man, and thirty years of contribution, if a woman;

III – twenty years of effective exercise in public administration; and

IV – ten years in the career and five years in the effective post from which retirement is going to take place.

Sole paragraph. (Revoked). (CA No. 47, 2005)

Article 6-A. Any employee of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, therein included their associate government agencies and foundations, who has entered public administration before the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment, and who has retired or may eventually retire on account of permanent disability, under item I of paragraph 1 of article 40 of the Federal Constitution, is entitled to receive a retirement pension calculated in accordance with the remuneration of the effective post from which such employee retires, under the terms of the law, whereas the provisions of paragraphs 3, 8, and 17 of article 40 of the Federal Constitution shall not apply. (CA No. 70, 2012)

Sole paragraph. The provision of article 7 of this Constitutional Amendment shall apply to the amount of a retirement pension granted in accordance with the head paragraph of this article, and the same revision criterion shall be applied to pensions deriving from retirement pensions paid to such employees.

Article 7. With due regard for the provision of article 37, item XI, of the Federal Constitution, retirement pensions of government employees who hold effective posts and the pensions for their dependents, paid by the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, including their associate government agencies and foundations, and being received on the date of publication of this Amendment, as well as the retirement pensions of employees and the pensions for their dependents covered by article 3 of this Amendment, shall be revised in the same proportion and on the same date, whenever the remuneration of employees in active service is altered, and any benefits or advantages subsequently granted to employees in active service shall also be extended to retirees and to pensioners, including those benefits and advantages arising from the transformation or reclassification of the post or function from which retirement was taken, or which was taken as a parameter for the granting of a pension, as the law provides.

Article 8. Until such time as the amount of the compensation referred to in article 37, item XI, of the Federal Constitution is stipulated, the amount of the highest remuneration assigned by law to a Justice of the Federal Supreme Court on the date of publication of this Amendment, on account of pay, monthly representation allowance, and sum received by virtue of period of service, shall be taken into consideration for the purposes of the limit stipulated in the said item XI, and the following limits shall be applied: in Municipalities, the compensation of the Mayor; in the States and in the Federal District, the monthly compensation of the Governor in the sphere of the Executive Branch, the compensation of State and Federal District Deputies in the sphere of the Legislative Branch, and the compensation of the Judges of the State Court of Justice, limited to ninety and twenty-five hundredths percent of the highest monthly remuneration of a Justice of the Federal Supreme Court referred to in this article in the sphere of the Judicial Branch, this limit being applicable to the members of the Office of the Public Interest Attorney, to Prosecutors, and to Public Legal Defenders.

Article 9. The provisions of article 17 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall apply to the pay, the remunerations, and the compensation of the holders of public offices, functions and positions in governmental entities, associate government agencies, and foundations; of the members of any of the Powers of the Union, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities; of the holders of elective offices, and of any other political agent, as well as the retirement pay, pensions, or other type of remuneration, earned on a cumulative basis or not, including advantages of a personal nature or of any other nature.

Article 10. Item IX of paragraph 3 of article 142 of the Federal Constitution, as well as articles 8 and 10 of Constitutional Amendment No. 20, December 15, 1998, are hereby revoked.

Article 11. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 42, 2003

Alters the National Tax System and makes further provisions.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60, of the Federal Constitution, promulgate the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. The following articles of the Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 37. [...]

XXII – the tax administrations of the Union, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, whose activities are essential for the operation of the State and are exercised by employees of specific careers, shall have priority funds for the implementation of their activities and shall work in an integrated manner, including the sharing of tax rolls and fiscal information, under the terms of the law or of a covenant.

[...]”

“Article 52. [...]

XV – to carry out a regular assessment of the functionality of the National Tax System, as regards its structure and components, as well as the performance of the tax administrations of the Union, of the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities. [...]

“Article 146. [...]

III – [...]

d) the definition of a differentiated and favorable tax treatment to be given to micro and small businesses, including special or simplified tax regimes in the case of the tax set forth in article 155, item II, the contributions set forth in article 195, item I, and paragraphs 12 and 13, and the contribution referred to in article 239.

Sole paragraph. The supplementary law referred to in item III, subitem d, may also establish a single regime for the collection of taxes and contributions owed to the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, with due regard for the following:

I – it shall be optional for the taxpayer;

II – different eligibility requirements may be established for each State;

III – payment of said tributes shall be unified and centralized, and the distribution of the share of funds belonging to the respective units of the Federation shall be immediate, any withholding or establishment of conditions being forbidden;

IV – collection, control, and claiming of payment may be shared by the units of the Federation, a single national roster of taxpayers being adopted.”

“Article 146-A. A supplementary law may establish special criteria for taxation, with a view to preventing imbalances in competition, without prejudice to the power of the Federal Government to establish, by law, rules for the same purpose.”

“Article 149. [...]

Paragraph 2. [...]

II – shall be also levied on the importation of foreign products or services;

[...]

III – [...]

- c) within the period of ninety days as from the date of publication of the law which instituted or raised such tributes, with due regard for the provision of subitem b;

[...]

Paragraph 1. The prohibition set forth in item III, subitem b, shall not apply to the taxes provided upon in articles 148, item I, 153, items I, II, IV, and V; and 154, II; and the prohibition set forth in item III, subitem c, shall not apply to the taxes provided upon in articles 148, item I, 153, items I, II, III, and V; and 154, item II, nor to the stipulation of the assessment basis of the taxes provided upon in articles 155, item III, and 156, item I.

[...]

Paragraph 3. [...]

IV – shall have its impact reduced, as set forth by law, in the case of purchase of capital goods by a taxpayer who is liable to pay such tax.

Paragraph 4. The tax established in item VI of the head paragraph:

I – shall be progressive and its rates shall be determined in such a manner as to discourage the retention of unproductive real property;

II – shall not be levied on small tracts of land, as defined in law, when a proprietor who owns no other real property exploits them;

III – shall be controlled and collected by the Municipalities which opt to do so, under the terms of the law, provided that they do not reduce this tax or introduce any other type of fiscal waiver.

X – [...]

- a) on transactions involving goods to be shipped abroad, nor on services to be delivered to parties abroad, and tax charges and credits in preceding transactions involving such goods or services shall continue in effect;

[...]

- d) on communications services in the modes of sound broadcasting and sound and image broadcasting which are available for reception by the public free of charge;

[...]

Paragraph 6. The tax established in item III:

I – shall have its minimum rates stipulated by the Federal Senate;

II – may have different rates according to type and utilization.”

“Article 158. [...]

II – fifty per cent of the proceeds from the collection of the federal tax on rural property, concerning real property located in the Municipalities, or one hundred per cent of such proceeds in the case of the option referred to in article 153, paragraph 4, item III;

“Article 159. [...]

III – of the proceeds from the collection of the contribution for intervention in the economic domain set forth in article 177, paragraph 4, twenty-five per cent to the States and to the Federal District, distributed in accordance with the law, with due regard for the allocation referred to in item II, subitem c, of said paragraph.

[...]

Paragraph 4. Twenty-five per cent of the amount of monies referred to in item III and allocated to each State shall be assigned to its Municipalities, in accordance with the law referred to in said item.”

“Article 167. [...]

IV – to bind tax revenues to an agency, fund or expense, excepting the sharing of the proceeds from the collection of the taxes referred to in articles 158 and 159, the allocation of funds for public health actions and services, for the maintenance and development of education, and for the implementation of tax administration activities, as determined, respectively, in article 198, paragraph 2, article 212, and article 37, item XXII, and the granting of guarantees on credit transactions by advance of revenues, as established in article 165, paragraph 8, as well as in paragraph 4 of the present article;

“Article 170. [...]

VI – environment protection, which may include differentiated treatment in accordance with the environmental impact of goods and services and of their respective production and delivery processes;

“Article 195. [...]

IV – of importers of goods or services from other countries, or of other parties defined by law as being comparable to such importers.

Paragraph 12. The law shall define the sectors of economic activity for which the contributions stipulated under the terms of items I, subitem b, and IV of the head paragraph, shall be non-cumulative. Paragraph 13. The provision of paragraph 12 shall also apply in the case of gradual replacement, either total or partial, of the contribution stipulated under the terms of item I, subitem a, by the contribution due on income or revenues.”

“Article 204. [...]

Sole paragraph. The States and the Federal District may assign up to five tenths per cent of their net tax revenues to programs to support social inclusion and promotion, the utilization of such funds for the payment of the following items being forbidden:

I – personnel expenses and social charges;

II – debt servicing;

III – any other current expense not directly related to the investments or actions supported by said programs.”

“Article 216. [...]

Paragraph 6. The States and the Federal District may assign up to five tenths per cent of their net tax revenues to a State fund for the promotion of culture, for the purpose of funding cultural programs and projects, the utilization of such funds for the payment of the following items being forbidden:

I – personnel expenses and social charges;

II – debt servicing;

III – any other current expense not directly related to the investments or actions supported by said programs.”

Article 2. The following articles of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 76. Twenty percent of the proceeds from the collection by the Union of taxes, social contributions, and contributions for intervention in the economic domain, already instituted or to be instituted in the period of 2003 to 2007, as well as their additional taxes and respective legal increases, shall not be earmarked to any agency, fund, or expense in the said period.

Paragraph 1. The provision of the head paragraph of this article shall not reduce the assessment basis of the transfers to the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities under the terms of articles 153, paragraph 5; 157, item I; 158, items I and II; and 159, item I, subitems a and b; and item II, of the Constitution, neither the assessment basis of the remittances mentioned in article 159, item I, subitem c, of the Constitution.

“Article 82. [...]

Paragraph 1. With a view to financing the State Funds and the Federal District Fund, an additional tax of up to two percent may be created, to raise the rate of the State VAT [ICMS], due on luxury goods and services and observing the conditions defined in the supplementary law referred to in article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, of the Constitution, and the provision of article 158, item IV, of the Constitution shall not be applicable to such percentage.

[...]

Article 3. The Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall henceforth include the following articles:

“Article 90. The time limit set forth in the head paragraph of article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act is hereby extended through December 31, 2007.

Paragraph 1. The effect of Law No. 9,311, of October 24, 1996, as well as of its alterations, is hereby extended through the date mentioned in the head paragraph of this article.

Paragraph 2. The rate of the contribution referred to in article 84 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall be equal to thirty-eight hundredths per cent through the date referred to in the head paragraph of this article.”

“Article 91. The Union shall remit to the States and to the Federal District the amount defined by a supplementary law, in accordance with the criteria, time limits, and terms therein determined, taking into consideration exports of primary commodities and semi-manufactured products to other countries, the import-export ratio, credits deriving from purchases intended for the permanent assets, and the effective maintenance and utilization of the tax credits referred to in article 155, paragraph 2, item X, subitem a.

Paragraph 1. As to the amount of funds to be remitted to each State, seventy-five percent of such amount shall be assigned to the State itself, and twenty-five percent to its Municipalities, such percentage being distributed in accordance with the criteria referred to in article 158, sole paragraph, of the Constitution.

Paragraph 2. The remittance of funds set forth in this article shall prevail, as defined in a supplementary law, until such time as the proceeds from the collection of the tax referred to in article 155, item II, are predominantly assigned, in a proportion not below eighty per cent, to the State where consumption of the products, goods, or services takes place.

Paragraph 3. Until such time as the supplementary law referred to in the head paragraph is enacted, and so as to replace the system of remittance of funds set forth therein, there shall remain in force the system of remittance of funds set forth in article 31 and Schedule of Supplementary Law No. 87, of September 13, 1996, with the wording provided by Supplementary Law No. 115, of December 26, 2002.

Paragraph 4. The States and the Federal District shall present to the Federal Government, under the terms of instructions issued by the Finance Ministry, information regarding the tax referred to in article 155, item II, supplied by the taxpayers who carry out transactions involving goods to be shipped abroad or services to be delivered to foreign parties.”

“Article 92. A period of ten years shall be added to the period of time set forth in article 40 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.”

“Article 93. The provisions of article 159, item III, and paragraph 4 shall only come into force after the promulgation of the law referred to in said item III.”

“Article 94. The special tax regimes for micro and small businesses which are specific of the Union, the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities shall be discontinued as from the date the regime set forth in article 146, item III, subitem d, of the Constitution comes into force.”

Article 4. Any additional amounts introduced by the States and the Federal District up to the date of promulgation of this Amendment which do not comply with the provisions of this Constitutional Amendment, of Constitutional Amendment No. 31, of December 14, 2000, or of the supplementary law referred to in article 155, paragraph 2, item XII, of the Constitution, shall be in force, at the most, through the time limit set forth in article 79 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Article 5. Within sixty days as from the date of promulgation of this Amendment, the Executive Branch shall forward to the National Congress a bill of law, under expedited procedures, to regulate tax benefits for capacity-building in the information technology industry, and such benefits shall be in force through 2019 under the conditions in effect upon approval of this Amendment.

Article 6. Item II of paragraph 3 of article 84 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act is hereby revoked.

Paragraph 3. In the event of a strike in an essential activity which may possibly injure the public interest, the Labour Public Prosecution may file a collective labour suit, and it is incumbent upon Labour Courts to settle the conflict.”

“Article 115. The Regional Labour Courts are composed of a minimum of seven judges, selected, whenever possible, in the respective region and appointed by the President of the Republic from among Brazilians over thirty and under sixty-five years of age, as follows:

I – one-fifth shall be chosen from among lawyers effectively practicing their professional activity for more than ten years and from among members of the Labour Public Prosecution with over ten years of effective service, with due regard for the provisions of article 94;

II – the others, by means of promotion of labour judges for seniority and merit, alternately.

Paragraph 1. The Regional Labour Courts shall install an itinerant justice system, carrying out hearings and other functions typical of the operation of justice, within the territorial limits of the respective jurisdiction, and making use of public and community facilities.

Paragraph 2. The Regional Labour Courts may operate in a decentralized mode, by creating regional Divisions, with a view to affording claimants full access to justice in all stages of the judicial action.”

“Article 125. [...]

Paragraph 3. By proposal of the Court of Justice, a State law may create the State Military Justice, constituted, at first instance, by judges and by the Councils of Justice and, at second instance, by the Court of Justice itself, or by the Court of Military Justice in those States in which the military troops count more than twenty thousand members.

Paragraph 4. The State Military Justice has the competence to institute legal proceeding and trial of the military of the States for military crimes defined in law, as well as to hear and try judicial actions against military disciplinary measures, with due regard for the competence of the jury when the victim is a civilian, and the competent court shall decide upon the loss of post or rank of officers and of the grade of servicemen.

Paragraph 5. The judges of the military justice system have the competence, in the quality of single-judge courts, to institute legal proceeding and trial of military crimes committed against civilians and to hear and try judicial actions against military disciplinary measures, and it is incumbent upon the Council of Justice, presided over by a judge, to institute legal proceeding and trial of other military crimes.

Paragraph 6. The Court of Justice may operate in a decentralized mode, by creating regional Divisions, with a view to affording claimants full access to justice in all stages of the judicial action.

Paragraph 7. The Court of Justice shall install an itinerant justice system, carrying out hearings and other functions typical of the operation of justice, within the territorial limits of the respective jurisdiction, and making use of public and community facilities.”

“Article 126. For the settlement of conflicts relating to land property, the Court of Justice shall propose the creation of specialized single-judge courts, with exclusive competence for agrarian matters.

[...]”

“Article 127. [...]

Paragraph 4. If the Public Prosecution does not forward its respective budget proposal within the time period stipulated in the law of budgetary directives, the Executive Power shall, with a view to engrossing the annual budget proposal, take into account the figures approved in the current budgetary law, such figures adjusted in accordance with the limits stipulated under the terms of paragraph 3.

Paragraph 5. If the budget proposal referred to in this article and thus forwarded does not obey the limits stipulated under paragraph 3, the Executive Power shall effect the necessary adjustments with a view to engrossing the annual budget proposal.

“Article 134. [...]

Paragraph 1. (former sole paragraph) [...]

Paragraph 2. The Public Legal Defense of each State shall be ensured of functional and administrative autonomy, as well as the prerogative to present its budget proposal within the limits set forth in the law of budgetary directives and in due compliance with the provisions of article 99, paragraph 2.”

“Article 168. Funds corresponding to budgetary allocations, including supplementary and special credits, intended for the bodies of the Legislative and Judicial Powers, the Public Prosecution, and the Public Legal Defense, shall be remitted to them on or before the twentieth of each month, in twelfths, as provided by the supplementary law referred to in article 165, paragraph 9.”

Article 2. The Federal Constitution shall henceforth include the following articles 103-A, 103-B, 111-A, and 130-A:

“Article 103-A. The Federal Supreme Court may, ex officio or upon request, upon decision of two thirds of its members, and following reiterated judicial decisions on constitutional matter, issue a summula (restatement of case law) which, as from publication in the official press, shall have a binding effect upon the lower bodies of the Judicial Power and the direct and indirect public administration, in the federal, state, and local levels, and which may also be reviewed or revoked, as set forth in law.

Paragraph 1. The purpose of a summula is to validate, construe, and impart effectiveness to some rules about which there is a current controversy among judicial bodies or among such bodies and the public administration, and such controversy brings about serious juridical insecurity and the filing of multiple lawsuits involving similar issues.

Paragraph 2. Without prejudice to the provisions the law may establish, the issuance, review, or revocation of a summula may be requested by those who may file a direct action of unconstitutionality.

Paragraph 3. An administrative act or judicial decision which contradicts the applicable summula or which unduly applies a summula may be appealed to the Federal Supreme Court, and if the appeal is granted, such Court shall declare the administrative act null and void or overrule the appealed judicial decision, ordering that a new judicial decision be issued, with or without applying the summula, as the case may be.”

“Article 103-B. The National Council of Justice is composed of fifteen members over thirty-five and under sixty-six years of age, appointed for a two-year term of office, one reappointment being permitted, as follows:

I – a Justice of the Federal Supreme Court, nominated by said Court;

II – a Justice of the Superior Court of Justice, nominated by said Court;

III – a Justice of the Superior Labour Court, nominated by said Court;

IV – a judge of a State Court of Justice, nominated by the Federal Supreme Court;

among the names indicated by the competent body of each state institution;

XII – two lawyers, nominated by the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association;

XIII – two citizens of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation, one of whom nominated by the Chamber of Deputies and the other one by the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 1. The Council shall be presided over by the Justice of the Federal Supreme Court, who shall vote in the event of tied voting, and he shall be excluded from the assignment of proceedings in said Court.

Paragraph 2. The members of the Council shall be appointed by the President of the Republic, after their nomination has been approved by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 3. If the nominations set forth in this article are not effected within the legal deadline, selection shall be incumbent upon the Federal Supreme Court.

Paragraph 4. It is incumbent upon the Council to control the administrative and financial operation of the Judicial Branch and the proper discharge of official duties by judges, and it shall, in addition to other duties that the Statute of the Judiciary may confer upon it:

I – ensure that the Judicial Branch is autonomous and that the Statute of the Judiciary is complied with, and it may issue regulatory acts within its jurisdiction, or recommend measures;

II – ensure that article 37 is complied with, and examine, ex officio or upon request, the legality of administrative acts carried out by members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, and it may revoke or review them, or stipulate a deadline for the adoption of the necessary measures to achieve due execution of the law, without prejudice to the powers of the Federal Audit Court;

III – receive and examine complaints against members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, including against its ancillary services, clerical offices, and bodies in charge of notary and registration services which operate by virtue of Government delegation or have been made official, without prejudice to the courts' disciplinary competence and their power to correct administrative acts, and it may order that pending disciplinary proceedings be forwarded to the National Council of Justice, determine the removal, placement on paid availability, or retirement with compensation or pension in proportion to the length of service, and enforce other administrative sanctions, full defense being ensured;

IV – present a formal charge to the Public Prosecution, in the case of crime against public administration or abuse of authority;

V – review, ex officio or upon request, disciplinary proceedings against judges and members of courts tried in the preceding twelve months;

VI – prepare a twice-a-year statistical report on proceedings and judgements rendered per unit of the Federation in the various bodies of the Judicial Branch;

VII – prepare a yearly report, including the measures it deems necessary, on the State of the Judicial Branch in the Country and on the Council's activities, which report must be an integral part of a message to be forwarded by the Chief Justice of the Federal Supreme Court to the National Congress upon the opening of the legislative session.

Paragraph 5. The Justice of the Superior Court of Justice shall occupy the position of Corregidor-Justice, in charge of internal affairs, and he shall be excluded from the assignment of proceedings in said Court, the following duties being incumbent upon him, in addition to those that may be conferred upon him by the Statute of the Judiciary:

I – to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party regarding judges and judiciary services;

II – to exercise executive functions of the Council concerning inspection and general correction;

III – to requisition and appoint judges, charging them with specific duties, and to requisition court employees, including in the States, the Federal District, and the Territories.

Paragraph 6. The Attorney General of the Republic and the Chairman of the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association shall be competent to petition before the Council.

Paragraph 7. The Union shall establish Justice ombudsman's offices, including in the Federal District and in the Territories, with powers to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party against members or bodies of the Judicial Branch, or against their ancillary services, thus presenting formal charges directly to the National Council of Justice."

"Article 111-A. The Superior Labour Court shall be composed of twenty-seven Justices, chosen from among Brazilians over thirty-five and under sixty-five years of age, appointed by the President of the Republic after approval by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate, as follows:

I – one-fifth from among lawyers effectively practicing their professional activity for more than ten years and from among members of the Labour Public Prosecution with over ten years of effective exercise, with due regard for the provisions of article 94;
 II – the others, from among career judges of the Regional Labour Courts, nominated by the Superior Labour Court.

Paragraph 1. The law shall make provisions for the powers of the Superior Labour Court.

Paragraph 2. The following shall operate in conjunction with the Superior Labour Court:

I – the National School for the Education and Further Development of Labour Judges, which shall have the duty, among others, to regulate the official courses for admission into and promotion in the career;
 II – the Higher Council of Labour Justice, which shall, under the terms of the law, exercise administrative, budgetary, financial, and property supervision over Labour Courts of first and second instances, in the quality of central body of the system, whose decisions shall have a binding effect.”

“Article 130-A. The National Council of the Public Prosecution is composed of fourteen members appointed by the President of the Republic, after their nomination has been approved by the absolute majority of the Federal Senate, for a two-year term of office, one reappointment being permitted, as follows:

I – the Attorney-General of the Republic, who chairs the Council;

II – four members of the Public Prosecution of the Union, representing each one of its careers;

III – three members of the Public Prosecution of the States;

IV – two judges, one of whom nominated by the Federal Supreme Court and the other one by the Superior Court of Justice;

V – two lawyers, nominated by the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association;

VI – two citizens of notable juridical learning and spotless reputation, one of whom nominated by the Chamber of Deputies and the other one by the Federal Senate.

Paragraph 1. The members of the Council who are members of the Public Prosecution shall be nominated by their respective bodies, under the terms of the law.

Paragraph 2. It is incumbent upon the National Council of the Public Prosecution to control the administrative and financial operation of the Public Prosecution and the proper discharge of official duties by its members, and it shall:

I – ensure that the Public Prosecution is autonomous in its operation and administration, and it may issue regulatory acts within its jurisdiction, or recommend measures;

II – ensure that article 37 is complied with, and examine, ex officio or upon request, the legality of administrative acts carried out by members or bodies of the Public Prosecution of the Union and of the States, and it may revoke or review them, or stipulate a deadline for the adoption of the necessary measures to achieve due execution of the law, without prejudice to the powers of Audit Courts;

III – receive and examine complaints against members or bodies of the Public Prosecution of the Union or of the States, including against their ancillary services, without prejudice to such institutions’ disciplinary competence and their power to correct administrative acts, and it may order that pending disciplinary proceedings be forwarded to the National Council of the Public Prosecution, determine the removal, placement on paid availability, or retirement with compensation or pension in proportion to the length of service, and enforce other administrative sanctions, full defense being ensured;

IV – review, ex officio or upon request, disciplinary proceedings against members of the Public Prosecution of the Union or of the States tried in the preceding twelve months;

V – prepare a yearly report, including the measures it deems necessary, on the State of the Public Prosecution in the Country and on the Council’s activities, which report must be an integral part of the message referred to in article 84, item XI.

Paragraph 3. The Council shall, by means of secret voting, choose a national Corregidor, from among the members of the Public Prosecution who compose the Council, reappointment being forbidden, and the following duties shall be incumbent upon him, in addition to those that may be conferred upon him by law:

I – to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party regarding members of the Public Prosecution and its ancillary services;

II – to exercise executive functions of the Council concerning inspection and general correction;
 III – to requisition and appoint members of the Public Prosecution, delegating specific duties to such members, and to requisition employees of Public Prosecution bodies.

Paragraph 4. The Chairman of the Federal Board of the Brazilian Bar Association shall be competent to petition before the Council.

Paragraph 5. Federal and State legislation shall establish ombudsman's offices for the Public Prosecution, with powers to receive complaints and accusations from any interested party against members or bodies of the Public Prosecution, including against their ancillary services, thus presenting formal charges directly to the National Council of the Public Prosecution."

Article 3. The law shall establish the Fund to Guarantee the Execution of Labour Claims, made up of fines imposed by labour and administrative judgements arising from the supervision of labour relations, in addition to other revenues.

Article 4. Existing State Courts of Appeals are hereby abolished, and their members shall henceforth become members of the Courts of Justice of their respective States, with due regard for their seniority and original class.

Sole paragraph. The Courts of Justice shall, within one hundred and eighty days as from the date this Amendment is enacted, effect the integration of members of abolished courts into their own staff, by means of an administrative act, stipulating their duties and forwarding to the Legislative Branch, within the same time period, a proposal to alter the corresponding judiciary organization and division, with due regard for the rights of retirees and pensioners and for the reassignment of civil servants to the State Judicial Branch.

Article 5. The National Council of Justice and the National Council of the Public Prosecution shall be installed within one hundred and eighty days as from the date this Amendment is enacted, and the nomination or appointment of their members must be effected no later than thirty days before such deadline.

Paragraph 1. If the nominations and appointments for the National Council of Justice and the National Council of the Public Prosecution are not effected within the time period set forth in the head paragraph of this article, it shall be incumbent upon the Federal Supreme Court and the Federal Public Prosecution, respectively, to effect such nominations and appointments.

Paragraph 2. Until such time as the Statute of the Judiciary comes into force, the National Council of Justice shall, by means of a resolution, regulate its own operation and define the duties of the Corregidor-Justice.

Article 6. CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 62, 2009

Alters article 100 of the Federal Constitution and adds article 97 to the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, to establish a special regime for States, the Federal District, and Municipalities to effect court-ordered debt payments.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, enact the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 100. Payments owed by the federal, State, Federal District, or Municipal treasuries, by virtue of a court decision, shall be made exclusively in chronological order of submission of court orders and charged to the respective credits, it being forbidden to designate cases or persons in the budgetary appropriations and in the additional credits opened for such purpose.

Paragraph 1. Support-related debts include those arising from wages, salaries, pay, pensions, and their supplementations, social security benefits and compensation for death and disability, such compensation being based on civil liability, by virtue of a final and unappealable judicial decision, and shall be paid before any other debts, except those referred to in paragraph 2 of this article.

Paragraph 2. Support-related debts owed to persons aged 60 (sixty) or over on the date the respective court order is issued, or to persons with serious diseases, as defined by law, shall be paid before any other debts, up to an amount equivalent to three times the amount stipulated by law for the purposes of paragraph 3 of this article, parceling for such end being permitted, whereas the remaining amount shall be paid according to the chronological order of submission of respective court order.

Paragraph 3. The provision contained in the head paragraph of this article, regarding the issuance of court orders, does not apply to obligations defined by law as small amounts, which must be paid by the treasuries herein referred to by virtue of a final and unappealable court decision.

Paragraph 4. For the purposes of the provision of paragraph 3, different amounts may be stipulated for the federating units through their own legislation and according to their various economic capabilities, whereas the minimum amount shall be equal to the amount of the highest benefit paid by the general Social Security scheme.

Paragraph 5. It is mandatory for the budgets of the federating units to include the funds required for payment of debts arising from final and unappealable judicial decisions, stated in court orders submitted until or on July 1, and payment shall be made before the close of the subsequent fiscal year, on which date their amounts shall be adjusted for inflation.

Paragraph 6. The budgetary allocations and the credits opened shall be assigned to the Judicial Power, it being within the competence of the Presiding Judge of the Court which rendered the decision of execution to determine full payment and to authorize – upon petition of a creditor and exclusively in the event that his right of precedence is not respected or that the amount necessary to satisfy the debt has not been set aside – attachment of the respective amount.

Paragraph 7. The Presiding Judge of the appropriate Court who, by means of an act or omission, delays or attempts to frustrate the regular payment of a court-ordered debt shall be liable to crime of malversation and shall also appear before the National Council of Justice.

Paragraph 8. The issuance of a court order as a supplementation to or in addition to an amount already paid, as well as the parceling, apportionment, or reduction of the amount under execution – so that the provision of paragraph 3 may be applied to a portion of the total amount – are forbidden.

Paragraph 9. At the time a court order is issued, irrespective of the relevant regulation, there shall be deducted from such court order, for the purpose of a set-off, an amount corresponding to clear legal debits, either registered or not under debts in execution and attributed to the original creditor by the Treasury in debt, including future accruing installments of parcelings, save for those whose execution has been stayed by virtue of administrative or judicial challenge.

Paragraph 10. Before a court order is issued, the relevant court shall request that the Treasury in debt must provide, within 30 (thirty) days, otherwise subject to loss of the right to offset, information on the debits which meet the conditions stipulated in paragraph 9, for the purposes set forth in said paragraph.

Paragraph 11. In accordance with legislation of the federating unit in debt, a creditor may employ court order credits to purchase public property belonging to the respective federating unit.

Paragraph 12. As from the date Constitutional Amendment No. 62 is enacted, the amounts stated in court orders, after such court orders are issued up until effective payment, irrespective of their nature, shall be adjusted according to the official rate applied to savings accounts, whereas, for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment, simple interest will be applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts, the employment of compensatory interest being excluded.

Paragraph 13. Creditors may assign their court order credits, in whole or in part, to third parties, irrespective of consent by the debtor, and the provisions of Paragraphs 2 and 3 shall not be applied to the assignee.

Paragraph 14. Assignment of court order credits shall only produce effects after communication to the court of origin and to the federating unit in debt by filing a relevant petition.

Paragraph 15. Without prejudice to the provisions of this article, a supplementary law to this Federal Constitution may establish a special regime for the payment of court-ordered debts owed by States, the Federal District, and Municipalities, providing for earmarked net current revenues and for payment term and methods.

Paragraph 16. The Federal Government may, at its own discretion and under the terms of relevant law, take on debts resulting from court orders issued against a State, the Federal District, or a Municipality, and refinance them directly.”

Article 2. The Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall henceforth include the following article 97:

“Article 97. Up until the supplementary law referred to in paragraph 15 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution is enacted, the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities which, on the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62, have not yet effected payment of past due court-ordered debts regarding their respective direct and indirect administration, including court orders issued during the period the special regime instituted by this article is in force, shall effect such payments in accordance with the rules set forth in this article, whereas the provisions of article 100 of this Federal Constitution shall not be applicable, save for its paragraphs 2, 3, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14, and without prejudice to conciliation agreements already formalized by the date of publication of Constitutional Amendment No. 62.

Paragraph 1. The States, the Federal District, and Municipalities subject to the special regime set forth in this article shall, by means of an Executive Power act, opt for either:

I – depositing the amount referred to in paragraph 2 of this article into a special account; or

II – adopting the special regime for a period of up to 15 (fifteen) years, in which case the percentage to be deposited into the special account referred to in paragraph 2 of this article shall be equivalent to the total yearly balance of court-ordered debts, increased by the official rate applied to savings accounts and by simple interest applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment – the employment of compensatory interest being excluded, reduced by any paid amount, and divided by the remaining number of years in the special regime of payment.

Paragraph 2. In order to pay up both its past due and future accruing court-ordered debts through the special regime, the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt shall effect a monthly deposit into a special account created for such purpose, of 1/12 (one twelfth) of the amount calculated as a percentage of the respective net current revenues, as computed in the second month preceding the month of payment, whereas such percentage, calculated at the time of opting for the special regime and kept unchanged through the end of the period referred to in paragraph 14 of this article, shall be equal to:

I – in the case of the States and of the Federal District:

- a) at least 1.5% (one whole and five tenths per cent), for the States of the North, Northeast, and Centre-West regions, in addition to the Federal District, or for those States where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to up to 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the total net current revenues;
- b) at least 2% (two per cent), for the States of the South and Southeast Regions, where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to over 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues;

II – in the case of Municipalities:

- a) at least 1% (one per cent), for Municipalities of the North, Northeast, and Centre-West regions, or for those Municipalities where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to up to 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues;
- b) at least 1.5% (one whole and five tenths per cent), for Municipalities of the South and Southeast Regions, where the backlog of court orders owed by their respective direct and indirect administration corresponds to over 35% (thirty-five per cent) of the net current revenues.

Paragraph 3. For the purposes of this article, net current revenues mean the total sum of tax, industry, and agriculture revenues, property income, revenues from contributions and from services, current transfers, and other current revenues, including those deriving from paragraph 1 of article 20 of the Federal Constitution, such total sum being computed in the period including the reference month and the 11 (eleven) preceding months, excluding any double counting but at the same time deducting:

I – in the case of the States, the portions remitted to the Municipalities as set forth by the Constitution;
 II – in the case of the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities, the contribution paid by respective employees to fund their own social security and social assistance system, as well as revenues deriving from the financial offsetting referred to in paragraph 9 of article 201 of the Federal Constitution.

Paragraph 4. The special accounts referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be managed by the respective Court of Justice, for payment of judicial orders issued by courts.

Paragraph 5. The funds deposited into the special accounts referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article may not be returned to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt.

Paragraph 6. At least 50% (fifty per cent) of the funds referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article shall be used to pay court orders according to their chronological order of submission, with due regard for the priorities defined in paragraph 1 of article 100 – in the case of court orders of one same year, and in paragraph 2 – in the case of court orders of all years.

Paragraph 7. If it is not possible to ascertain the chronological priority between 2 (two) court orders, the court order stating the smallest amount shall be paid first.

Paragraph 8. The employment of the remaining funds shall depend on option to be effected by the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, through an Executive Power act, in accordance with the following modes, which may be applied either separately or simultaneously:

I – payment of court orders by means of auctions;
 II – payment in cash of court orders not paid up under the terms of paragraph 6 and of item I, in a single, increasing order of respective amounts;
 III – payment through direct agreement with creditors, under the terms of law specific to each federating unit in debt, which may provide for the establishment and mode of operation of conciliation panels.

Paragraph 9. The following shall apply to the auctions referred to in item I of paragraph 8 of this article:

I – auctions shall be carried out through an electronic system managed by an entity authorized by the Brazilian Securities and Exchange Commission (CVM) or by the Central Bank of Brazil;

II – court orders – or a installment of a court order amount as designated by its holder – with respect to which no appeal or challenge of any nature whatsoever is pending within the Judicial Power shall be qualified to take part in an auction, whereas, at the initiative of the Executive Power, it will be permitted to offset court-order debt payments against clear legal debts, either registered or not under debts in execution and attributed to the original debtor by the Treasury in debt up to the date of issuance of respective court order, save for those whose enforceability has been stayed under the terms of the law, or which have already been subject to deduction under the terms of paragraph 9 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution;

III – auctions will be effected through public offer to all creditors qualified by the respective federating unit in debt;

IV – any creditor who meets the requirements of item II shall be considered automatically qualified;
 V – auctions shall be carried out as many times as necessary to meet the available amount;

VI – inclusion of an installment of the total amount in an auction will be effected at the discretion of respective creditor, at an abatement in the amount of the installment;

VII – auctions shall take the form of debt abatement, associated with the largest volume offered – either cumulated or not with the highest percentage of abatement, according to the highest percentage of abatement, in which case the maximum amount per creditor may be stipulated, or according to another criterion to be defined in a public call notice;

VIII – the price formation mechanism shall be stated in the public call notices issued for each auction;

IX – the payment in part of a court order shall be ratified by the court which issued said court order.

Paragraph 10. Should the funds referred to in item II of paragraph 1 and in paragraphs 2 and 6 of this article not be made available in due time:

I – there shall be effected attachment of the relevant amount in the accounts belonging to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, by order of the Presiding Judge of the Court referred to in paragraph 4, up to the limit of the amount not made available;

II – there shall be established, as an alternative, by order of the Presiding Judge of the relevant Court, in favor of creditors of court orders, against the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, a clear legal right – self-enforceable and irrespective of regulation – to automatic offsetting against clear debits attributed to said creditors by such debtors, whereas, there being a balance in favor of a creditor, such amount shall automatically be deductible from the taxes owed to the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt, up to the offsetting limits;

III – the head of respective Executive Power shall be held liable under the terms of the legislation on fiscal responsibility and administrative dishonesty;

IV – for as long as non-compliance prevails, the federating unit in debt:

a) shall not be allowed to raise loans at home or abroad;

b) shall not be entitled to receive voluntary transfers;

V – the Federal Government shall not effect the remittances regarding the Revenue Sharing Fund of the States and the Federal District and the Revenue Sharing Fund of Municipalities, depositing them instead into the special accounts referred to in paragraph 1 of this article, whereas the employment of such amounts must comply with paragraph 5 of this article.

Paragraph 11. As regards a court order concerning several creditors in a joinder of parties, the court of origin of said court order may dismember the total amount per creditor, and each creditor may participate in an auction with the total amount such creditor is entitled to, the rule set forth in paragraph 3 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution not being applicable to such case.

Paragraph 12. Should the legislation referred to in paragraph 4 of article 100 not be enacted within 180 (one hundred and eighty) days as from the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62, the following amounts shall prevail for the relevant purposes, for the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt which have failed to regulate the matter:

I – 40 (forty) monthly minimum wages in the case of States and the Federal District;

II – 30 (thirty) monthly minimum wages in the case of Municipalities.

Paragraph 13. During the period in which the States, the Federal District, and Municipalities in debt are effecting payment of court orders through the special regime, they may not be subject to attachment of amounts, except when the funds referred to in item II of paragraph 1 and in paragraph 2 of this article are not made available in due time.

Paragraph 14. The special regime for payment of court orders set forth in item I of paragraph 1 of this article shall be in force for as long as the amount of court-ordered debts is higher than the amount of funds earmarked under the terms of paragraph 2 of this article, or for a fixed period of 15 (fifteen) years in the case of the option referred to in item II of paragraph 1.

Paragraph 15. Court-ordered debts divided into installments under the terms of article 33 or article 78 of this Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act and whose payment is still pending shall be included in the special regime with the amount of all pending installments being updated, whereas the balance of any judicial and extrajudicial agreements shall also be included in the special regime.

Paragraph 16. As from the date Constitutional Amendment No. 62 is enacted, the amounts stated in court orders, up until effective payment, irrespective of their nature, shall be adjusted according to the official rate applied to savings accounts, whereas, for the purpose of compensation of delay in the payment, simple interest will be applied at the same percentage of interest applied to savings accounts, the employment of compensatory interest being excluded.

Paragraph 17. While the special regime is in force, any amount in excess of the limit set forth in paragraph 2 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall be paid in accordance with paragraphs 6 and 7 or with items I, II, and III of paragraph 8 of this article, whereas the amounts used to meet the provision of paragraph 2 of article 100 of the Federal Constitution shall be computed for the purposes of paragraph 6 of this article.

Paragraph 18. While the special regime referred to in this article is in effect, the original holders of court orders who have reached the age of 60 (sixty) years old by the date of enactment of Constitutional Amendment No. 62 shall also be entitled to the priority referred to in paragraph 6.”

Article 3. The payment regime created by article 97 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act shall be implemented within 90 (ninety days) as from the date of enactment of this Constitutional Amendment No. 62.

Article 4. A federating unit shall obey only the provisions of article 100 of the Federal Constitution:

I – in the case of option for the system set forth in item I of paragraph 1 of article 97 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, should the amount of court-ordered debts be lower than the amount of funds earmarked to pay them;

II – in the case of option for the system set forth in item II of paragraph 1 of article 97 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, upon expiration of relevant period.

Article 5. Any assignment of court order credits effected before the enactment of this Constitutional Amendment No. 62, irrespective of consent by the federating unit in debt, is hereby confirmed.

Article 6. Any offsetting of court-ordered debt payments against taxes owed to a debtor federating unit and due up to October 31, 2009, effected under the terms of paragraph 2 of article 78 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, and before the enactment of this Constitutional Amendment No. 62, is hereby confirmed.

Article 7. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 79, 2014

Alters the wording of article 31 of Constitutional Amendment No. 19, of June 4, 1998, to provide for the inclusion, in a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services, of employees and members of the uniformed police force included in the Amapá and Rondônia State Government personnel during the stage of installation of these units of the federation, and makes further provisions.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, enact the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Article 31 of Constitutional Amendment No. 19, of June 4, 1998, shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 31. The public employees of federal governmental entities and of entities owned by the Federal Government, the local administration employees, and the members of the uniformed police force of the former federal Territories of Amapá and Roraima, who, subject to the presentation of proof, were regularly exercising their functions and rendering services to those former Territories on the date they were transformed into States, the employees and members of the uniformed police force who were legally included in the Amapá and Rondônia State Government personnel in the period between the transformation and the effective installation of such States in October 1993 and, furthermore, the employees in these States whose employment status has already been acknowledged by the Union shall, at their option, be included in a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services.

Paragraph 1. The inclusion in a special job class as referred to in the head paragraph, in the case of employees or members of the uniformed police force who were legally included in the State government personnel between the transformation and the installation of the States in October 1993 shall be effected in the post in which such employees were first placed or in an equivalent post.

Paragraph 2. The members of the uniformed police force referred to in the head paragraph shall go on rendering services to their respective States, in the quality of detailed personnel, subject to the legal provisions that govern their respective uniformed police corps, with due regard for compatibility between the duties of their function and their rank in the hierarchy and for their right to due promotion.

Paragraph 3. The employees referred to in the head paragraph shall go on rendering services to their respective States and Municipalities, in the quality of detailed personnel, up until they are placed in a federal government entity, associate government agency, or foundation.”

Article 2. For the purpose of inclusion in a special job class as referred to in the head paragraph of article 31 of Constitutional Amendment No. 19, of June 4, 1998, and in the head paragraph of article 89 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, the employment status before the Union, of the employees who were legally included in the personnel of Municipalities of the former Territories of Amapá, Roraima, and Rondônia, in effective exercise on the date of transformation of such Territories into States, is hereby acknowledged.

Article 3. The employees of the former Territories of Amapá, Roraima, and Rondônia who were incorporated into a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services shall be placed in posts with equivalent or similar duties, that are part of the job and career progression scheme of the Union, at the level of progression they have already attained, being ensured of their specific rights, advantages, and levels of remuneration.

Article 4. The Union shall, within 180 (one hundred and eighty) days as from the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment, regulate the inclusion, in a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services, of employees as established in article 31 of Constitutional Amendment No. 19, of June 4, 1998, and in article 89 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act.

Sole paragraph. Should the Union not regulate the inclusion provided for in the head paragraph, any opting employee shall be entitled to retroactive payment of any remuneration differences as from the deadline for the regulation referred to in this article.

Article 5. The option to be incorporated into a special job class to be eventually terminated within the federal government services, as per article 31 of Constitutional Amendment No. 19, of June 4, 1998, and in article 89 of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions Act, shall be formalized by interested employees and members of uniformed police forces before administration officials, within 180 (one hundred and eighty) days as from the regulation provided for in article 4.

Article 6. Those employees who were legally hired and who were, subject to the presentation of proof, exercising police functions in the Departments of Public Security of the former Territories of Amapá, Roraima, and Rondônia on the date they were transformed into States shall be included in the personnel of the Civil Police of such former Territories, within 180 (one hundred and eighty) days, being ensured of their specific rights, advantages, and levels of remuneration.

Article 7. Those employees legally included by the Union in the Careers of the Taxation, Collection, and Supervision Group referred to in Law No. 6,550, of July 5, 1978, detailed to the States of Amapá, Roraima, and Rondônia, are ensured of the same remuneration rights obtained by the members of the corresponding Careers of the Taxation, Collection, and Supervision Group of the Union referred to in Law No. 5,645, of December 10, 1970.

Article 8. Any retirement pay, pension, military retirement pay, and remunerated reserve pay, arising in the period of October 1988 to October 1993, shall be funded by the Union as from the date of publication of this Constitutional Amendment, whereas the payment, under any circumstances, of amounts regarding periods prior to such publication shall be forbidden.

Article 9. The payment, under any circumstances, by virtue of the alterations entailed by this Constitutional Amendment, of remunerations, pay, pensions, or compensation regarding periods prior to the date of inclusion in a special job class to be eventually terminated, except as provided for in the sole paragraph of article 4, shall be forbidden.

Article 10. This Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication.

Alters articles 165, 166, and 198 of the Federal Constitution so as to make it mandatory to implement the budget appropriations it specifies.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, enact the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Articles 165, 166, and 198 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 165. [...]

Paragraph 9[...]

III – provide for criteria for an equitable implementation, in addition to procedures to be adopted in the event of legal and technical impediments, payment of carryovers, and limits to appropriations of a mandatory nature, for realization of the provisions of paragraph 11 of article 166.”

“Article 166. [...]

Paragraph 9. Individual amendments to the budget bill shall be approved up to the limit of one and two tenths percent (1.2%) of the net current revenue set forth in the bill forwarded by the Executive Branch, and half of such percentage shall be assigned to public health actions and services.

Paragraph 10. The amount spent in public health actions and services as set forth in paragraph 9, including current spending, shall be taken into account for purposes of compliance with article 198, paragraph 2, item I, it being forbidden to assign such amount to the payment of personnel expenditures or social charges.

Paragraph 11. The budget execution and the financial implementation of the appropriations referred to in paragraph 9 of this article are mandatory, in an amount corresponding to one and two tenths percent (1.2%) of the net current revenue realized in the previous fiscal year, as per the criteria for equitable execution of appropriations as defined in the supplementary law set forth in paragraph 9 of article 165.

Paragraph 12. The budget appropriations set forth in paragraph 9 of this article shall not be subject to mandatory execution in the cases of impediments of a technical nature.

Paragraph 13. When the mandatory transfer from the Union, for the execution of the appropriations set forth in paragraph 11 of this article, is intended for the States, the Federal District, and the Municipalities, it shall not depend upon the fulfillment of obligations by the recipient unit of the federation, and it shall not be included in the assessment basis of the net current revenue for purposes of application of the limits of expenditure on personnel referred to in the head paragraph of article 169.

Paragraph 14. In the event of an impediment of a technical nature, for financial commitments regarding expenditures included in the appropriations, under the terms of paragraph 11 of this article, the following measures shall be adopted:

I – within one hundred twenty (120) days after the publication of the Budgetary Law, the Executive Branch, the Legislative Branch, the Judicial Branch, the Public Prosecution Service, and the Public Legal Defense shall forward to the Legislative Branch the justification for the impediment;

II – within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item I, the Legislative Branch shall recommend to the Executive Branch the reallocation of the appropriations whose impediment is insurmountable;

III – by September 30 or within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item II, the Executive Branch shall forward a bill of law on the reallocation of the appropriations whose impediment is insurmountable;

IV – if, by November 20 or within thirty (30) days after the deadline set forth in item III, the National Congress has not resolved upon the bill, the reallocation shall be implemented by an act of the Executive Branch, under the terms of the budgetary law.

Paragraph 15. After the deadline set forth in item IV of paragraph 14, the budget appropriations stipulated in paragraph 11 shall not be subject to mandatory execution in the cases of impediments justified in the notification referred to in item I of paragraph 14.

Paragraph 16. Carryovers may be taken into account for purposes of compliance with the amount of outlays set forth in paragraph 11 of this article, up to the limit of six tenths of one percent (0.6%) of the net current revenue realized in the previous fiscal year.

Paragraph 17. Should it be found that reestimating the revenue and the expenditure may lead to non-compliance with the targeted fiscal result established in the law of budgetary directives, the amount set forth in paragraph 11 of this article may be reduced by up to the same proportion of the limit applicable to all discretionary spending.

Paragraph 18. The execution of appropriations of a mandatory nature is deemed equitable if it meets, on an equal and impersonal basis, the purpose of the amendments presented, regardless of who their sponsors are.”

“Article 198. [...]

Paragraph 2. [...]

I – in the case of the Union, the net current revenue of the respective fiscal year, and it may not be lower than fifteen percent (15%);

[...]

Paragraph 3. [...]

I – the percentages referred to in items II and III of paragraph 2;

[...]

IV – (revoked).

[...]”

Article 2. The provisions of article 198, paragraph 2, item I, of the Federal Constitution shall be applied in a progressive manner, guaranteeing, at least:

I – thirteen and two tenths percent (13.2%) of the net current revenue in the first fiscal year following the year in which this Constitutional Amendment is published;

I – thirteen and seven tenths percent (13.7%) of the net current revenue in the second fiscal year following the year in which this Constitutional Amendment is published;

III – fourteen and one tenth percent (14.1%) of the net current revenue in the third fiscal year following the year in which this Constitutional Amendment is published;

III – fourteen and five tenths percent (14.5%) of the net current revenue in the fourth fiscal year following the year in which this Constitutional Amendment is published;

V – fifteen percent (15%) of the net current revenue in the fifth fiscal year following the year in which this Constitutional Amendment is published.

Article 3. Expenditures on public health actions and services paid for from the Union funds deriving from participation in the results of the exploitation of petroleum and natural gas, or from financial compensation for the exploitation thereof, referred to in paragraph 1 of article 20 of the Federal Constitution, shall be taken into account for purposes of compliance with the provisions of article 198, paragraph 2, item I, of the Federal Constitution.

Article 4. This Constitutional Amendment shall come into force on the date of its publication and shall produce effects as from the budget implementation of fiscal year 2014.

Article 5. Item IV of paragraph 3 of article 198 of the Federal Constitution is hereby revoked.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 87, 2015

Alters paragraph 2 of article 155 of the Federal Constitution and adds article 99 to the Act of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions to address the collection of taxes on transactions relating to the circulation of goods and to the rendering of interstate and interMunicipal transportation services, as well as communication services, levied on the transactions and rendering of goods and services to end-users located in another State, whether it is incumbent upon them to pay that tax or not.

The Directing Boards of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Federal Senate, under the terms of paragraph 3 of article 60 of the Federal Constitution, enact the following Amendment to the constitutional text:

Article 1. Items VII and VIII of paragraph 2 of article 155 of the Federal Constitution shall henceforth read as follows:

“Article 155 [...]

Paragraph 2 [...]

VII – the interstate rate applies to the transactions and rendering of goods and services to end-users located in another State, whether it is incumbent upon them to pay that tax or not. The State where the recipient is located will collect the tax corresponding to the difference between the internal rate charged in the recipient State and the interstate rate.

a) (revoked)

b) (revoked)

VIII – the responsibility for the collection of the tax corresponding to the difference between the internal rate and the interstate rate referred to in item VII will be assigned to:

a) the recipient, when it is incumbent upon the recipient to pay that tax;

b) the remitter, when it is not incumbent upon the recipient to pay that tax;

[...]”

Article 2. The Act of the Temporary Constitutional Provisions shall henceforth include the following article 99:

“Article 99. For the purposes of the provisions in item VII of paragraph 2 of article 155, in the case of transactions and renderings of goods and services to end-users located in another State, who are not taxpayers, the taxes corresponding to the difference between the internal rate and the interstate rate will be shared between the State of origin and the State of destination, in the following proportions:
I – for the year 2015: 20% (twenty per cent) for the State of destination and 80% (eighty per cent) for the State of origin;

II – for the year 2016: 40% (forty per cent) for the State of destination and 60% (sixty per cent) for the State of origin;

III – for the year 2017: 60% (sixty per cent) for the State of destination and 40% (forty per cent) for the State of origin;

IV – for the year 2018: 80% (eighty per cent) for the State of destination and 20% (twenty per cent) for the State of origin;

V – as of year 2019: 100% (one hundred per cent) for the State of destination.”

CONVENTION ON THE RIGHTS OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES³³

PREAMBLE

The States Parties to the present Convention,

a. Recalling the principles proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations which recognize the inherent dignity and worth and the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family as the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world, b. Recognizing that the United Nations, in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and in the International Covenants on Human Rights, has proclaimed and agreed that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth therein, without distinction of any kind,

c. Reaffirming the universality, indivisibility, interdependence and interrelatedness of all human rights and fundamental freedoms and the need for persons with disabilities to be guaranteed their full enjoyment without discrimination,

d. Recalling the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, the Convention on the Rights of the Child, and the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families,

e. Recognizing that disability is an evolving concept and that disability results from the interaction between persons with impairments and attitudinal and environmental barriers that hinders their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others,

f. Recognizing the importance of the principles and policy guidelines contained in the World Programme of Action concerning Disabled Persons and in the Standard Rules on the Equalization of Opportunities for Persons with Disabilities in influencing the promotion, formulation and evaluation of the policies, plans, programmes and actions at the national, regional and international levels to further equalize opportunities for persons with disabilities,

g. Emphasizing the importance of mainstreaming disability issues as an integral part of relevant strategies of sustainable development,

h. Recognizing also that discrimination against any person on the basis of disability is a violation of the inherent dignity and worth of the human person,

i. Recognizing further the diversity of persons with disabilities,

33. Source: Annex 1, Final report of the Ad Hoc Committee on a Comprehensive and Integral International Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Rights and Dignity of Persons with Disabilities.

j. Recognizing the need to promote and protect the human rights of all persons with disabilities, including those who require more intensive support,

k. Concerned that, despite these various instruments and undertakings, persons with disabilities continue to face barriers in their participation as equal members of society and violations of their human rights in all parts of the world,

l. Recognizing the importance of international cooperation for improving the living conditions of persons with disabilities in every country, particularly in developing countries,

m. Recognizing the valued existing and potential contributions made by persons with disabilities to the overall well-being and diversity of their communities, and that the promotion of the full enjoyment by persons with disabilities of their human rights and fundamental freedoms and of full participation by persons with disabilities will result in their enhanced sense of belonging and in significant advances in the human, social and economic development of society and the eradication of poverty,

n. Recognizing the importance for persons with disabilities of their individual autonomy and independence, including the freedom to make their own choices,

o. Considering that persons with disabilities should have the opportunity to be actively involved in decision-making processes about policies and programmes, including those directly concerning them,

p. Concerned about the difficult conditions faced by persons with disabilities who are subject to multiple or aggravated forms of discrimination on the basis of race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic, indigenous or social origin, property, birth, age or other status,

q. Recognizing that women and girls with disabilities are often at greater risk, both within and outside the home of violence, injury or abuse, neglect or negligent treatment, maltreatment or exploitation,

r. Recognizing that children with disabilities should have full enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal basis with other children, and recalling obligations to that end undertaken by States Parties to the Convention on the Rights of the Child,

s. Emphasizing the need to incorporate a gender perspective in all efforts to promote the full enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms by persons with disabilities,

t. Highlighting the fact that the majority of persons with disabilities live in conditions of poverty, and in this regard recognizing the critical need to address the negative impact of poverty on persons with disabilities,

u. Bearing in mind that conditions of peace and security based on full respect for the purposes and principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations and observance of applicable human rights instruments are indispensable for the full protection of persons with disabilities, in particular during armed conflicts and foreign occupation,

v. Recognizing the importance of accessibility to the physical, social, economic and cultural environment, to health and education and to information and communication, in enabling persons with disabilities to fully enjoy all human rights and fundamental freedoms,

w. Realizing that the individual, having duties to other individuals and to the community to which he or she belongs, is under a responsibility to strive for the promotion and observance of the rights recognized in the International Bill of Human Rights,

x. Convinced that the family is the natural and fundamental group unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State, and that persons with disabilities and their family members should receive the necessary protection and assistance to enable families to contribute towards the full and equal enjoyment of the rights of persons with disabilities,

y. Convinced that a comprehensive and integral international convention to promote and protect the rights and dignity of persons with disabilities will make a significant contribution to redressing the profound social disadvantage of persons with disabilities and promote their participation in the civil, political, economic, social and cultural spheres with equal opportunities, in both developing and developed countries,

Have agreed as follows:

Article 1 – Purpose

The purpose of the present Convention is to promote, protect and ensure the full and equal enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms by all persons with disabilities, and to promote respect for their inherent dignity.

Persons with disabilities include those who have long-term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairments which in interaction with various barriers may hinder their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others.

Article 2 – Definitions

For the purposes of the present Convention:

“Communication” includes languages, display of text, Braille, tactile communication, large print, accessible multimedia as well as written, audio, plain-language, human-reader and augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication, including accessible information and communication technology;

“Language” includes spoken and signed languages and other forms of non spoken languages;

“Discrimination on the basis of disability” means any distinction, exclusion or restriction on the basis of disability which has the purpose or effect of impairing or nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise, on an equal basis with others, of all human rights and fundamental freedoms in the political, economic, social, cultural, civil or any other field. It includes all forms of discrimination, including denial of reasonable accommodation;

“Reasonable accommodation” means necessary and appropriate modification and adjustments not imposing a disproportionate or undue burden, where needed in a particular case, to ensure to persons with disabilities the enjoyment or exercise on an equal basis with others of all human rights and fundamental freedoms;

“Universal design” means the design of products, environments, programmes and services to be usable by all people, to the greatest extent possible, without the need for adaptation or specialized design. “Universal design” shall not exclude assistive devices for particular groups of persons with disabilities where this is needed.

Article 3 – General principles

The principles of the present Convention shall be:

- a. Respect for inherent dignity, individual autonomy including the freedom to make one’s own choices, and independence of persons;
- b. No-discrimination;
- c. Full and effective participation and inclusion in society;
- d. Respect for difference and acceptance of persons with disabilities as part of human diversity and humanity;
- e. Equality of opportunity;
- f. Accessibility;

- g. Equality between men and women;
- h. Respect for the evolving capacities of children with disabilities and respect for the right of children with disabilities to preserve their identities.

Article 4 – General obligations

1. States Parties undertake to ensure and promote the full realization of all human rights and fundamental freedoms for all persons with disabilities without discrimination of any kind on the basis of disability. To this end, States Parties undertake:

- a. To adopt all appropriate legislative, administrative and other measures for the implementation of the rights recognized in the present Convention;
- b. To take all appropriate measures, including legislation, to modify or abolish existing laws, regulations, customs and practices that constitute discrimination against persons with disabilities;
- c. To take into account the protection and promotion of the human rights of persons with disabilities in all policies and programmes;
- d. To refrain from engaging in any act or practice that is inconsistent with the present Convention and to ensure that public authorities and institutions act in conformity with the present Convention;
- e. To take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination on the basis of disability by any person, organization or private enterprise;
- f. To undertake or promote research and development of universally designed goods, services, equipment and facilities, as defined in article 2 of the present Convention, which should require the minimum possible adaptation and the least cost to meet the specific needs of a person with disabilities, to promote their availability and use, and to promote universal design in the development of standards and guidelines;
- g. To undertake or promote research and development of, and to promote the availability and use of new technologies, including information and communications technologies, mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies, suitable for persons with disabilities, giving priority to technologies at an affordable cost;
- h. To provide accessible information to persons with disabilities about mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies, including new technologies, as well as other forms of assistance, support services and facilities;
- i. To promote the training of professionals and staff working with persons with disabilities in the rights recognized in this Convention so as to better provide the assistance and services guaranteed by those rights.

2. With regard to economic, social and cultural rights, each State Party undertakes to take measures to the maximum of its available resources and, where needed, within the framework of international cooperation, with a view to achieving progressively the full realization of these rights, without prejudice to those obligations contained in the present Convention that are immediately applicable according to international law.

3. In the development and implementation of legislation and policies to implement the present Convention, and in other decision-making processes concerning issues relating to persons with disabilities, States Parties shall closely consult with and actively involve persons with disabilities, including children with disabilities, through their representative organizations.

4. Nothing in the present Convention shall affect any provisions which are more conducive to the realization of the rights of persons with disabilities and which may be contained in the law of a State Party or international law in force for that State. There shall be no restriction upon or derogation from any of the human rights and fundamental freedoms recognized or existing in any State Party to the present Convention pursuant to law, conventions, regulation or custom on the pretext that the present Convention does not recognize such rights or freedoms or that it recognizes them to a lesser extent.

5. The provisions of the present Convention shall extend to all parts of federal States without any limitations or exceptions.

Article 5 – Equality and non-discrimination

1. States Parties recognize that all persons are equal before and under the law and are entitled without any discrimination to the equal protection and equal benefit of the law.

2. States Parties shall prohibit all discrimination on the basis of disability and guarantee to persons with disabilities equal and effective legal protection against discrimination on all grounds.

3. In order to promote equality and eliminate discrimination, States Parties shall take all appropriate steps to ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided.

4. Specific measures which are necessary to accelerate or achieve de facto equality of persons with disabilities shall not be considered discrimination under the terms of the present Convention.

bilities shall not be considered discrimination under the terms of the present Convention.

Article 6 – Women with disabilities

1. States Parties recognize that women and girls with disabilities are subject to multiple discrimination, and in this regard shall take measures to ensure the full and equal enjoyment by them of all human rights and fundamental freedoms.

2. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure the full development, advancement and empowerment of women, for the purpose of guaranteeing them the exercise and enjoyment of the human rights and fundamental freedoms set out in the present Convention.

Article 7 – Children with disabilities

1. States Parties shall take all necessary measures to ensure the full enjoyment by children with disabilities of all human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal basis with other children.

2. In all actions concerning children with disabilities, the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration.

3. States Parties shall ensure that children with disabilities have the right to express their views freely on all matters affecting them, their views being given due weight in accordance with their age and maturity, on an equal basis with other children, and to be provided with disability and age-appropriate assistance to realize that right.

Article 8 – Awareness-raising

1. States Parties undertake to adopt immediate, effective and appropriate measures:

- a. To raise awareness throughout society, including at the family level, regarding persons with disabilities, and to foster respect for the rights and dignity of persons with disabilities;
- b. To combat stereotypes, prejudices and harmful practices relating to persons with disabilities, including those based on sex and age, in all areas of life;
- c. To promote awareness of the capabilities and contributions of persons with disabilities.

2. Measures to this end include:

- a. Initiating and maintaining effective public awareness campaigns designed:
 - i. To nurture receptiveness to the rights of persons with disabilities;
 - ii. To promote positive perceptions and greater social awareness towards persons with disabilities;

- iii. To promote recognition of the skills, merits and abilities of persons with disabilities, and of their contributions to the workplace and the labour market;
- b. Fostering at all levels of the education system, including in all children from an early age, an attitude of respect for the rights of persons with disabilities;
- c. Encouraging all organs of the media to portray persons with disabilities in a manner consistent with the purpose of the present Convention;
- d. Promoting awareness-training programmes regarding persons with disabilities and the rights of persons with disabilities.

Article 9 – Accessibility

1. To enable persons with disabilities to live independently and participate fully in all aspects of life, States Parties shall take appropriate measures to ensure to persons with disabilities access, on an equal basis with others, to the physical environment, to transportation, to information and communications, including information and communications technologies and systems, and to other facilities and services open or provided to the public, both in urban and in rural areas. These measures, which shall include the identification and elimination of obstacles and barriers to accessibility, shall apply to, inter alia:
 - a. Buildings, roads, transportation and other indoor and outdoor facilities, including schools, housing, medical facilities and workplaces;
 - b. Information, communications and other services, including electronic services and emergency services.
2. States Parties shall also take appropriate measures to:
 - a. Develop, promulgate and monitor the implementation of minimum standards and guidelines for the accessibility of facilities and services open or provided to the public;
 - b. Ensure that private entities that offer facilities and services which are open or provided to the public take into account all aspects of accessibility for persons with disabilities;
 - c. Provide training for stakeholders on accessibility issues facing persons with disabilities;
 - d. Provide in buildings and other facilities open to the public signage in Braille and in easy to read and understand forms;
 - e. Provide forms of live assistance and intermediaries, including guides, readers and professional sign language interpreters, to facilitate accessibility to buildings and other facilities open to the public;

- f. Promote other appropriate forms of assistance and support to persons with disabilities to ensure their access to information;
- g. Promote access for persons with disabilities to new information and communications technologies and systems, including the Internet;
- h. Promote the design, development, production and distribution of accessible information and communications technologies and systems at an early stage, so that these technologies and systems become accessible at minimum cost.

Article 10 – Right to life

States Parties reaffirm that every human being has the inherent right to life and shall take all necessary measures to ensure its effective enjoyment by persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others.

Article 11 – Situations of risk and humanitarian emergencies

States Parties shall take, in accordance with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law, all necessary measures to ensure the protection and safety of persons with disabilities in situations of risk, including situations of armed conflict, humanitarian emergencies and the occurrence of natural disasters.

Article 12 – Equal recognition before the law

1. States Parties reaffirm that persons with disabilities have the right to recognition everywhere as persons before the law.
2. States Parties shall recognize that persons with disabilities enjoy legal capacity on an equal basis with others in all aspects of life.
3. States Parties shall take appropriate measures to provide access by persons with disabilities to the support they may require in exercising their legal capacity.
4. States Parties shall ensure that all measures that relate to the exercise of legal capacity provide for appropriate and effective safeguards to prevent abuse in accordance with international human rights law. Such safeguards shall ensure that measures relating to the exercise of legal capacity respect the rights, will and preferences of the person, are free of conflict of interest and undue influence, are proportional and tailored to the person's circumstances, apply for the shortest time possible and are subject to regular review by a competent, independent and impartial authority or judicial body. The safeguards shall be proportional to the degree to which such measures affect the person's rights and interests.

5. Subject to the provisions of this article, States Parties shall take all appropriate and effective measures to ensure the equal right of persons with disabilities to own or inherit property, to control their own financial affairs and to have equal access to bank loans, mortgages and other forms of financial credit, and shall ensure that persons with disabilities are not arbitrarily deprived of their property.

Article 13 – Access to justice

1. States Parties shall ensure effective access to justice for persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others, including through the provision of procedural and age-appropriate accommodations, in order to facilitate their effective role as direct and indirect participants, including as witnesses, in all legal proceedings, including at investigative and other preliminary stages.

2. In order to help to ensure effective access to justice for persons with disabilities, States Parties shall promote appropriate training for those working in the field of administration of justice, including police and prison staff.

Article 14 – Liberty and security of the person

1. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others:

- a. Enjoy the right to liberty and security of person;
- b. Are not deprived of their liberty unlawfully or arbitrarily, and that any deprivation of liberty is in conformity with the law, and that the existence of a disability shall in no case justify a deprivation of liberty.

2. States Parties shall ensure that if persons with disabilities are deprived of their liberty through any process, they are, on an equal basis with others, entitled to guarantees in accordance with international human rights law and shall be treated in compliance with the objectives and principles of this Convention, including by provision of reasonable accommodation.

Article 15 – Freedom from torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment

1. No one shall be subjected to torture or to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. In particular, no one shall be subjected without his or her free consent to medical or scientific experimentation.

2. States Parties shall take all effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others, from being subjected to torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

Article 16 – Freedom from exploitation, violence and abuse

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate legislative, administrative, social, educational and other measures to protect persons with disabilities, both within and outside the home, from all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse, including their gender-based aspects.

2. States Parties shall also take all appropriate measures to prevent all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse by ensuring, inter alia, appropriate forms of gender- and age-sensitive assistance and support for persons with disabilities and their families and caregivers, including through the provision of information and education on how to avoid, recognize and report instances of exploitation, violence and abuse. States Parties shall ensure that protection services are age-, gender- and disability-sensitive.

3. In order to prevent the occurrence of all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse, States Parties shall ensure that all facilities and programmes designed to serve persons with disabilities are effectively monitored by independent authorities.

4. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to promote the physical, cognitive and psychological recovery, rehabilitation and social reintegration of persons with disabilities who become victims of any form of exploitation, violence or abuse, including through the provision of protection services. Such recovery and reintegration shall take place in an environment that fosters the health, welfare, self-respect, dignity and autonomy of the person and takes into account gender- and age-specific needs.

5. States Parties shall put in place effective legislation and policies, including women – and child-focused legislation and policies, to ensure that instances of exploitation, violence and abuse against persons with disabilities are identified, investigated and, where appropriate, prosecuted.

Article 17 – Protecting the integrity of the person

Every person with disabilities has a right to respect for his or her physical and mental integrity on an equal basis with others.

Article 18 – Liberty of movement and nationality

1. States Parties shall recognize the rights of persons with disabilities to liberty of movement, to freedom to choose their residence and to a nationality, on an equal basis with others, including by ensuring that persons with disabilities:

- a. Have the right to acquire and change a nationality and are not deprived of their nationality arbitrarily or on the basis of disability;
 - b. Are not deprived, on the basis of disability, of their ability to obtain, possess and utilize documentation of their nationality or other documentation of identification, or to utilize relevant processes such as immigration proceedings, that may be needed to facilitate exercise of the right to liberty of movement;
 - c. Are free to leave any country, including their own;
 - d. Are not deprived, arbitrarily or on the basis of disability, of the right to enter their own country.
2. Children with disabilities shall be registered immediately after birth and shall have the right from birth to a name, the right to acquire a nationality and, as far as possible, the right to know and be cared for by their parents.

Article 19 – Living independently and being included in the community

States Parties to this Convention recognize the equal right of all persons with disabilities to live in the community, with choices equal to others, and shall take effective and appropriate measures to facilitate full enjoyment by persons with disabilities of this right and their full inclusion and participation in the community, including by ensuring that:

- a. Persons with disabilities have the opportunity to choose their place of residence and where and with whom they live on an equal basis with others and are not obliged to live in a particular living arrangement;
- b. Persons with disabilities have access to a range of in-home, residential and other community support services, including personal assistance necessary to support living and inclusion in the community, and to prevent isolation or segregation from the community;
- c. Community services and facilities for the general population are available on an equal basis to persons with disabilities and are responsive to their needs.

Article 20 – Personal mobility

States Parties shall take effective measures to ensure personal mobility with the greatest possible independence for persons with disabilities, including by:

- a. Facilitating the personal mobility of persons with disabilities in the manner and at the time of their choice, and at affordable cost;

- b. Facilitating access by persons with disabilities to quality mobility aids, devices, assistive technologies and forms of live assistance and intermediaries, including by making them available at affordable cost;
- c. Providing training in mobility skills to persons with disabilities and to specialist staff working with persons with disabilities;
- d. Encouraging entities that produce mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies to take into account all aspects of mobility for persons with disabilities.

Article 21 – Freedom of expression and opinion, and access to information

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that persons with disabilities can exercise the right to freedom of expression and opinion, including the freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas on an equal basis with others and through all forms of communication of their choice, as defined in article 2 of the present Convention, including by:

- a. Providing information intended for the general public to persons with disabilities in accessible formats and technologies appropriate to different kinds of disabilities in a timely manner and without additional cost;
- b. Accepting and facilitating the use of sign languages, Braille, augmentative and alternative communication, and all other accessible means, modes and formats of communication of their choice by persons with disabilities in official interactions;
- c. Urging private entities that provide services to the general public, including through the Internet, to provide information and services in accessible and usable formats for persons with disabilities;
- d. Encouraging the mass media, including providers of information through the Internet, to make their services accessible to persons with disabilities;
- e. Recognizing and promoting the use of sign languages.

Article 22 – Respect for privacy

1. No person with disabilities, regardless of place of residence or living arrangements, shall be subjected to arbitrary or unlawful interference with his or her privacy, family, home or correspondence or other types of communication or to unlawful attacks on his or her honour and reputation. Persons with disabilities have the right to the protection of the law against such interference or attacks.

2. States Parties shall protect the privacy of personal, health and rehabilitation information of persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others.

Article 23 – Respect for home and the family

1. States Parties shall take effective and appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against persons with disabilities in all matters relating to marriage, family, parenthood and relationships, on an equal basis with others, so as to ensure that:

- a. The right of all persons with disabilities who are of marriageable age to marry and to found a family on the basis of free and full consent of the intending spouses is recognized;
- b. The rights of persons with disabilities to decide freely and responsibly on the number and spacing of their children and to have access to age-appropriate information, reproductive and family planning education are recognized, and the means necessary to enable them to exercise these rights are provided;
- c. Persons with disabilities, including children, retain their fertility on an equal basis with others.

2. States Parties shall ensure the rights and responsibilities of persons with disabilities, with regard to guardianship, wardship, trusteeship, adoption of children or similar institutions, where these concepts exist in national legislation; in all cases the best interests of the child shall be paramount. States Parties shall render appropriate assistance to persons with disabilities in the performance of their child-rearing responsibilities.

3. States Parties shall ensure that children with disabilities have equal rights with respect to family life. With a view to realizing these rights, and to prevent concealment, abandonment, neglect and segregation of children with disabilities, States Parties shall undertake to provide early and comprehensive information, services and support to children with disabilities and their families.

4. States Parties shall ensure that a child shall not be separated from his or her parents against their will, except when competent authorities subject to judicial review determine, in accordance with applicable law and procedures, that such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child. In no case shall a child be separated from parents on the basis of a disability of either the child or one or both of the parents.

5. States Parties shall, where the immediate family is unable to care for a child with disabilities, undertake every effort to provide alternative care within the wider family, and failing that, within the community in a family setting.

Article 24 – Education

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to education. With a view to realizing this right without discrimination and on the basis of equal opportunity, States Parties shall ensure an inclusive education system at all levels and life long learning directed to:

- a. The full development of human potential and sense of dignity and self-worth, and the strengthening of respect for human rights, fundamental freedoms and human diversity;
- b. The development by persons with disabilities of their personality, talents and creativity, as well as their mental and physical abilities, to their fullest potential;
- c. Enabling persons with disabilities to participate effectively in a free society.

2. In realizing this right, States Parties shall ensure that:

- a. Persons with disabilities are not excluded from the general education system on the basis of disability, and that children with disabilities are not excluded from free and compulsory primary education, or from secondary education, on the basis of disability;
- b. Persons with disabilities can access an inclusive, quality and free primary education and secondary education on an equal basis with others in the communities in which they live;
- c. Reasonable accommodation of the individual's requirements is provided;
- d. Persons with disabilities receive the support required, within the general education system, to facilitate their effective education;
- e. Effective individualized support measures are provided in environments that maximize academic and social development, consistent with the goal of full inclusion.

3. States Parties shall enable persons with disabilities to learn life and social development skills to facilitate their full and equal participation in education and as members of the community. To this end, States Parties shall take appropriate measures, including:

- a. Facilitating the learning of Braille, alternative script, augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication and orientation and mobility skills, and facilitating peer support and mentoring;

b. Facilitating the learning of sign language and the promotion of the linguistic identity of the deaf community;

c. Ensuring that the education of persons, and in particular children, who are blind, deaf or deafblind, is delivered in the most appropriate languages and modes and means of communication for the individual, and in environments which maximize academic and social development.

4. In order to help ensure the realization of this right, States Parties shall take appropriate measures to employ teachers, including teachers with disabilities, who are qualified in sign language and/or Braille, and to train professionals and staff who work at all levels of education. Such training shall incorporate disability awareness and the use of appropriate augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication, educational techniques and materials to support persons with disabilities.

5. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities are able to access general tertiary education, vocational training, adult education and lifelong learning without discrimination and on an equal basis with others. To this end, States Parties shall ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided to persons with disabilities.

Article 25 – Health

States Parties recognize that persons with disabilities have the right to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health without discrimination on the basis of disability. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure access for persons with disabilities to health services that are gender-sensitive, including health-related rehabilitation. In particular, States Parties shall:

a. Provide persons with disabilities with the same range, quality and standard of free or affordable health care and programmes as provided to other persons, including in the area of sexual and reproductive health and population-based public health programmes;

b. Provide those health services needed by persons with disabilities specifically because of their disabilities, including early identification and intervention as appropriate, and services designed to minimize and prevent further disabilities, including among children and older persons;

c. Provide these health services as close as possible to people's own communities, including in rural areas;

d. Require health professionals to provide care of the same quality to persons with disabilities as to others, including on the basis of free and informed consent by, inter alia, raising awareness of the human rights, dignity, autonomy and needs of persons with disabilities through training and the promulgation of ethical standards for public and private health care;

e. Prohibit discrimination against persons with disabilities in the provision of health insurance, and life insurance where such insurance is permitted by national law, which shall be provided in a fair and reasonable manner;

f. Prevent discriminatory denial of health care or health services or food and fluids on the basis of disability.

Article 26 – Habilitation and rehabilitation

1. States Parties shall take effective and appropriate measures, including through peer support, to enable persons with disabilities to attain and maintain maximum independence, full physical, mental, social and vocational ability, and full inclusion and participation in all aspects of life. To that end, States Parties shall organize, strengthen and extend comprehensive habilitation and rehabilitation services and programmes, particularly in the areas of health, employment, education and social services, in such a way that these services and programmes:

a. Begin at the earliest possible stage, and are based on the multidisciplinary assessment of individual needs and strengths;

b. Support participation and inclusion in the community and all aspects of society, are voluntary, and are available to persons with disabilities as close as possible to their own communities, including in rural areas.

2. States Parties shall promote the development of initial and continuing training for professionals and staff working in habilitation and rehabilitation services.

3. States Parties shall promote the availability, knowledge and use of assistive devices and technologies, designed for persons with disabilities, as they relate to habilitation and rehabilitation.

Article 27 – Work and employment

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to work, on an equal basis with others; this includes the right to the opportunity to gain a living by work freely chosen or accepted in a labour market and work environment that is open, inclusive and accessible to persons with disabilities. States Parties shall safeguard and promote the realization of the right to work, including for those who acquire a disability during the course of employment, by taking appropriate steps, including through legislation, to, inter alia:

- a. Prohibit discrimination on the basis of disability with regard to all matters concerning all forms of employment, including conditions of recruitment, hiring and employment, continuance of employment, career advancement and safe and healthy working conditions;
 - b. Protect the rights of persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others, to just and favourable conditions of work, including equal opportunities and equal remuneration for work of equal value, safe and healthy working conditions, including protection from harassment, and the redress of grievances;
 - c. Ensure that persons with disabilities are able to exercise their labour and trade union rights on an equal basis with others;
 - d. Enable persons with disabilities to have effective access to general technical and vocational guidance programmes, placement services and vocational and continuing training;
 - e. Promote employment opportunities and career advancement for persons with disabilities in the labour market, as well as assistance in finding, obtaining, maintaining and returning to employment;
 - f. Promote opportunities for self-employment, entrepreneurship, the development of cooperatives and starting one's own business;
 - g. Employ persons with disabilities in the public sector;
 - h. Promote the employment of persons with disabilities in the private sector through appropriate policies and measures, which may include affirmative action programmes, incentives and other measures;
 - i. Ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided to persons with disabilities in the workplace;
 - j. Promote the acquisition by persons with disabilities of work experience in the open labour market;
 - k. Promote vocational and professional rehabilitation, job retention and return-to-work programmes for persons with disabilities.
2. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities are not held in slavery or in servitude, and are protected, on an equal basis with others, from forced or compulsory labour.

Article 28 – Adequate standard of living and social protection

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to an adequate standard of living for themselves and their families, including adequate food, clothing and housing, and to the continuous improvement of living conditions, and shall take appropriate steps to safeguard and promote the realization of this right without discrimination on the basis of disability.

2. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to social protection and to the enjoyment of that right without discrimination on the basis of disability, and shall take appropriate steps to safeguard and promote the realization of this right, including measures:

- a. To ensure equal access by persons with disabilities to clean water services, and to ensure access to appropriate and affordable services, devices and other assistance for disability-related needs;
- b. To ensure access by persons with disabilities, in particular women and girls with disabilities and older persons with disabilities, to social protection programmes and poverty reduction programmes;
- c. To ensure access by persons with disabilities and their families living in situations of poverty to assistance from the State with disability-related expenses, including adequate training, counselling, financial assistance and respite care;
- d. To ensure access by persons with disabilities to public housing programmes;
- e. To ensure equal access by persons with disabilities to retirement benefits and programmes.

Article 29 – Participation in political and public life

States Parties shall guarantee to persons with disabilities political rights and the opportunity to enjoy them on an equal basis with others, and shall undertake to:

- a. Ensure that persons with disabilities can effectively and fully participate in political and public life on an equal basis with others, directly or through freely chosen representatives, including the right and opportunity for persons with disabilities to vote and be elected, inter alia, by:
 - i. Ensuring that voting procedures, facilities and materials are appropriate, accessible and easy to understand and use;
 - ii. Protecting the right of persons with disabilities to vote by secret ballot in elections and public referendums without intimidation, and to stand for elections, to effectively hold office and perform all public functions at all levels of government, facilitating the use of assistive and new technologies where appropriate;

- iii. Guaranteeing the free expression of the will of persons with disabilities as electors and to this end, where necessary, at their request, allowing assistance in voting by a person of their own choice;
- b. Promote actively an environment in which persons with disabilities can effectively and fully participate in the conduct of public affairs, without discrimination and on an equal basis with others, and encourage their participation in public affairs, including:
 - i. Participation in non-governmental organizations and associations concerned with the public and political life of the country, and in the activities and administration of political parties;
 - ii. Forming and joining organizations of persons with disabilities to represent persons with disabilities at international, national, regional and local levels.

Article 30 – Participation in cultural life, recreation, leisure and sport

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to take part on an equal basis with others in cultural life, and shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that persons with disabilities:
 - a. Enjoy access to cultural materials in accessible formats;
 - b. Enjoy access to television programmes, films, theatre and other cultural activities, in accessible formats;
 - c. Enjoy access to places for cultural performances or services, such as theatres, museums, cinemas, libraries and tourism services, and, as far as possible, enjoy access to monuments and sites of national cultural importance.
2. States Parties shall take appropriate measures to enable persons with disabilities to have the opportunity to develop and utilize their creative, artistic and intellectual potential, not only for their own benefit, but also for the enrichment of society.
3. States Parties shall take all appropriate steps, in accordance with international law, to ensure that laws protecting intellectual property rights do not constitute an unreasonable or discriminatory barrier to access by persons with disabilities to cultural materials.
4. Persons with disabilities shall be entitled, on an equal basis with others, to recognition and support of their specific cultural and linguistic identity, including sign languages and deaf culture.

5. With a view to enabling persons with disabilities to participate on an equal basis with others in recreational, leisure and sporting activities, States Parties shall take appropriate measures:
 - a. To encourage and promote the participation, to the fullest extent possible, of persons with disabilities in mainstream sporting activities at all levels;
 - b. To ensure that persons with disabilities have an opportunity to organize, develop and participate in disability-specific sporting and recreational activities and, to this end, encourage the provision, on an equal basis with others, of appropriate instruction, training and resources;
 - c. To ensure that persons with disabilities have access to sporting, recreational and tourism venues;
 - d. To ensure that children with disabilities have equal access with other children to participation in play, recreation and leisure and sporting activities, including those activities in the school system;
 - e. To ensure that persons with disabilities have access to services from those involved in the organization of recreational, tourism, leisure and sporting activities.

Article 31 – Statistics and data collection

1. States Parties undertake to collect appropriate information, including statistical and research data, to enable them to formulate and implement policies to give effect to the present Convention. The process of collecting and maintaining this information shall:
 - a. Comply with legally established safeguards, including legislation on data protection, to ensure confidentiality and respect for the privacy of persons with disabilities;
 - b. Comply with internationally accepted norms to protect human rights and fundamental freedoms and ethical principles in the collection and use of statistics.
2. The information collected in accordance with this article shall be disaggregated, as appropriate, and used to help assess the implementation of States Parties' obligations under the present Convention and to identify and address the barriers faced by persons with disabilities in exercising their rights.
3. States Parties shall assume responsibility for the dissemination of these statistics and ensure their accessibility to persons with disabilities and others.

Article 32 – International cooperation

1. States Parties recognize the importance of international cooperation and its promotion, in support of national efforts for the realization of the purpose and objectives of the present Convention, and will undertake appropriate and effective measures in this regard, between and among States and, as appropriate, in partnership with relevant international and regional organizations and civil society, in particular organizations of persons with disabilities. Such measures could include, inter alia:

- a. Ensuring that international cooperation, including international development programmes, is inclusive of and accessible to persons with disabilities;
- b. Facilitating and supporting capacity-building, including through the exchange and sharing of information, experiences, training programmes and best practices;
- c. Facilitating cooperation in research and access to scientific and technical knowledge;
- d. Providing, as appropriate, technical and economic assistance, including by facilitating access to and sharing of accessible and assistive technologies, and through the transfer of technologies.

2. The provisions of this article are without prejudice to the obligations of each State Party to fulfil its obligations under the present Convention.

Article 33 – National implementation and monitoring

1. States Parties, in accordance with their system of organization, shall designate one or more focal points within government for matters relating to the implementation of the present Convention, and shall give due consideration to the establishment or designation of a coordination mechanism within government to facilitate related action in different sectors and at different levels.

2. States Parties shall, in accordance with their legal and administrative systems, maintain, strengthen, designate or establish within the State Party, a framework, including one or more independent mechanisms, as appropriate, to promote, protect and monitor implementation of the present Convention. When designating or establishing such a mechanism, States Parties shall take into account the principles relating to the status and functioning of national institutions for protection and promotion of human rights.

3. Civil society, in particular persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, shall be involved and participate fully in the monitoring process.

Article 34 – Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

1. There shall be established a Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (hereafter referred to as “the Committee”), which shall carry out the functions hereinafter provided.

2. The Committee shall consist, at the time of entry into force of the present Convention, of twelve experts. After an additional sixty ratifications or accessions to the Convention, the membership of the Committee shall increase by six members, attaining a maximum number of eighteen members.

3. The members of the Committee shall serve in their personal capacity and shall be of high moral standing and recognized competence and experience in the field covered by the present Convention. When nominating their candidates, States Parties are invited to give due consideration to the provision set out in article 4.3 of the present Convention.

4. The members of the Committee shall be elected by States Parties, consideration being given to equitable geographical distribution, representation of the different forms of civilization and of the principal legal systems, balanced gender representation and participation of experts with disabilities.

5. The members of the Committee shall be elected by secret ballot from a list of persons nominated by the States Parties from among their nationals at meetings of the Conference of States Parties. At those meetings, for which two thirds of States Parties shall constitute a quorum, the persons elected to the Committee shall be those who obtain the largest number of votes and an absolute majority of the votes of the representatives of States Parties present and voting.

6. The initial election shall be held no later than six months after the date of entry into force of the present Convention. At least four months before the date of each election, the Secretary-General of the United Nations shall address a letter to the States Parties inviting them to submit the nominations within two months. The Secretary-General shall subsequently prepare a list in alphabetical order of all persons thus nominated, indicating the State Parties which have nominated them, and shall submit it to the States Parties to the present Convention.

7. The members of the Committee shall be elected for a term of four years. They shall be eligible for re-election once. However, the term of six of the members elected at the first election shall expire at the end of two years; immediately after the first election, the names of these six members shall be chosen by lot by the chairperson of the meeting referred to in paragraph 5 of this article.

8. The election of the six additional members of the Committee shall be held on the occasion of regular elections, in accordance with the relevant provisions of this article.

9. If a member of the Committee dies or resigns or declares that for any other cause she or he can no longer perform her or his duties, the State Party which nominated the member shall appoint another expert possessing the qualifications and meeting the requirements set out in the relevant provisions of this article, to serve for the remainder of the term.

10. The Committee shall establish its own rules of procedure.

11. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall provide the necessary staff and facilities for the effective performance of the functions of the Committee under the present Convention, and shall convene its initial meeting.

12. With the approval of the General Assembly, the members of the Committee established under the present Convention shall receive emoluments from United Nations resources on such terms and conditions as the Assembly may decide, having regard to the importance of the Committee's responsibilities.

13. The members of the Committee shall be entitled to the facilities, privileges and immunities of experts on mission for the United Nations as laid down in the relevant sections of the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations.

Article 35 – Reports by States Parties

1. Each State Party shall submit to the Committee, through the Secretary-General of the United Nations, a comprehensive report on measures taken to give effect to its obligations under the present Convention and on the progress made in that regard, within two years after the entry into force of the present Convention for the State Party concerned.

2. Thereafter, States Parties shall submit subsequent reports at least every four years and further whenever the Committee so requests.

3. The Committee shall decide any guidelines applicable to the content of the reports.

4. A State Party which has submitted a comprehensive initial report to the Committee need not, in its subsequent reports, repeat information previously provided. When preparing reports to the Committee, States Parties are invited to consider doing so in an open and transparent process and to give due consideration to the provision set out in article 4.3 of the present Convention.

5. Reports may indicate factors and difficulties affecting the degree of fulfilment of obligations under the present Convention.

Article 36 – Consideration of reports

1. Each report shall be considered by the Committee, which shall make such suggestions and general recommendations on the report as it may consider appropriate and shall forward these to the State Party concerned. The State Party may respond with any information it chooses to the Committee. The Committee may request further information from States Parties relevant to the implementation of the present Convention.

2. If a State Party is significantly overdue in the submission of a report, the Committee may notify the State Party concerned of the need to examine the implementation of the present Convention in that State Party, on the basis of reliable information available to the Committee, if the relevant report is not submitted within three months following the notification. The Committee shall invite the State Party concerned to participate in such examination. Should the State Party respond by submitting the relevant report, the provisions of paragraph 1 of this article will apply.

3. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall make available the reports to all States Parties.

4. States Parties shall make their reports widely available to the public in their own countries and facilitate access to the suggestions and general recommendations relating to these reports.

5. The Committee shall transmit, as it may consider appropriate, to the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations, and other competent bodies, reports from States Parties in order to address a request or indication of a need for technical advice or assistance contained therein, along with the Committee's observations and recommendations, if any, on these requests or indications.

Article 37 – Cooperation between States Parties and the Committee

1. Each State Party shall cooperate with the Committee and assist its members in the fulfilment of their mandate.

2. In its relationship with States Parties, the Committee shall give due consideration to ways and means of enhancing national capacities for the implementation of the present Convention, including through international cooperation.

Article 38 – Relationship of the Committee with other bodies

In order to foster the effective implementation of the present Convention and to encourage international cooperation in the field covered by the present Convention:

- a. The specialized agencies and other United Nations organs shall be entitled to be represented at the consideration of the implementation of such provisions of the present Convention as fall within the scope of their mandate. The Committee may invite the specialized agencies and other competent bodies as it may consider appropriate to provide expert advice on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their respective mandates. The Committee may invite specialized agencies and other United Nations organs to submit reports on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their activities;
- b. The Committee, as it discharges its mandate, shall consult, as appropriate, other relevant bodies instituted by international human rights treaties, with a view to ensuring the consistency of their respective reporting guidelines, suggestions and general recommendations, and avoiding duplication and overlap in the performance of their functions.

Article 39 – Report of the Committee

The Committee shall report every two years to the General Assembly and to the Economic and Social Council on its activities, and may make suggestions and general recommendations based on the examination of reports and information received from the States Parties. Such suggestions and general recommendations shall be included in the report of the Committee together with comments, if any, from States Parties.

Article 40 – Conference of States Parties

1. The States Parties shall meet regularly in a Conference of States Parties in order to consider any matter with regard to the implementation of the present Convention.
2. No later than six months after the entry into force of the present Convention, the Conference of the States Parties shall be convened by the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The subsequent meetings shall be convened by the Secretary-General of the United Nations biennially or upon the decision of the Conference of States Parties.

Article 41 – Depositary

The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall be the depositary of the present Convention.

Article 42 – Signature

The present Convention shall be open for signature by all States and by regional integration organizations at United Nations Headquarters in New York as of 30 March 2007.

Article 43 – Consent to be bound

The present Convention shall be subject to ratification by signatory States and to formal confirmation by signatory regional integration organizations. It shall be open for accession by any State or regional integration organization which has not signed the Convention.

Article 44 – Regional integration organizations

1. “Regional integration organization” shall mean an organization constituted by sovereign States of a given region, to which its member States have transferred competence in respect of matters governed by this Convention. Such organizations shall declare, in their instruments of formal confirmation or accession, the extent of their competence with respect to matters governed by this Convention. Subsequently, they shall inform the depositary of any substantial modification in the extent of their competence.
2. References to “States Parties” in the present Convention shall apply to such organizations within the limits of their competence.
3. For the purposes of article 45, paragraph 1, and article 47, paragraphs 2 and 3, any instrument deposited by a regional integration organization shall not be counted.
4. Regional integration organizations, in matters within their competence, may exercise their right to vote in the Conference of States Parties, with a number of votes equal to the number of their member States that are Parties to this Convention. Such an organization shall not exercise its right to vote if any of its member States exercises its right, and vice versa.

Article 45 – Entry into force

1. The present Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession.

2. For each State or regional integration organization ratifying, formally confirming or acceding to the Convention after the deposit of the twentieth such instrument, the Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of its own such instrument.

Article 46 – Reservations

1. Reservations incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Convention shall not be permitted.
2. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time.

Article 47 – Amendments

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment to the present Convention and submit it to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall communicate any proposed amendments to States Parties, with a request to be notified whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and deciding upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of two thirds of the States Parties present and voting shall be submitted by the Secretary-General to the General Assembly for approval and thereafter to all States Parties for acceptance.
2. An amendment adopted and approved in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the number of instruments of acceptance deposited reaches two thirds of the number of States Parties at the date of adoption of the amendment. Thereafter, the amendment shall enter into force for any State Party on the thirtieth day following the deposit of its own instrument of acceptance. An amendment shall be binding only on those States Parties which have accepted it.
3. If so decided by the Conference of States Parties by consensus, an amendment adopted and approved in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article which relates exclusively to articles 34, 38, 39 and 40 shall enter into force for all States Parties on the thirtieth day after the number of instruments of acceptance deposited reaches two thirds of the number of States Parties at the date of adoption of the amendment.

Article 48 – Denunciation

A State Party may denounce the present Convention by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The denunciation shall become effective one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

Article 49 – Accessible format

The text of the present Convention shall be made available in accessible formats.

Article 50 – Authentic texts

The Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts of the present Convention shall be equally authentic.

In witness thereof the undersigned plenipotentiaries, being duly authorized thereto by their respective Governments, have signed the present Convention.

OPTIONAL PROTOCOL TO THE CONVENTION ON THE RIGHTS OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

The States Parties to the present Protocol have agreed as follows :

Article 1

1. A State Party to the present Protocol (“State Party”) recognizes the competence of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (“the Committee”) to receive and consider communications from or on behalf of individuals or groups of individuals subject to its jurisdiction who claim to be victims of a violation by that State Party of the provisions of the Convention.

2. No communication shall be received by the Committee if it concerns a State Party to the Convention that is not a party to the present Protocol.

Article 2

The Committee shall consider a communication inadmissible when:

- (a) The communication is anonymous;
- (b) The communication constitutes an abuse of the right of submission of such communications or is incompatible with the provisions of the Convention;
- (c) The same matter has already been examined by the Committee or has been or is being examined under another procedure of international investigation or settlement;
- (d) All available domestic remedies have not been exhausted. This shall not be the rule where the application of the remedies is unreasonably prolonged or unlikely to bring effective relief;
- (e) It is manifestly ill-founded or not sufficiently substantiated; or when

(f) The facts that are the subject of the communication occurred prior to the entry into force of the present Protocol for the State Party concerned unless those facts continued after that date.

Article 3

Subject to the provisions of article 2 of the present Protocol, the Committee shall bring any communications submitted to it confidentially to the attention of the State Party. Within six months, the receiving State shall submit to the Committee written explanations or statements clarifying the matter and the remedy, if any, that may have been taken by that State.

Article 4

1. At any time after the receipt of a communication and before a determination on the merits has been reached, the Committee may transmit to the State Party concerned for its urgent consideration a request that the State Party take such interim measures as may be necessary to avoid possible irreparable damage to the victim or victims of the alleged violation.

2. Where the Committee exercises its discretion under paragraph 1 of this article, this does not imply a determination on admissibility or on the merits of the communication.

Article 5

The Committee shall hold closed meetings when examining communications under the present Protocol. After examining a communication, the Committee shall forward its suggestions and recommendations, if any, to the State Party concerned and to the petitioner.

Article 6

1. If the Committee receives reliable information indicating grave or systematic violations by a State Party of rights set forth in the Convention, the Committee shall invite that State Party to cooperate in the examination of the information and to this end submit observations with regard to the information concerned.

2. Taking into account any observations that may have been submitted by the State Party concerned as well as any other reliable information available to it, the Committee may designate one or more of its members to conduct an inquiry and to report urgently to the Committee. Where warranted and with the consent of the State Party, the inquiry may include a visit to its territory.

3. After examining the findings of such an inquiry, the Committee shall transmit these findings to the State Party concerned together with any comments and recommendations.

4. The State Party concerned shall, within six months of receiving the findings, comments and recommendations transmitted by the Committee, submit its observations to the Committee.

5. Such an inquiry shall be conducted confidentially and the cooperation of the State Party shall be sought at all stages of the proceedings.

Article 7

1. The Committee may invite the State Party concerned to include in its report under article 35 of the Convention details of any measures taken in response to an inquiry conducted under article 6 of the present Protocol.

2. The Committee may, if necessary, after the end of the period of six months referred to in article 6.4, invite the State Party concerned to inform it of the measures taken in response to such an inquiry.

Article 8

Each State Party may, at the time of signature or ratification of the present Protocol or accession thereto, declare that it does not recognize the competence of the Committee provided for in articles 6 and 7.

Article 9

The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall be the depositary of the present Protocol.

Article 10

The present Protocol shall be open for signature by signatory States and regional integration organizations of the Convention at United Nations Headquarters in New York as of 30 March 2007.

Article 11

The present Protocol shall be subject to ratification by signatory States of this Protocol which have ratified or acceded to the Convention. It shall be subject to formal confirmation by signatory regional integration organizations of this Protocol which have formally confirmed or acceded to the Convention. It shall be open for accession by any State or regional integration organization which has ratified, formally confirmed or acceded to the Convention and which has not signed the Protocol.

Article 12

1. “Regional integration organization” shall mean an organization constituted by sovereign States of a given region, to which its member States have transferred competence in respect of matters governed by the Convention and this Protocol. Such organizations shall declare, in their instruments of formal confirmation or accession, the extent of their competence with respect to matters governed by the Convention and this Protocol. Subsequently, they shall inform the depositary of any substantial modification in the extent of their competence.

2. References to “States Parties” in the present Protocol shall apply to such organizations within the limits of their competence.

3. For the purposes of article 13, paragraph 1, and article 15, paragraph 2, any instrument deposited by a regional integration organization shall not be counted.

4. Regional integration organizations, in matters within their competence, may exercise their right to vote in the meeting of States Parties, with a number of votes equal to the number of their member States that are Parties to this Protocol. Such an organization shall not exercise its right to vote if any of its member States exercises its right, and vice versa.

Article 13

1. Subject to the entry into force of the Convention, the present Protocol shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of the tenth instrument of ratification or accession.

2. For each State or regional integration organization ratifying, formally confirming or acceding to the Protocol after the deposit of the tenth such instrument, the Protocol shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of its own such instrument.

Article 14

1. Reservations incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Protocol shall not be permitted.

2. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time.

Article 15

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment to the present Protocol and submit it to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall communicate any proposed amendments to States Parties, with a request to be notified whether they favour a meeting of States Parties for the purpose of considering and deciding upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a meeting, the Secretary-General shall convene the meeting under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of two thirds of the States Parties present and voting shall be submitted by the Secretary-General to the General Assembly for approval and thereafter to all States Parties for acceptance.

2. An amendment adopted and approved in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the number of instruments of acceptance deposited reaches two thirds of the number of States Parties at the date of adoption of the amendment. Thereafter, the amendment shall enter into force for any State Party on the thirtieth day following the deposit of its own instrument of acceptance. An amendment shall be binding only on those States Parties which have accepted it.

Article 16

A State Party may denounce the present Protocol by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The denunciation shall become effective one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

Article 17

The text of the present Protocol shall be made available in accessible formats.

Article 18

The Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts of the present Protocol shall be equally authentic.

In witness thereof the undersigned plenipotentiaries, being duly authorized thereto by their respective Governments, have signed the present Protocol.
